Submission of Materials for the *Pretesting
of Proposed Changes to the CPS
Contingent Worker Supplement*

Please accept the enclosed materials for approval under the OMB clearance package 1220-0141 “Cognitive and Psychological Research.” In accordance with our agreement with OMB, we are submitting a brief description of the study.

The total estimated respondent burden hours for this study is 87 hours.

If there are any questions regarding this project, please contact Brandon Kopp at 202-691-7514.

1. Introduction and Purpose

The Contingent Worker and Alternate Work Arrangement Supplement (referred to below as the Contingent Worker Supplement or CWS) to the Current Population Survey (CPS) was last conducted in 2005. Contingent workers are those workers that do not expect their job to last or reported that their job is temporary. Alternative work arrangements include on-call positions, independent contractors, and temporary help agency workers. Since 2005, the Internet and the emergence of smartphone applications has changed the way many workers find and complete their jobs. For this reason, CPS stakeholders have proposed the addition of questions to the next round of the CWS, to be administered in May 2017, to capture these electronically mediated, contingent work arrangements.

There are two types of electronic mediation that the newly proposed questions are meant to capture. The first are arrangements where a worker is matched with a customer through an Internet site or smartphone application, is paid through the company that runs that site or application, and performs an in-person service. Examples of this type of arrangement are Uber, where drivers are matched with riders through an application, or Washio, where workers pick up the customer's laundry and deliver it to a laundry service. In both of these arrangements, the workers choose when and whether they work and perform the service for the customer in person.

In the second type of electronically mediated, contingent work, the worker finds short duration tasks, ranging from several minutes to several hours, through an online service and the tasks are performed entirely online. Workers may be asked to design a logo for a business given pre-defined specifications (e.g., 99designs.com) or to add descriptive keywords to photos or documents (e.g., Amazon Mechanical Turk). In these types of arrangements, the worker finds tasks listed on a website, chooses which to participate in, completes and/or submits their work through the website, and is then paid through the service based on a rate set by the person who initiated the task.

CPS stakeholders are interested in measuring how many workers are engaged in these types of arrangements as their main job, their secondary job, or as a source of secondary earnings. That is, questions regarding these work arrangements will only be asked of those who reported having worked for pay during the previous week.

CPS survey staff have allotted space for four questions in the CWS in order to measure these concepts. Given the complexity of the concepts and the small number of questions, cognitive testing is especially important. The purpose of this testing will be to:

- A. Understand the measurement properties of the electronic mediation questions. That is, do the proposed questions maximize the number of true positives (reporting yes when engaged in one of the work arrangements described above) and minimize the number of false positives (reporting yes when not engaged in one of the work arrangements described above)?
- B. Test minor wording changes to the questions that have been developed
- C. Determine if introductory or transition language is necessary between the current set of contingent worker questions and the electronic mediation questions
- D. Determine what interviewer instructions or help screens are necessary to explain the key concepts

2. Research Design

To accomplish these goals, question variations will be tested using a mixture of in-lab cognitive interviewing and online testing.

Cognitive Interviews. Cognitive interviews provide an in-depth understanding of the respondents' thought processes and reactions to the questions. These interviews will be done one-on-one in the Office of Survey Methods Research (OSMR) laboratory at the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Interviews will be conducted by staff from the OSMR who are experienced in conducting these types of interviews. Participants will be asked survey questions from the Current Population Survey and the Contingent Worker Supplement to provide context for the electronic mediation questions. After being asked the electronic mediation questions, participants will be asked debriefing questions to better understand the accuracy of their reports and the thought process used to formulate their responses. The testing protocol is included in Appendix A, Part 1.

Online Testing. These questions will also be tested using a sample of participants recruited through Amazon's Mechanical Turk (mTurk) service and from the TryMyUI service. These participants will complete an online form which asks them an abbreviated set of CPS and CWS questions, the electronic mediation questions, and several debriefing questions, including questions to probe the accuracy of their responses to the electronic mediation questions and about their experience answering those questions. This online testing is an unmoderated cognitive interview. Both of these platforms are especially useful in this context because (1) mTurk and TryMyUI workers are the types of workers we are attempting to capture with the electronic mediation questions and (2) they allow us to achieve greater geographic diversity in our testing sample. The reason for testing on these two separate platforms is because we wish to capture slightly different groups of online task workers. TryMyUI sessions are screen recorded and participants provide their data verbally, as opposed to mTurk workers who will interact only with the online questionnaire. These varying requirements may affect how these workers think about the electronic mediation questions.

The testing protocol for mTurk participants is included in Appendix A, Part 2 and the protocol for TryMyUI participants is in Appendix A, Part 3. These protocols are very similar. The main difference is that, since TryMyUI records audio, those participants will be encouraged to talk aloud while answering the questions.

