Dear Beneficiary First Name Beneficiary Last Name,

Each year, the Social Security Administration (SSA) compares the amount of SSDI benefits paid to beneficiaries the previous year to the amount of benefits that should have been paid, based on beneficiaries' actual earnings for that year. This comparison is called the annual reconciliation process. To conduct this reconciliation, SSA needs: 1) documentation of your monthly earnings; and 2) documentation of your impairment-related work expenses (IRWEs) for any month in which your IRWEs exceeded $840.

The table below lists the earnings and IRWEs that you previously reported to the POD project for 2017. The purpose of this letter is to ask if you have any additional earnings or IRWEs to report for last year.

Month	Earnings	IRWEs
October 2017	$1,500	Below threshold
November 2017	$1,400	$900
December 2017	None submitted	None submitted

When reviewing the table to determine if you have any additional earnings or IRWE documentation to submit for 2017, please note:

- 1) The first month for which you need to submit documentation is the month you enrolled in POD: POD_RA_MONTHANDYEAR.
- 2) Earnings for a month are based on the date paid, not when earned.
- 3) If you do not report earnings for a month, SSA will use the earnings reported for the most recently reported prior month to calculate your benefits.

- 4) You only need to submit documentation of IRWEs if they were greater than $840 for a month.
- 5) Examples of IRWEs include co-payments for doctors' visits, hospital in-patient or out-patient care or prescription drugs incurred due to a disabling condition, and special transportation needs to and from work due to a disabling condition. Health care premiums are not considered IRWEs.

The earnings and IRWE documentation you submit to the POD project will help SSA determine the correct SSDI benefits due to you last year.
