TITLE OF INFORMATION COLLECTION:

Division of Violence Prevention grantee individual interviews regarding VetoViolence.cdc.gov

PURPOSE:

VetoViolence.cdc.gov (Violence Education Tools Online) was developed to be an innovative portal for training and resources that gives practitioners the tools to bridge the gap between science and practice. The site provides a platform for the translation of evidence-based research into interactive and engaging training and tools for practice. VetoViolence is designed primarily for violence prevention practitioners, including state and local health departments, grantees, program evaluators, technical assistance providers, and decision-makers. The site exists to build the capacity of violence prevention initiatives to utilize the current knowledge base to select, implement, and consider research-informed prevention strategies.

The goal will be collect information about how violence prevention grantees have used VetoViolence information to inform their violence prevention work and to identify potential barriers and facilitators related to the grantees' use of VetoViolence.

DESCRIPTION OF RESPONDENTS:

Public health department violence prevention grantees from state and local health departments funded through CDC/Division of Violence Prevention (DVP) programmatic support. This group includes representatives from programs who have an interest/involvement in addressing intimate partner violence (DELTA FOCUS), sexual violence (Rape Prevention Education, RPE), child maltreatment (Essentials for Childhood, Efc) and youth violence (STRYVE) as well as the CDC-funded resource centers, PreventConnect and the National Sexual Violence Resource Center (NSVRC).
