

We want your feedback on the U.S. Energy Mapping System.

Today, the U.S. Energy Information Administration (EIA) launched a customer survey requesting feedback on the U.S. Energy Mapping System. This short survey will help us understand how our customers use our maps. Your feedback will help us determine whether we should make any functionality changes to the U.S. Energy Mapping System. Specifically, we are requesting feedback about how and why you use the maps and what are your specific data and information needs.

This survey is voluntary and your responses are confidential. This survey will only be open to the first 1000 respondents, so be sure to provide your feedback.

Thank you.
