INTRODUCTION

The goal of Group Quarters Enumeration is to count people in the 2018 Census Test who live in group quarters. A group quarters is a place where people live or stay in a group living arrangement that is owned or managed by an entity or organization providing housing and/or services for the residents. These services may include custodial or medical care as well as other types of assistance, and residency is commonly restricted to those receiving these services. People living in group quarters are usually not related to each other. This is not a typical household-type living arrangement. Group quarters include such places as college residence halls, residential treatment centers, skilled-nursing facilities, group homes, military barracks, correctional facilities, and workers' dormitories.

The Electronic Response Data Transfer (eResponse) system for the Group Quarters operation (GQ) involves the electronic transfer of GQ address and respondent-level data from facility records maintained by GQ administrators. The eResponse enumeration allows the facility to respond to the 2018 Census Test without requiring a personal visit by a Census Bureau worker. During eResponse, the GQ administrator (or GQ contact person) will sign in to the Census Bureau portal, download the Census Bureau Template, insert responses into the appropriate fields, and then upload the completed template.

The 2018 Census Test will collect GQ address and respondent-level data as of Census Day, April 1, 2018. Census response data collected includes name, sex, date of birth, age on Census day, Hispanic origin, race, and an alternate address where the person lives or stays when not at the facility. You have chosen the Electronic Response Data Transfer (eResponse) method of enumeration to report for your GQ. The eResponse portal will be open for collection July 30, 2018 through August 24, 2018—This will entail submitting one data file using the Census Bureau template that contains GQ address and respondent information for each person who lived or stayed in the GQ(s) on April 1, 2018.

Please read the reporting instructions prior to uploading and submitting your data file. directly to the secure Census Bureau website?

The Census Bureau is required by law to protect your information (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9). The Census Bureau is not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify anyone at your facility. We are conducting the 2018 Census Test under the authority of Title 13, U.S. Code Sections 141, 193, 221, and 223. Federal law protects your privacy and keeps your answers confidential (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9). GQ Street Name: For each GQ, please report the street (i.e., street name, street type, and any street direction) of the GQ's physical address (e.g., N Maple Ave). Appendix C. Frequent Ask Questions (FAQ)

Why are you asking about the people in this group quarters? Establishing an accurate count is critical for determining how many representatives a state should have in Congress, and population counts are factored into the distribution of federal funds.

How are data on males and females used?

Many federal agencies use data on males and females for funding, implementing, and evaluating their programs. Laws promoting equal employment opportunity for women are one example. This information also can be important for analyzing social and economic trends.

How are data on age and date of birth used?

Date of birth is used in combination with reported age to arrive at an accurate age as of Census Day, April 1, 2018. Many funding and planning decisions are based on age-related statistics and trends. For example, the federal government uses these statistics to decide how to allocate education funds and to project the health care needs of the older population and veterans. State and local governments use them to determine age-related needs, such as a need to increase school system resources due to a growing population of school-aged children.

How are Hispanic origin and race data used?

Questions about Hispanic origin and race are asked because these data are required for Federal and state programs and are critical factors in the basic research behind numerous policies, particularly for civil rights. These data are also used to promote equal employment opportunities and to address disparities in health and environmental risks.

Hispanic origin and race data are used in planning and funding government programs that provide funds or services for specific groups. These data are also used to evaluate government programs and policies to ensure they fairly and equitably serve the needs of all racial and ethnic groups and to monitor compliance with anti-discrimination laws, regulations, and policies. States also use these data to meet legislative redistricting requirements.

What does “most of the time” mean? Some people have more than one residence, and they may cycle between staying at each residence, in a weekly, monthly, or yearly cycle. Therefore, select "Yes" if this person currently sleeps at this GQ most (or all) nights of each week, month, or year (for example: 4 nights of each week at this GQ, and 3 nights of each week elsewhere). However, select "No" if this person currently sleeps most nights (of each week, month, or year) somewhere other than this GQ (for example: 1 week of each month at this GQ, and 3 weeks of each month elsewhere).

Why do you ask whether the person lives or stays at the GQ most of the time? Why do you ask for the person’s Alternate Address? Some people in group quarters may also have another residence where they sometimes live or stay. Information about where the person lives or stays most of the time, and their alternate address (if available), helps the Census Bureau count each person once, only once and in the right place.
