Due to the low response rates to the private school components of the 2011-12 Schools and Staffing Survey (SASS), the National Teacher and Principal Survey (NTPS) will not include private schools in its inaugural collection in 2015-16. Two items are proposed to be added to the 2015-16 Private School Universe Survey (PSS). The first is whether the school participates in the federal free or reduced lunch program and how many K-12 students participate. The second is whether or not any students at the school receive Title 1 services and how many K-12 students receive services. The proposed questions are versions of 2011-12 SASS private school items 52 and 53 modified to ask about K-12 students only. NCES is also requesting to conduct a split-panel branding experiment in the 2015-16 PSS to test whether NCES or Census branding results in higher response rates (see the revised Part B). The revised survey and proposed experiment need approval in May 2015, so that the on-line instrument can be reprogrammed and panels selected in time for the 2015 data collection. Additionally, this submission includes a separate memo addressing the terms of clearance associated with the PSS 2013-16 clearance (OMB# 1850-0641 v.5).
