DEFINITION OF "FULL-TIME ATTENDANCE"

For Railroad Retirement Act purposes, students are generally considered to be in full-time attendance in elementary or secondary school courses of at least 13 weeks duration with minimum attendance of 20 hours per week. High school level includes Technical and Vocational courses. The program must be in accordance with the law of the State or other jurisdiction in which the students reside. This includes enrollment in: (1) a public, private, or religious educational institution; (2) an independent study program administered by the school district in which the student resides; or (3) home school elementary or secondary education. This definition agrees with the Social Security Act definition of full-time student.
