The Georgia Association for Primary Health Care aims to decrease teen pregnancy rates in Chatham County, GA through three primary strategies: 1) increased availability and accessibility of youth-friendly sexual and reproductive health services targeting youth aged 15-19; 2) development and implementation of a system to link vulnerable youth ages 15 to 19 enrolled in youth-serving systems to sexual and reproductive health services; and 3) increase awareness of youth-friendly sexual and reproductive health services in the community.

This project is deemed non-research, public health practice. All assessment activities support program evaluation. CDC staff will serve as project officers on this cooperative agreement. CDC staff will provide programmatic, technical and scientific support. CDC will not have access to any personally identifiable data. All program evaluation data that CDC receives will be de-identified.

8. Please list the primary project site and all collaborating site(s).
