NCVS-572(L) Census initial contact letter

NCVS-572(L) PHILADELPHIA
(1-2016)

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Economics and Statistics Administration
U.S. Census Bureau
Washington, DC 20233-0001
OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR

FROM THE DIRECTOR
U.S. CENSUS BUREAU

The U.S. Census Bureau is conducting a survey for the U.S. Department of Justice to obtain information on the type and amount of crime committed against households and individuals throughout the country. A Census Bureau representative will be contacting you soon. Our representative will show an official identification card and ask for some important information on this subject from you and your household.

The information you provide our representative will help inform the country about how much crime there is, where it occurs, when it occurs, what crime costs victims, and which segments of the population are most frequently victimized. Since many crimes are never reported to the police, information from this survey will show a more complete picture of the amount and types of crime occurring in the United States. The survey results are used in many ways, including by citizens to evaluate their vulnerabilities, by legislators and policymakers to develop programs to aid crime victims and prevent crime, and by researchers to understand various aspects of crime victimization.

Your address is part of a scientifically selected sample of addresses chosen throughout the country for participation in this survey. Because this is a sample survey, your answers represent not only you and your household, but also hundreds of other households like yours. For this reason, your voluntary cooperation is very important. I hope you will answer all the survey questions as completely and accurately as possible. Although there are no penalties for failure to answer any question, each unanswered question substantially lessens the accuracy of the final data. Your answers will be used only to prepare statistical summaries, and no information about your household or you as an individual can be identified from these statistics. The law completely protects your confidential answers from disclosure.

Answers to the most frequently asked survey questions are on the reverse side of this letter. If you would like further information, contact the Census Bureau by writing or calling the following office:

REGIONAL DIRECTOR
US CENSUS BUREAU
100 S INDEPENDENCE MALL W #410
PHILADELPHIA PA 19106-2320

Telephone: 1-800-262-4236

Thank you for your cooperation. The Census Bureau appreciates your help.

Sincerely,

John H. Thompson
Director

What is the National Crime Victimization Survey all about?

This survey, called the National Crime Victimization Survey, collects data measuring the types and amount of crime involving people age 12 or older. Periodically, the survey includes such additional topics as crime in schools, contacts with law enforcement, and identity theft.

How was I selected for this survey?

Actually, we selected your living quarters, not you personally for this survey. We scientifically selected a sample of addresses across the country to represent the entire population. At each selected address, we interview household members age 12 or older. If your household should move away while your address is still in the survey, we would interview the new family that moves in.

Will information I provide be confidential?

We are conducting this survey under the authority of Title 13, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 8. Section 9 of this law requires us to keep all information about you and your household strictly confidential. We may use this information only for statistical purposes. Also, Title 42, U.S.C., Section 3732, authorizes the Bureau of Justice Statistics, Department of Justice, to collect information using this survey. Title 42, U.S.C., Sections 3789g and 3735, also requires us to keep all information about you and your household strictly confidential. (OMB Number: 1121-0111; Expiration Date: 08/31/2018.)

Do I have to participate?

The survey is voluntary, and there are no penalties for not participating. We expect the interview to take about 25 minutes. Your interview may be somewhat shorter or longer than this depending on your circumstances. If you have any comments about this survey or have recommendations for reducing its length, send them to the Chief, Victimization Statistics Branch, Bureau of Justice Statistics, Washington, DC 20531.

How are the data used?

Data from this survey are used to provide information on many topics related to crime and victimization, including crime in schools, trends in violent crime, costs of crime, and the response of law enforcement to reports of victimization. To see examples of reports, tables, and charts that use data from the survey, you can visit the Bureau of Justice Statistics' Web site at www.ojp.usdoj.gov/bjs/.

I thought that the Census Bureau only operated every 10 years, when they counted people. What is the Census Bureau doing now?

In addition to the decennial census, which is conducted every 10 years, the Census Bureau collects many different types of statistics. We conduct other censuses required by law on a regular basis, including the censuses of business and manufacturers and the census of state and local governments. Additionally, we collect data on a monthly basis to provide current information on such topics as labor force participation, retail and wholesale trade, various manufacturing activities, and trade statistics, as well as yearly surveys of business, manufacturing and governments, family income, and education.

NCVS-573(L) Census follow-up interview letter

NCVS-573(L) PHILADELPHIA
(1-2016)

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Economics and Statistics Administration
U.S. Census Bureau
Washington, DC 20233-0001
OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR

FROM THE DIRECTOR
U.S. CENSUS BUREAU

Several months ago, a representative from the U.S. Census Bureau contacted residents at your address in connection with the National Crime Victimization Survey, which the Census Bureau is conducting for the U.S. Department of Justice. The survey now calls for us to interview at your address again. Our representative needs to update the characteristics and experiences of the current residents of this address, whether we talked with you before or whether you moved to this address since our last interview.

