

NIH Rockledge Design Team Workplace Aesthetic Survey

NIH Moves: Rockledge I and II Tenant Fit-Out and Relocation

Good afternoon,

We are asking federal employees who will be building occupants and work in the Rockledge 1 and 2 buildings participate in a web-based survey that will help the project management team and the consultant Architect and Interior Designer firm understand the parameters of the interior fit-out requirements across multiple ICs.

The survey provides the Design team with direction and preferences for the renovated Rockledge workplace aesthetic. Survey results establish an aesthetic using descriptive words that describe the character, culture, image and ideals of the Rockledge campus occupants. The survey questions start with occupant selected adjectives to describe the workplace and then seeks common visual references that define these descriptions. The imagery establishes a common visual vocabulary that defines the aesthetic using visualizations unique to the Rockledge Campus community. With the vocabulary, the group can identify possible materials and colors using the visualizations as definitions.

As a valuable member of this team, your responses are important to us and to the success of this new venture.
