Survey Instrument 4: LinkedIn Members Principles Survey:

(Note: To be administered in the week following the conference, via posting the text and survey link below into the LinkedIn discussion group.)

Text for posting on the CFPB Financial Education Discussion Group on LinkedIn:

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) is developing a set of financial education principles to support financial well-being. We would like to hear your thoughts on the principles and on strategies that financial educators could use to implement the principles in their work. A set of promising strategies was shared with the CFPB by financial educators who attended the CFPB Financial Education Exchange (CFPB FinEx) Conference on September 8, 2016. This collection of information is authorized by Pub. L. No. 111-203, Title X, Sections 1013 and 1022, codified at 12 U.S.C. §§ 5493 and 5512. Your responses will help us to develop a list of implementation strategies for each of the principles. We welcome your responses on the brief survey below. Participation in this survey is voluntary. However, your participation is extremely important to ensure the completeness and accuracy of the results

We will summarize what we hear from you and other CFPB FinEx participants (without information to identify you or others personally) and share this learning with the CFPB FinEx and LinkedIn community.