This survey collects important information on the extent to which individuals in this country are victims of crime. The survey results are used in many ways, including by citizens to evaluate their vulnerabilities, by legislators and policymakers to develop programs to aid crime victims and prevent crime, and by researchers to understand various aspects of crime victimization.

A Census Bureau representative from our field office will contact you shortly to ask you and other members of your household some questions on this subject. We conduct this survey under the authority of Title 13, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 8. Section 9 of this law requires us to keep all information about you and your household strictly confidential. We may use this information only for statistical purposes. Also, Title 42, U.S.C., Section 3732, authorizes the Bureau of Justice Statistics, U.S. Department of Justice, to collect information using this survey. Title 42, U.S.C., Sections 3789g and 3735, also requires us to keep all information about you and your household strictly confidential.

Because this is a sample survey, your answers represent not only you and your household, but also hundreds of other households like yours. For this reason, your participation in this voluntary survey is extremely important to ensure the completeness and accuracy of the final results. Although there are no penalties for failure to answer any question, each unanswered question substantially lessens the accuracy of the final data.

Answers to the most frequently asked survey questions are on the reverse side of this letter. If you would like further information, contact the Census Bureau by writing or calling the following office:

REGIONAL DIRECTOR
US CENSUS BUREAU
100 S INDEPENDENCE MALL W #410
PHILADELPHIA PA 19106-2320

Telephone: 1-800-262-4236

Thank you for your cooperation. The Census Bureau appreciates your help.

Sincerely,

John H. Thompson
Director

What is the National Crime Victimization Survey all about?

This survey, called the National Crime Victimization Survey, collects data measuring the types and amount of crime involving people age 12 or older. Periodically, the survey includes such additional topics as crime in schools, contacts with law enforcement, and identity theft.

How was I selected for this survey?

Actually, we selected your living quarters, not you personally for this survey. We scientifically selected a sample of addresses across the country to represent the entire population. At each selected address, we interview household members age 12 or older. If your household should move away while your address is still in the survey, we would interview the new family that moves in.

Will information I provide be confidential?

We are conducting this survey under the authority of Title 13, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 8. Section 9 of this law requires us to keep all information about you and your household strictly confidential. We may use this information only for statistical purposes. Also, Title 42, U.S.C., Section 3732, authorizes the Bureau of Justice Statistics, Department of Justice, to collect information using this survey. Title 42, U.S.C., Sections 3789g and 3735, also requires us to keep all information about you and your household strictly confidential. (OMB Number: 1121-0111; Expiration Date: 08/31/2018.)

Do I have to participate?

The survey is voluntary, and there are no penalties for not participating. We expect the interview to take about 25 minutes. Your interview may be somewhat shorter or longer than this depending on your circumstances. If you have any comments about this survey or have recommendations for reducing its length, send them to the Chief, Victimization Statistics Branch, Bureau of Justice Statistics, Washington, DC 20531.

How are the data used?

Data from this survey are used to provide information on many topics related to crime and victimization, including crime in schools, trends in violent crime, costs of crime, and the response of law enforcement to reports of victimization. To see examples of reports, tables, and charts that use data from the survey, you can visit the Bureau of Justice Statistics' Web site at www.ojp.usdoj.gov/bjs/.

I thought that the Census Bureau only operated every 10 years, when they counted people. What is the Census Bureau doing now?

In addition to the decennial census, which is conducted every 10 years, the Census Bureau collects many different types of statistics. We conduct other censuses required by law on a regular basis, including the censuses of business and manufacturers and the census of state and local governments. Additionally, we collect data on a monthly basis to provide current information on such topics as labor force participation, retail and wholesale trade, various manufacturing activities, and trade statistics, as well as yearly surveys of business, manufacturing and governments, family income, and education.

Round 1 Crowdsourcing Pretesting Findings

NCVS Supplemental Fraud Survey (SFS)

Round 1 Crowdsourcing Pretesting Findings

In October 2016, RTI pretested the proposed screener items for the NCVS Supplemental Fraud Survey (SFS) via crowdsourcing. One hundred and fifty participants completed the screener questions and were provided opportunities to provide feedback. Those who endorsed an incident as having occurred in the past 12 months were asked to describe what happened in a few sentences. This document provides a summary of the number of responses given, categorized by whether or not we believe it to follow the legal definition of fraud, and includes some examples of the descriptions provided.

