Here you go:

Gotcha. Super cool we now have access. When you get chance, (no hurry) is it possible to get the screen shot of the front page with the PBS/OMB#/Expiration Date?

This way I can use for future references with the most up to date information.

Yes, and I think I just didn't understand how FPRS was structured. FNS-46 is listed, but I can only see a "blank" form under the help section. Just had to look for it. So, it is there and the expiration date is on the front page, just as we expected.
