Focus Groups

Formative Research for the Development of CDC's Act Against AIDS Social Marketing Campaigns Targeting Consumers

Introduction and Purpose:

You have been asked to take part in a focus group (group interview) as part of a research study. The purpose of the focus group is to hear your thoughts on materials that are being developed about HIV testing. RTI International, a non-profit company in North Carolina is doing the focus group. The focus group is sponsored by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

Procedures:

During the focus group, we will ask you to talk a little bit about yourself and what you think and feel about various aspects of HIV such as HIV testing or HIV prevention. The focus group, including the brief survey, will take about 1 hour and 45 minutes.

We will be doing focus groups with approximately 500 people throughout the United States.

The person doing the focus group will take notes. CDC staff working on this project may observe the focus group.

Risk/Discomforts:

You might feel embarrassed or upset by the things that are talked about during the interview. If that happens, we will refer you to someone who can talk with you about your concerns. You can decline to talk about any topic for any reason. You can stop being in the focus group at any time. Before or after the focus group, you may be asked to fill out a brief survey. Your name will not go on this survey. The survey will contain some personal questions about your sexual behavior and HIV. It is your right to refuse to answer any questions or stop taking the survey at any time.

Benefits:

There is no direct benefit to you for being in this focus group. However, you may learn more about your own risk behaviors and HIV. What we learn from the focus group will help us to develop materials about HIV testing or HIV prevention.

Privacy:

We will be [digitally recording] the focus group. Tapes will be kept in a [locked cabinet/secure online server]. They will be destroyed at the end of the project. Notes will be made of the [recording]. We will only refer to first names in the notes. Your comments will be kept secure to the extent allowable by law. The notes will be kept on a password-protected computer. Only authorized project staff will be able to see them. Any forms related to the project that have your name or information that could identify you will be kept in a [locked file cabinet/secure online server]. These forms will be destroyed once the project ends. However, there is still a small risk that your privacy could be broken.
