TITLE OF INFORMATION COLLECTION: Focus Groups for Targeted User Groups

PURPOSE:

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) is preparing to redesign and migrate its informational websites from the Drupal 7 website content management system (CMS) to the new Drupal 8 CMS. The contractor selected for this task, CHIEF, is performing extensive research in order to map user needs to the new design and build of FTC.gov and consumer education websites. Part of this research involves holding focus groups with specific website users. These focus groups will be used to gather users’ general needs and wants from the FTC web properties and how they do or do not self-identify with the subject matter on the FTC web properties. The groups will also provide a deeper qualitative understanding of each segment, especially concerning fraud, e.g., when faced with fraud, fears of fraud, or in their particular job that deals with fraud.

DESCRIPTION OF RESPONDENTS:

Respondents will be recruited individuals based on the following breakdown:

- 1 active duty military or veteran
- 1 person over the age of 65

- 1 person in law enforcement (federal, state or local)
- 1 attorney or other legal professional
- 1 consumer intermediary (e.g., educator, advocate or trainer) who works with underserved communities
