DHS Traveler Redress Inquiry Program (DHS TRIP)

The Department of Homeland Security Traveler Redress Inquiry Program (DHS TRIP) is a single point of contact for individuals who have inquiries or seek resolution regarding difficulties they experienced during their travel screening at transportation hubs—like airports and train stations—or crossing U.S. borders. This includes:

- watch list issues
- screening problems at ports of entry
- situations where travelers believe they have been unfairly or incorrectly delayed, denied boarding or identified for additional screening at our nation's transportation hubs

DHS TRIP is part of an effort by the departments of State and Homeland Security to welcome legitimate travelers while still securing our country from those who want to do us harm.

Who Should Use DHS TRIP?

People who have been denied or delayed airline boarding, have been denied or delayed entry into or exit from the U.S. at a port of entry or border crossing, or have been repeatedly referred to additional (secondary) screening can file an inquiry to seek redress.

- Step 1: Should I use DHS TRIP?

How does DHS TRIP work?

DHS TRIP routes your redress request to the appropriate office for review and adjudication. When you apply for redress, you will be assigned a record identifier or Redress Control Number.

You should keep your redress control number. You can use it to look up your complaint status online and to book airline tickets after your complaint is resolved.

- Step 2: How to use DHS TRIP
- Step 3: After your inquiry

How is redress information used?

The Department of Homeland Security safeguards the privacy of any personal information that you provide in your inquiry to DHS TRIP. The information that you provide will be used only to process your request for redress.

- You were told:
 - your fingerprints were incorrect or of poor quality
 - your photo did not match the travel document
 - your personal information was incomplete or inaccurate
 - you are on the "No Fly List"
- You want to
 - amend a traveler record because of an overlay as a result of not submitting the required I-94 when exiting the United States
 - ensure your biometric record created in US-VISIT is removed from Department of Homeland Security systems
- You believe
 - you were unfairly detained during your travel experience or unfairly denied entry into the United States
 - the U.S. government's record of your personal information is inaccurate

More About Screening and Watchlists

What is the terrorist watchlist?

The terrorist watchlist is maintained by the Terrorist Screening Center (TSC), which is administered by the FBI, U.S. Department of Justice, in cooperation with the departments of Homeland Security, Defense, State and Treasury, and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Intelligence and law enforcement agencies nominate individuals for the watchlist based on established criteria.

Two subsets of the terrorist watchlist are the "No Fly" list and "Selectee" list.

- The "No Fly" list includes individuals who are prohibited from boarding an aircraft. You are NOT on the No Fly list if you receive a boarding pass.
- The "Selectee" list includes individuals who must undergo additional security screening before being permitted to board an aircraft.

The Transportation Security Administration (TSA) was created in the wake of 9/11 to strengthen the security of the nation's transportation systems while ensuring the freedom of movement for people and commerce. One of the ways TSA secures transportation systems is screening airline passengers against the No Fly and Selectee lists.

Customs and Border Protection also screens passengers against the terrorist watchlist before admitting travelers to the United States. As part of the inspection process, CBP officers must verify the identity of travelers, determine their admissibility into the U.S., and otherwise ensure compliance with U.S. laws, including looking for possible terrorists, weapons, controlled substances, and a wide variety of other prohibited and restricted items.

A traveler may be referred to secondary inspection for reasons unrelated to CBP's primary mission of keeping dangerous goods and dangerous people out of the U.S. For example, clearance difficulties may result from a traveler's name and/or date of birth residing in state or local law enforcement agency databases. CBP does not have the authority to modify such records and must refer these travelers to secondary inspection.

How do I know if I am on a Government Watchlist?

The U.S. government does not reveal whether a particular person is on or not on a watchlist. If the government revealed this information, terrorist organizations would be able to circumvent the watchlist's purpose by determining in advance which of their members were likely to be questioned or detained.

- Read more information on the Terrorist Screening Center.

Many people erroneously believe that they are experiencing a screening delay because they are on a watchlist. In fact, such delays are often caused merely by a name similarity to another person who is on the watchlist. Ninety-nine percent of individuals who apply for redress are not on the terrorist watchlist, but are misidentified as people who are.

