Frequently Asked Questions

What is the American Community Survey?

The American Community Survey is an official survey from the U.S. Census Bureau. This survey was created to provide up-to-date, accurate information about the country every year, not just census years. Governments, businesses, and nonprofit organizations use the information to make decisions about how to meet the changing needs of communities.

Is this a legitimate survey?

Yes. The Census Bureau has been conducting this survey since 2005. Only government agencies can use an internet address with the “.gov” extension. You can verify that this is an official government survey by going to <https://www.census.gov/acs> or by calling 1-800-354-7271. Call Monday–Friday: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday: 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., or Sunday: 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Why was I selected?

Your address was selected through scientific sampling and represents thousands of other households like yours. The Census Bureau randomly selects about 3.5 million addresses throughout the country each year to respond to this survey.

Am I required to fill out the survey?

Yes. Your response to this survey is required by law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141, 193, and 221). Title 13, as changed by Title 18, imposes a penalty for not responding. To create an accurate picture of your community, it is critical that you respond.

Will my response be confidential?

Yes. The Census Bureau is required by law to protect this information. The Census Bureau is not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify you. We are conducting this survey under the authority of Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141 and 193. Federal law protects your privacy and keeps your answers confidential (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9). Per the Federal Cybersecurity Enhancement Act of 2015, your data are protected from cybersecurity risks through screening of the systems that transmit your data.

How will the Census Bureau use the information I provide?

By law, the Census Bureau can only use your responses to produce statistics. Your information will be used in combination with information from other households to produce data for your community. Similar data will be produced for communities across the United States and Puerto Rico. We may combine your answers with information that you gave to other agencies to enhance the statistical uses of these data. This information will be given the same protections as your survey information. Based on the information that you provide, you may be asked to participate in other Census Bureau surveys that are voluntary.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the American Community Survey?

The American Community Survey is an official survey from the U.S. Census Bureau. As a randomly selected representative of your community, you are the voice of your neighbors and peers. To create an accurate understanding of your community and its needs, your response will be used in combination with responses from other households to produce data for your community. Similar data will be produced for communities across the United States.

Am I required to fill out the survey?

Yes. Your response to this survey is required by law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141, 193, and 221). Title 13, as changed by Title 18, imposes a penalty for not responding.

Will my response be confidential?

Yes. The Census Bureau is required by law to protect this information. The Census Bureau is not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify you. We are conducting this survey under the authority of Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141 and 193. Federal law protects your privacy and keeps your answers confidential (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9). Per the Federal Cybersecurity Enhancement Act of 2015, your data are protected from cybersecurity risks through screening of the systems that transmit your data.

How will the Census Bureau use the information I provide?

By law, the Census Bureau can only use your responses to produce statistics. Your information will be used in combination with information from other households to produce data for your community. Similar data will be produced for communities across the United States and Puerto Rico. We may combine your answers with information that you gave to other agencies to enhance the statistical uses of these data. This information will be given the same protections as your survey information. Based on the information that you provide, you may be asked to participate in other Census Bureau surveys that are voluntary.

Why was I selected?

Your address was selected through scientific sampling and represents thousands of other households like yours. The Census Bureau randomly selects about 3.5 million addresses each year to respond to the survey.