The findings from all modes of testing will be evaluated qualitatively. The debriefing feedback from both modes is the primary outcome to be used to revise question wordings.

As this is pretesting, we expect that modifications may be made during the course of the study based on initial results. Although the goals of the testing, and overall design, will remain the same, findings from preliminary results may be used to improve the interview questions. Modifications are likely to range from slight changes to question wording to the inclusion of additional instructions.

3. Participants

Cognitive Interviews. Thirty participants will be recruited for cognitive interviews using targeted advertisements in newspapers and online bulletin boards (see Appendix C). Participants will be screened to ensure either they or a member of their household is engaged in a work arrangement that meets the definitions described in Section 1 (see Recruitment Script in Appendix B). A small group of five participants will be selected from the existing OSMR database, without any screening. This will allow testing of the questions among people who do not have these types of work arrangements and may not be familiar with the terms, as well as exploration of proxy reporting.

Online Testing. One hundred and forty-five participants will be recruited using a convenience sample from Amazon Mechanical Turk of adult U.S. citizens (18 years and older). These participants will be screened (see Appendix A, Part 2) to ensure they have experience relevant to the questions being asked. An additional five participants will be recruited using the TryMyUI testing service. Similar recruitment criteria will be used for TryMyUI participants.

4. Burden Hours

The total burden hours for this study will be 87.

Cognitive Interviews. The number of participants needed for testing a given question is dependent upon the results and the point at which saturation is reached and no further information is being gained from additional interviews. Given that, our goal is to interview no more than 30 participants in the OSMR lab. We anticipate that each session will last approximately 60 minutes (30 total burden hours). Participants will be asked several screening questions about their work arrangements as part of recruitment (see Appendix B). Screening questions and scheduling an appointment is expected to take no longer than 10 minutes and participants will not be compensated for time spent on scheduling. Given the targeted nature of the advertisement, we anticipate a high qualification rate for the screening questions (approximately 75%), so estimate we will need to contact approximately 40 people in order to get 30 interviews. This will add an additional 6.7 burden hours (40 participants X .1667 hours) to the study, for a total of 36.7 burden hours for cognitive interviews.

Online Testing. Our goal is to obtain feedback from 150 online participants; 145 from mTurk and 5 from TryMyUI. We anticipate that, in both cases, the task will take no longer than 20 minutes, including screening, CPS and CWS questions, electronic mediation questions, and debriefing questions for a total of 50 burden hours (150 participants X 0.33 hours).

5. Payment to Participants

A total of $1540 will be spent on payments to participants.

Cognitive Testing. The 30 participants will each be paid $40 for their participation in testing for a total of $1200.

Online Testing. Each of the 145 mTurk participants will be paid $2.00 for participating in the study, a typical rate provided by Mechanical Turk for similar tasks. TryMyUI participants will be paid $10 for their participation; this is a standard fee required by TryMyUI. A total of $340 will be paid directly to Amazon Mechanical Turk and TryMyUI for participant fees.

6. Data Confidentiality

Cognitive Interviews. Participants will be informed as to the voluntary nature of the study. Participants will also be informed that the study will be used for internal purposes to improve the design of a national employment survey. Participants will be given a consent form to read and sign (see Appendix D). Information related to this study will not be released to the public in any way that would allow identification of individuals except as prescribed under the conditions of the Privacy Act Notice.

Online Testing. Recruiting of participants will be handled by Amazon Mechanical Turk and TryMyUI. Once participants are recruited into the study, they will be provided a link to the survey, which is hosted by Qualtrics. The data collected as part of this study will be stored on Qualtrics' servers. Using the language shown below, participants will be informed of the voluntary nature of the study and they will not be given a pledge of confidentiality.

*This voluntary study is being collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics under OMB No. 1220-0141. We will use the information you provide for statistical purposes only. Your participation is voluntary, and you have the right to stop at any time. This survey is being administered by Qualtrics and resides on a server outside of the BLS Domain. ## Appendix A, Part 1: Cognitive Testing Protocol

The protocol includes the questions that will be tested, additional questions that provide context for the tested question, and debriefing questions. The goal is to identify the most effective wording for questions and response choices by understanding the associations participants have with terms used in the question wording and how they interpret question meanings. The interviewer may ask unscripted follow-up questions (e.g., “Can you tell me more about that?”) if a participant’s answer suggests additional, pertinent information can be gained.