DHS TRIP can help resolve inconveniences resulting from name similarities by providing a Redress Control Number that allows systems to prevent such misidentifications from recurring. Go To Step 2

What factors are used to determine if someone is selected for secondary screening?

Many factors are considered to determine whether to select someone for secondary screening, but for security reasons they cannot be disclosed.

Passengers may be selected for random screening measures during the security screening process; however, if you have been selected for secondary screening on multiple occasions you might be able to use DHS TRIP to resolve issues such as misidentification. Go To Step 2

Foreign Students and Exchange Visitors

If you are a foreign student and exchange visitor, your travel difficulties may be related to the Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS). We encourage you to contact your school official or program sponsor for help resolving difficulties stemming from SEVIS.

DHS TRIP and Your Privacy

The Department of Homeland Security safeguards the privacy of any personal information that you provide in your inquiry to DHS TRIP. Information submitted through DHS TRIP will be protected and will only be shared as described in the documents below:

- System of Records Notice, DHS(AI)-005 Department of Homeland Security Redress and Response Records System (Federal Register), January 18, 2007

How the Information You Submit Will Be Used

The information that you provide will be used to process your request for redress. DHS TRIP may share information about you with airlines or other third parties where necessary to implement the redress resolution.

In very limited circumstances, information from an individual may be shared for reasons not related to the redress process. For example, if a person were to submit information indicating illegal activity, such as providing a fraudulent passport or driver's license, this information may be turned over to appropriate authorities for proper investigation. In addition, information may be shared with the National Archives and Records Administration for proper handling of government records or when specifically relevant to litigation involving the federal government or when necessary to protect the person who provided the information from the harm of identity theft in the case of a data breach affecting this system.

Step 3: After Your Inquiry

We recommend that you e-mail your completed form and copies of documents to trip@dhs.gov. If your attachments exceed 10 MB, they will be rejected due to size. If necessary, please send separate e-mails with attachments using the same subject line.

- If you mail your documents, it may take 10-15 business days to receive your submission due to federal government mail screening requirements.
- After filing online, you will be asked to provide supporting documentation within 30 days.
- Please submit your additional documentation well before the 30-day deadline to speed processing your request. Please submit this documentation via e-mail to trip@dhs.gov. If your attachments exceed 10 MB, they will be rejected due to size.
- Once your documentation is received, DHS TRIP will process your request.

Delays in receiving required documentation will cause delays in processing.

Redress Control Number

When you submit your DHS TRIP Traveler Inquiry Form, the DHS TRIP system automatically assigns you a Redress Control Number. You will be able to use this number to track the status of your inquiry. After your inquiry is completed, you will also be able to use the number when you make an airline reservation.

When you make an airline reservation, provide your redress number when requested by your travel arranger or airline representative, or when prompted by an interactive reservation system. This will enable your airline to determine quickly your identity and reduce the likelihood of mistaken identity during future trips.

If you have misplaced your redress control number, please contact trip@dhs.gov. Provide your full name, date of birth, gender, and city/state of residence. You will receive an e-mail containing your redress control number.

- Read more about Redress Control Numbers

Tracking Your Inquiry

Once your inquiry has been received, you will receive a determination letter in the mail.

If you want to review the status of your inquiry, please visit the status page. The status page will tell you if your case is in process, has been completed, or requires more information.

You will need your Redress Control Number to use this feature.

If your status indicates "Pending Paperwork" or "No Paperwork," DHS TRIP has sent you a letter describing the additional information needed to complete your case review. If you have not received this letter, please contact DHS TRIP at trip@dhs.gov. Include your Redress Control Number.

You may also mail your letter to:

DHS Traveler Redress Inquiry Program (DHS TRIP)
801 S. 12th Street, TSA-901
Arlington, VA 22205-6901

If you file your complaint online and send your documentation via e-mail, your updated status information should be available online within 7-10 days. If you send your request and/or additional documentation by mail, DHS TRIP may not adjust or create an accurate status update for 10-15 days after the documentation is mailed.

After the Issue is Resolved

DHS TRIP is designed specifically to help travelers improve their travel experience and correct inaccuracies in government records that may contribute to difficulties when traveling. Security procedures and legal concerns mandate that we can neither confirm nor deny any information about you that may be within federal watch lists; we also cannot reveal any law enforcement-sensitive information.

