National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey (NHANES)
Multi-Mode Screening Feasibility Study Second Letter

National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey

A few weeks ago, the National Center for Health Statistics, part of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), sent you a letter about participating in the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey.

If you have not responded, we invite you to answer a few questions on our secure web site at <https://surveys.examsurvey.com>. Please use the user ID and password printed below for online access to the questions. The purpose of these questions is to help us determine if you or a member of your family will be asked to participate in the survey.

Answering these questions is completely voluntary and you may choose not to answer any questions. I assure you there will be no penalties or loss of benefits of any kind from refusing to answer. This survey is a Federal program authorized by the Public Health Service Act. All of your answers will be kept in strict confidence. We will use this information only for statistical research and reports. Your answers will be added to others, so no one can identify which are yours.

In the next few weeks, one of our health representatives will visit your home. She or he will show you official Centers for Disease Control (CDC) identification and ask some short, easy questions about you and other family members. This interview will take only a few minutes of your time. If you completed the online questions, the health representative will review this information with you.

If you or other household members are chosen, we hope you will participate in the survey. Over the past 50 years, the National Health and Nutrition Survey's record of success is remarkable. Everyone's willingness to take part has helped us create growth charts used by doctors worldwide to track children's development, take lead out of gasoline, and prevent iron and folate deficiencies, among many other achievements.

Thank you in advance for helping.

Sincerely,

Charles J. Rothwell
Director

P.S. If you have questions, call Mr. George Zipf of my staff at 1-800-452-6115. The call is free, and we would be happy to answer your questions.
