Proposed Revised Tip Reporting
Alternative Commitment (TRAC)
Agreement for Use in the Food and Beverage Industry

Announcement 2000-22

The Internal Revenue Service is expanding its Tip Rate Determination/Education Program (TRD/EP), which is designed to enhance tax compliance among tipped employees through taxpayer education and voluntary advance agreements instead of traditional audit techniques. This announcement solicits comments on a draft agreement entitled Tip Reporting Alternative Commitment (For use in the food and beverage industry).

OVERVIEW

The Service developed its TRD/EP in 1993 as a means of enhancing tax compliance while reducing taxpayer burden. In essence, the TRD/EP envisioned that the Service and taxpayers in industries in which tipping is common would work together to improve tax compliance. The TRD/EP currently offers employers the opportunity of entering into one of two types of agreements. The Tip Rate Determination Agreement (TRDA) requires the determination of tip rates; the Tip Reporting Alternative Commitment (TRAC) agreement emphasizes education and tip reporting procedures. The agreements also set forth an understanding that employers that comply with the terms of the agreement will not be subject to challenge by the Service. The TRDAs set forth similar understandings with respect to employees who participate in the agreements. Although not set forth in the TRAC agreements, employees who properly report tips also will not be subject to challenge by the Service. The decision to enter into either a TRDA or a TRAC agreement is entirely voluntary on the part of the employer.

In 1995, the Service developed the TRAC agreement for use in the food and beverage industry. The agreement has been both popular and effective. The industry has expressed interest in making the educational program and tip reporting procedures more flexible.

To ensure consistency in the agreements offered to taxpayers and to provide an opportunity for public comment before making agreements available for use, a revised TRAC agreement is attached to this announcement. The revised agreement is more flexible.

The Service also announces that it will treat an electronic system (including point-of-sale systems) that prompts an employee to report tips after each sale as meeting the TRAC requirement that an employer educate its employee at least quarterly. The Service requests comments on other electronic tip reporting system.

Proposed Revised Tip Rate Determination Agreement (TRDA) for Use by Employers in the Food and Beverage Industry
Announcement 2000-23

The Internal Revenue Service is expanding its Tip Rate Determination/Education Program (TRD/EP), which is designed to enhance tax compliance among tipped employees through taxpayer education and voluntary advance agreements instead of traditional audit techniques. This announcement solicits comments on a draft agreement entitled Tip Rate Determination Agreement (For Use in the Food and Beverage Industry).

OVERVIEW

The Service developed its TRD/EP in 1993 as a means of enhancing tax compliance while reducing taxpayer burden. In essence, the TRD/EP envisions that the Service and taxpayers in industries in which tipping is common would work together to improve tax compliance. The TRD/EP currently offers employers the opportunity of entering into one of two types of agreements. The Tip Rate Determination Agreement (TRDA) requires the determination of tip rates; the Tip Reporting Alternative Commitment (TRAC) agreement emphasizes education and tip reporting procedures. The agreements also set forth an understanding that employers that comply with the terms of the agreement will not be subject to challenge by the Service. The TRDAs set forth similar understandings with respect to employees who participate in the agreements. Although not set forth in the TRAC agreements, employees who properly report tips also will not be subject to challenge by the Service. The decision to enter into either a TRDA or a TRAC agreement is entirely voluntary on the part of the employer.

In 1993, the Service developed the TRDA for use in the food and beverage industry. In 1995, the Service developed the TRAC agreement for use in the food and beverage industry. Small employers often find that the TRDA better meets their needs and have requested that the TRDA be simplified.

To ensure consistency in the agreements offered to taxpayers and to provide an opportunity for public comment before making the agreement available for use, a revised TRDA for use in the food and beverage industry is attached to this announcement. The Service has simplified the TRDA.

FORMULA FOR TIP RATE CALCULATION

Directly tipped employees

Step 1: Determine charged and cash tip rates.

$$\text{Charged tip rate} = \frac{\text{Total charged tips}}{\text{Total charged sales with charged tips}^*}$$

$$\text{Cash tip rate} = \text{Charged tip rate} \\ \text{less: difference between charged and cash tips}$$

Step 2: Calculate tip rate per hour (or per sales)

1. Gross sales subject to tipping
2. minus: stiff factor
 charged sales with charged tips
 other factors
3. equals: sales subject to cash tipping
4. times cash tip rate
5. equals: cash tips received
6. plus: charged tips
 tips received from other employees
7. equals: total tips received
8. minus: tip outs
9. equals: adjusted tips
10. divided by: total hours worked (or total sales)
11. equals: tip rate per hour (or per sales)

Indirectly tipped employees

* If this figure is unavailable, use "total charged sales" for the denominator to figure the charged tip rate.