DHS TRIP may not resolve all of your travel-related concerns in the future.

Even after completing the redress process through DHS TRIP, a traveler may be selected for enhanced screening based on a variety of factors, or at random. While it is not the intent of the Department of Homeland Security to subject travelers to delays, the examination process will occasionally inconvenience travelers. The Department strives to ensure that its processes treat travelers fairly and efficiently, as we endeavor to make certain that all individuals travel in a legal and secure manner. In all cases, Homeland Security officers are to conduct interviews and examinations with the utmost professionalism and courtesy.

You Disagree with the Resolution

If you feel that your request for redress was resolved incorrectly, please follow the instructions that you received in your resolution letter.

Redress Control Numbers

Redress Control Numbers

The Redress Control Number (redress number) allows the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) Secure Flight program to match travelers with the results of their redress case. Secure Flight is a behind-the-scenes program that streamlines the watch list matching process. Airlines have begun modifying their reservation system as part of the Secure Flight program. This will improve the travel experience for all passengers, including those who have been misidentified in the past.

Quick Facts about Redress Control Numbers

The Redress Control Number is the record identifier for people who apply for redress through the DHS Travel Redress Inquiry Program \(DHS TRIP\). DHS TRIP is for travelers who have been repeatedly identified for additional screening and who want to file an inquiry to have erroneous information corrected in DHS systems.

Airlines will modify their reservations systems to allow passengers who have a 7-digit redress number to enter it when making their reservation.

Travelers without Redress Control Numbers

- Not everyone has a redress number.
- If you don't have a redress number and an airline or a travel site asks for your redress number, you can leave it blank.

If you do not have a redress number, you will still be able to make reservations and travel as normal. The redress number is an optional field and is not relevant for most travelers.

Travelers with Redress Control Numbers

- You may provide your redress number when you make a reservation or when updating your airline profile.
- If you have lost your redress number, contact DHS TRIP at TRIP@dhs.gov.

Please submit your additional documentation as soon as possible to speed processing of your request. If supporting documents are not received within 30 days, work on your case will be suspended until the documents are received. For the fastest response, we recommend that you e-mail your completed form and copies of documents to trip@dhs.gov. If your attachments exceed 10 MB, they will be rejected due to size. If necessary, please send separate e-mails with attachments using the same subject line.

If you have questions or concerns about screening for passengers with disabilities and medical conditions, you should call TBA Cares for more information. TBA Cares is a helpline specifically dedicated for passengers with disabilities, medical conditions or other circumstances or their loved ones who want to prepare for the screening process prior to flying. You may call toll free at 1-855-787-2227, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. EST, excluding Federal holidays.

What Happens After My Inquiry is Submitted?

Once your application and documentation have been received and verified for completeness, DHS TRIP will process your request. The minimum length of a review of a request for redress is 30 business days. However, the length of the review varies based on the concerns raised by the redress requestor in his/her application. The program office does not control nor can it influence the review timeframe.

Tracking My Case

You may track your case status via the DHS TRIP website using your Redress Control Number (<https://trip.dhs.gov/status.html>). The DHS TRIP system automatically assigns you this number when you apply. If you applied by ground mail, the number will be mailed to you. If you have misplaced your Redress Control Number, please contact trip@dhs.gov. Provide your full name, date of birth, gender, and city/state of residence. You will receive an e-mail containing your Redress Control Number.

You will see one of the following notations in your file:

- "In Progress"- required documentation has been received and the redress process is underway.
- "Closed"- Any corrections or updates have been made, and a final response letter mailed to you.
- "Pending Paperwork" or "No Paperwork," - DHS TRIP has sent you a letter describing the additional information needed to complete your case review. If you have not received this letter, please contact DHS TRIP at trip@dhs.gov and include your Redress Control Number.

Results of Redress

All relevant US Government records will be updated or corrected as appropriate.

You are encouraged to provide your Redress Control Number when making airline reservation. Providing this information will help prevent misidentifications from occurring during security checks against government records and other information.

