INTRODUCTION AND PURPOSE OF STUDY

The U. S. Department of Health and Human Services has hired Westat, a research company, to study the services Illinois Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) provides to families. The study will assist us in learning whether the services you and the child in your care receive help children leave foster care sooner. We want your help in finding out if these services work.

We are inviting you to take part in this study because a child currently in your care, [insert child's name], has been selected to take part in a study. You do not have to be in the study. Even if you agree to be in the study, you can stop being in the study at any time. Your choice will not affect the services that you and the child receive.

PROCEDURES

DCFS assigned the child in your care and the child's family (using a random process like a coin flip) to get one of two types of services that are meant to help this family and benefit you as well. With either service, a caseworker will continue to meet with you and the child, make home visits, refer you and the child to needed services, and check on how you and the child are doing. However, you may also receive extra services depending on your DCFS assignment. These extra services will focus on improving your understanding of the youth's emotions and behaviors, improving the way you respond to the youth's emotions and behaviors, and learn ways to lower your stress. You will be told if you are chosen to receive these extra services.

While you are getting these services, Westat wants to study whether the services you receive help families.

Participating in interviews:

In order to study the services you and the child's family receive, we need to find out information about you and the child in your care. We are asking you to take part in two in-person interviews: at the start of services and 6 months later. During the interviews, you will answer questions about the supports you have in your life, the way you parent the child in your care, and the behaviors of the child in your care.

The interviews will occur at your home at a time that is best for you. For your privacy, you will use a computer to answer the questions. If you need help using the computer or answering the questions, you can ask the researcher questions at any time during the interview. You can also skip questions that you do not want to answer. Each interview will take no more than 45 minutes. There are no right and wrong answers.

Studying your interview responses with DCFS client records:

Burden Statement: This collection of information is voluntary and will be used to evaluate the Permanency Innovations Initiative. Public reporting burden of this collection of information is estimated to average 45 minutes per response, including the time for reviewing instructions, searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and completing and reviewing the collection of information. An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number. Send comments regarding this burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden, to Reports Clearance Officer (Attn: OMB/PRA 0970-0355), Office of Planning, Research and Evaluation, Administration for Children and Families, Department of Health and Human Services, 370 L'Enfant Promenade S.W., Washington DC 20447.

During the study, Westat researchers will review the information from questions we ask you and will also review information from the records DCFS has. These records have information about the child, the child's family, services received from DCFS, and the family's case progress. We are asking if you will agree to let us to study your answers together with the information we get from the family's DCFS records. We will use this information only for the study.

RISKS

We do not think being in the study has any risk. The interview questions do not include sensitive topics. But, if any of the questions make you feel upset or sad, you can talk with the child's caseworker. You can also skip questions that you do not want to answer. The researcher also has a list of local mental health agencies that he or she can provide you.

INCENTIVE FOR PARTICIPATING IN THE STUDY

You will receive a $20.00 gift card for taking part in each interview.

BENEFITS FOR PARTICIPATING IN THE STUDY

There are no direct benefits to you in taking part in the interviews. But, taking part will help DCFS find better ways to serve children and families.

PARTICIPANT AND DATA PRIVACY

We will keep your information private to the extent permitted by law. We will not include information that names you or your family in any reports; information will only be reported for the entire group of families studied. The information you provide will not be shared with your caseworker. However, it may be shared with a therapist that serves you and/or the child in your care to help with service planning. We will use your information for research only.

To help us keep your information private, we received a Certificate of Confidentiality from the U. S. Department of Health and Human Services. With this Certificate, no one can force us to share information that may identify you, even in any court or legal proceeding or under a court order or subpoena. But, we will in all cases take necessary action, including reporting to authorities, to prevent harm to yourself or others. This includes reporting suspected child abuse or neglect.

To make sure that the researchers are collecting the data right, another researcher may ask to sit in during your interview. We will ask you ahead of time so you can decide if the other researcher can sit in or not.

VOLUNTARY PARTICIPATION

You can decide if you want to take part in the study. You can stop being in the study at any time. Taking part in the study or not will not affect the services that you and the child in your care receives.

Instructions on CASI screen:

Thank you for agreeing to complete the interview. You will be asked questions about the supports you have in your life, the way you parent the child in your care, and the behaviors of the child in your care. There are no right or wrong answers to these questions; we only ask that you answer them honestly.

There are three sections. At the beginning of each section, there will be instructions on how to complete the questions that follow. You will see one question at a time.

You can choose to answer questions on your own or ask for help. At any time, you can let the interviewer know if you have questions, need a break, skip questions, or would like to end your participation.

The first few questions show you how this works. Click "NEXT" to move to the next screen.