Introductory Material

- Hi! Thank you for coming in today.
- I am ..... [This is my colleague ( ) who will be taking notes for us today]
- Have you participated in any of our studies before?
- Consent Form/Permission to audiotape
- Explanation:
  - We are going to be working with some questions from the Current Population Survey, an ongoing survey that provides a continuous flow of information about the characteristics of the American workforce.
  - What we are going to do today is go through a few questions from the survey and get your reactions to them.
  - The purpose of today’s session is to help us find out more about how people respond to these questions. Basically, we’re trying to find out what you think a question is asking and how hard it is to answer. We are not here to evaluate you, we are looking to improve the questions, so there are no wrong answers. All the information you give us will be kept completely confidential, and will be used to improve the survey questions.
- Any questions before we begin?

Appendix A, Part 2: Online Testing Protocol (mTurk)

For online testing, debriefing questions will focus on assessing the accuracy of responses to the target questions. The goal is to monitor the responses from a large number of online participants to detect irregular responses. This study will be listed on mTurk as a single task with an initial screening question. The screening criteria for the study will be listed in the study invitation. Potential participants will see the following information on the mTurk site.

OMB Control Number: 1220-0141

Expiration Date: 04-30-2018

Description:	We'll ask you questions related to work you have done for pay within the last week and then ask for your feedback on those questions.
Keywords:	memory, survey, research
Qualifications Required:	Participants in this study must have found paid tasks to complete through a service that links them to customers using a website or app not including Mechanical Turk . Examples include Uber, Lyft, Grubhub, Taskrabbit, Washio, CrowdFlower, etc. OR Participants in this study must have worked last week for pay.

If they click the link to the study, they will be asked the initial screening question.

If the participant's answer fits the screening criteria for that module, they will be forwarded to a screen with the introductory text on the next page. If they choose to proceed, they will be asked several demographic questions, the focal questions for that module, and then the debriefing questions.

If the participant's answer does not fit the screening criteria, they will see the following text.

"Thank you for your time, but you do not meet the qualifications for this study."

Welcome! Thanks for your interest in our survey. You're here because we have asked you to participate in our research. We are asking you and hundreds of other people to tell us about what they think.

Unlike some surveys or online tasks you may be familiar with, we ask that you complete this survey all at one time and that you only start once you are in a quiet place where you won't be disturbed. The survey will take no longer than 20 minutes to complete. Only share information you're comfortable with - nothing too personal - but please be honest and follow the instructions.

Please do not use your browser's back button.

This voluntary study is being collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics under OMB No. 1220-0141. We will use the information you provide for statistical purposes only. Your participation is voluntary, and you have the right to stop at any time. This survey is being administered by Qualtrics and resides on a server outside of the BLS domain. The BLS cannot guarantee the protection of survey responses and advises against the inclusion of sensitive personal information in any response. By proceeding, you give your consent to participate in this study.

On the following pages, you'll be asked about work you have done for pay during the last week. We will then ask you some additional questions to better understand your answers.

Appendix A, Part 3: Online Testing Protocol (TryMyUI)

For online testing, debriefing questions will focus on assessing the accuracy of responses to the target questions. The goal is to monitor the responses from a large number of online participants to detect irregular responses. As with mTurk, the screening criteria for the study will be listed in the study invitation. Potential participants will see the following information on the TryMyUI site.

NOTE: This protocol is very similar to the mTurk protocol (Appendix A, Part 2). The main difference is in instructions that encourage the participant to think aloud as they are answering the questions. TryMyUI records audio from the participants' computers.

OMB Control Number: 1220-0141
Expiration Date: 04-30-2018

Description:	We'll ask you questions related to work you have done for pay within the last week and then ask for your feedback on those questions.
Qualifications Required:	Participants in this study must have found paid tasks to complete through a service that links them to customers using a website or app not including TryMyUI . Examples include Uber, Lyft, Grubhub, Taskrabbit, Washio, Amazon Mechanical Turk, CrowdFlower, etc.

All participants who believe they meet the outlined qualifications will be allowed to participate in the study.

Welcome! Thanks for your interest in our survey. You're here because we have asked you to participate in our research.

These questions might be used in a future survey, so we want them to be clear and easy to answer.

Please remember to talk out loud as you answer each question, and mention anything that confuses you or which you find difficult to answer.

The survey will take no longer than 20 minutes to complete. Only share information you're comfortable with - nothing too personal - but please be honest and follow the instructions.

After you have answered the survey questions, a section will appear with some Follow-up Questions. These questions are not survey questions. Instead, they ask for additional information to help us better understand how you arrived at your answer. You answer these questions by talking out loud. If you already provided this information when you were answering the survey question, you don't have to provide it again. Just skip to the next follow-up question.

This voluntary study is being collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics under OMB No. 1220-0141. We will use the information you provide for statistical purposes only. Your participation is voluntary, and you have the right to stop at any time. This survey is being administered by Qualtrics and resides on a server outside of the BLS domain. The BLS cannot guarantee the protection of survey responses and advises against the inclusion of sensitive personal information in any response. By proceeding, you give your consent to participate in this study.