DHS TRIP cannot guarantee your travel will be delay-free. Additional screening may occur due to issues outside the redress process. While this process may sometimes be stressful, we rely on the patience, cooperation, and understanding of travelers in such cases. The aim of these security measures is to safeguard the people of the United States and visitors to this Nation.

If you have additional concerns please contact DHS TRIP directly at trip@dhs.gov.

If you have already obtained a redress control number and have additional questions regarding continued delays please contact DHS TRIP directly. It is not necessary to acquire a new Redress Control Number to update your personal information or to report a new issue.

Am I on the Terrorist Watch list?

We have found that less than one percent of DHS TRIP applicants have a connection to the Terrorist Watch list. Complaints most often arise either because the traveler's name and personal information is similar to the name and personal information of another person in systems which contain information from Federal, state, local and foreign sources or because the traveler has been delayed in travel for reasons unrelated to such data, such as by random screening. Using your Redress Control Number (RCN) when making airline reservation can assist in preventing misidentifications from occurring.

The nondisclosure of the watch list information protects the government's operational counterterrorism and intelligence collection objectives, as well as the personal safety of those involved in counterterrorism investigations.

How will my privacy be protected?

The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) / United States makes every effort to ensure the accuracy and security of travelers' records. Information submitted through DHS TRIP will be protected and shared only in accordance with the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a) and the routine uses identified in Privacy Act system of records notice, DHS/AH-005 Department of Homeland Security Redress and Response Records System (Federal Register), January 18, 2007. The Traveler Redress Inquiry Program Privacy Impact Assessment (PIA) dated January 18, 2007 further details how DHS/TSA manages and safeguards the information it receives during the redress process. In addition, DHS enforces access restrictions and mandates privacy training for employees and contractors entrusted with managing this important information.

I have changed my name, received a new passport or have moved. What steps do I need to take to update my information?

Please provide a legible copy of your updated passport and/or address to DHS TRIP via TRIP@dhs.gov. Upon receipt your redress record will be updated accordingly.

Redress/ TSA Pre✓™: Can I put the redress control number in the known traveler field?

There is a place for both the Redress Control Number and the Known Traveler Number. These numbers are not the same, and it is important not to confuse one with the other. Do not enter the Redress Control Number into the Known Traveler field, or vice versa.

Redress Control Number - The Redress Control Number (RCN) is an identifier that allows the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Traveler Redress Inquiry Program (DHS TRIP) to identify your redress application status. It is also useful when making reservations with an air carrier. RCNs are a 7- to 13-digit alpha-numeric number sometimes referred to as a Redress Number. At this time, Redress Numbers are only 7 digits long.

Providing a Redress Control Number will help prevent misidentifications from occurring during security checks against government records and other information. In most online reservation systems, your redress control number may be entered at the same time you enter your full name and date of birth.

Known Traveler Number - To participate in TSA Pre✓™, members of CBP's Trusted Traveler programs must place their CBP participant ID in the "Known Traveler Number" field when booking their reservation. This number is then sent to TSA's Secure Flight system and taken into consideration during the pre-screening processing. For frequent flyer program members, participating airlines will permit some members to "opt-in" through the airline's system. Once a passenger opts-in, the airline identifies the individual as a participant when submitting the passenger reservation information to TSA's Secure Flight system.

If I have never been selected for expedited screening – can I apply for redress? And/or if I have a redress control number can I apply for expedited screening?

In most circumstances, obtaining a Redress Control Number will not assist in obtaining expedited screening. The U.S. Department of Homeland Security Traveler Redress Inquiry Program (DHS TRIP) is a single point of contact for individuals who have inquiries or seek resolution regarding difficulties they experience during their travel while screening at transportation hubs, such as airports and train stations, or while crossing U.S. borders. Participation in the DHS Traveler Redress Inquiry Program is voluntary. If you wish to apply, you may do so by visiting:

www.dhs.gov/TRIP

Outside of the redress process, there are far more common reasons why an eligible passenger may not be selected for TSA Pre✓™, which include:

- Currently, TSA Pre✓™ pertains only to domestically-bound flights. If any leg of a passenger's itinerary is international, that passenger will not be eligible for TSA Pre✓™ during that trip.
- A common mistake is that a passenger has erroneously entered their Known Traveler number into their airline profile; the passenger made a typo or other data entry error. The passenger should ensure only a CBP Trusted Traveler PASS ID is entered into the known traveler field. See the "How To Enroll" section on the TSA website for more specifics of which number to use and where to enter it.
- Another common mistake is that the passenger is not flying a participating airline (list of participating airlines).
- The passenger might also be departing from an airport that is not yet participating in TSA Pre✓™ (list of participating airports).
- If none of the above apply, the passenger may want to verify with their airline that their Name, DOB, and gender match what is on the individual's identification, and that all three data points are reflected correctly in the airline reservation system (e.g., verify there are no typographical errors on the name or birth date in the airline's system).
- In addition, TSA will always incorporate random and unpredictable security measures throughout the airport. No individual will be guaranteed expedited screening in order to retain a certain element of randomness to prevent terrorists from gaming the system.

Department of Homeland Security Traveler Redress Inquiry Program (DHS TRIP)

Thank you for contacting the Department of Homeland Security Traveler Redress Inquiry Program (DHS TRIP). DHS TRIP is a single point of contact for U.S and non-U.S citizens who have inquiries or seek resolution regarding difficulties they experience during their travel while undergoing screening at transportation hubs, such as airports and train stations, or while crossing U.S. borders. If you wish to apply, you must complete a Traveler Inquiry Form and provide certain required documentation. Your application can be e-mailed or mailed to DHS TRIP. E-mailed applications may be processed more quickly than mailed applications. Below are details regarding submitting a DHS TRIP application.

If your concern relates solely to a belief that your personal information has been misused or that your civil rights have been violated, you may skip to Section II of this form.

While you may apply via email or surface mail, submitting an electronic application at www.dhs.gov/TRIP may be significantly faster.

Submitting the DHS TRIP Application:

- 1. On Behalf of Another Person: DHS TRIP requires a DHS Form 590, Authorization to Release Information to Another Person, which permits DHS TRIP to communicate with and provide information to someone other than the traveler, including someone serving as a representative for the traveler. U.S. privacy laws prohibit any discussion about this case absent the traveler's express written consent. To authorize DHS to release information about the traveler to a third party, the traveler must complete and return the DHS Form 590. The G-28 is not used by this program. To obtain a copy of this form please visit <http://www.dhs.gov/step-2-how-use-dhs-trip>.
- 2. Family or Group Applying for Redress: DHS TRIP cannot accept family or group applications for any reason. Each individual that is seeking redress must submit a separate application along with a copy of a valid, unexpired travel document, e.g., passport. If the applicant is a minor (i.e., a child under age 18), a parent or guardian may apply on his/her behalf; however, the information provided in the application must be specific to the child seeking redress. Each redress requestor may also apply online by visiting www.dhs.gov/TRIP. A parent/guardian is not required to complete a DHS Form 590.
- 3. Required Documents: The traveler applying for redress must attest under penalty of perjury that the facts stated in the application for redress are true and correct. The applicant must sign the document to continue with the application; it cannot be signed on behalf of someone unless the application is for a minor. In addition, our program requires the submission of at least one government issued photograph bearing travel document. In each document, DHS TRIP must be able to discern your facial features, and the information must be legible. It is strongly recommended that travelers submit a copy of a passport since it is required for international travel. Please note that our program does not accept expired travel documents. If the application is for a minor, parents or guardians may submit a copy of the minor's birth certificate if no driver's license or state-issued identification card is available. Do not send the original document. Please note that the provision of the identity document is a program requirement that DHS TRIP cannot waive.

4. Privacy Issue: If the traveler only selects the Privacy box in Section II, no documents are required; however, having documents will significantly accelerate the process if further review is needed.
5. Civil Rights and Civil Liberties Issue: If the traveler wishes to make a civil rights and civil liberties complaint, he/she may use the following link to learn more about the DHS Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties (CRCL) or use the CRCL Complaint Tool to file a complaint. <http://www.dhs.gov/xlibrary/assets/crcl-complaint-submission-form-english.pdf>. CRCL investigates allegations that DHS employees, programs or activities have violated a civil right or civil liberty, including, but not limited to discrimination based on race, religion, national origin, gender or disability; abusive or coercive questioning; and unreasonable searches and seizures.