Based upon the amount of information given, all explanations were categorized as one of the following: Fraud, Maybe Fraud, Theft, or NO CRIME. Any text that clearly described fraudulent activity was coded as "Fraud." Responses were categorized as "Maybe Fraud" if the descriptions could be describing fraudulent actions but not enough information was given. The category of "Theft" was used when the incident being described would be considered theft as opposed to fraud. The final category of "NO CRIME" caught all other responses that seemed to constitute neither fraud nor theft.

For consistency, questions that were red in the original document provided by BJS are also red here. These items are designed to enable respondents to tell about experiences they had that might be similar to fraud situations, but the idea was that these items would not identify experiences that constituted fraud.

If a participant responded "No" to the survey question, they were given an opportunity to provide feedback on the question wording and understandability. These responses are not reflected in this document, nor are any similar comments provided by those who answered "Yes" to the survey question. We have a lot more data and analyses thereof that can be shared with BJS, if they are of interest.

A1a

In the past 12 months, that is, since [AUTOFILL DATE A YEAR AGO FROM SURVEY DATE], have you invested in something that was supposed to give you a high rate of return, but the investment caused you to lose money or did not provide the return you expected?

1=Yes

2=No

'Yes' responses = 29

Fraud = 7

Of these 7 respondents, 3 reported the fraud again in A1b.

"I was convinced to invest $1,000 in a startup business that a friend of a friend was founding. It was a tattoo shop in my local town. Needless to say that the business never even opened and this dude took off and hasn't been seen since May."

"I invested all my money, my life savings which was 115,000 into a forex trading account managed by a trader based in Greece. It turns out that he's a fraud and has been lying to all the investors after all these years. He is not a forex trader but a professional gambler and has lost all our money gambling it away."

Maybe Fraud = 3

"I loaned a friend of mine some money to help him start a business and I was supposed to get both the principal and an additional 20% back. I'm still waiting."

Theft = 0

NO CRIME = 19

"I was talked into buying a big box of products for a set price and told they would be easy to sell for more than twice the amount I paid for them. Nobody wanted them."

"A friend convinced me to invest in a stock based on natural type of energy corporation and as of today my investment is in the negative. I have kept this stock hoping it would come back up but so far not."

"My cousin started a business and came to me for a loan, and I gave him a loan of $1,000. He guaranteed that I would see the money doubled back to me by the end of the year. His business failed and I got nothing because he has no idea how to run a business. Had a good plan, but no execution skills."

A1b

In the past 12 months, that is, since [AUTOFILL DATE A YEAR AGO FROM SURVEY DATE], has anyone convinced you to invest your money in something by promising a high or guaranteed rate of return, but the investment turned out to be made up, or you suspect your money was never invested at all?

'Yes' responses = 10

Fraud = 4

"A friend of mine referred to me his cousin, who said I can give him $500 for this app he has and that it has been expected to provide a positive rate of return in one year...So my $500 actually became $850 in a few months...I decided to give him $2000, and he said it can double in 8 months or less...I checked in on him a week later and he's gone. My friend told me that he bolted off to Cali, with his money, my money, and a couple of other peoples' money."

Maybe Fraud = 3

"A friend of a friend was trying to attract investors to a restaurant he was planning to open. Knowing that he has had successes in the past we decided, along with several friends, to get in on the restaurant. Suffice it to say, the restaurant is still not open and we have not received any of our initial funding back although we still keep getting vague responses like the restaurant will still open but a couple of years from now. We want our money back now."

Theft = 0

NO CRIME = 3

"A friend asked me to invest stock in his company."

Neither of these 2 reported the fraud in A2b.

"I bought a Samsung smart phone from a person and it turned out to be a cheap knock off."

"We were told by a DirecTV rep that since we were also AT&T wireless customers that we would get free unlimited cellular data. It was not said that it would be at an additional cost. Also, we were told we could add 5 free a la carte channels to our package. No one at DirecTV has ever even heard of that."

"The products were supposed to be quality vitamins and shampoos. They were such poor quality from the company I invested in with my cousin."

Theft = 0

NO CRIME = 46

"My headphones immediately broke and when returned the next pair did the same."

"I bought face wash that was supposed to help with black heads. It actually made me break out worse after only 2 uses. I was out $10 and was forced to throw it away."

"I bought a set of sheets from Walmart that I've had for barely two months but are already starting to unravel at the stitch lines."

"Sometimes my internet service throttles my download speed result in less than 100mbps that is advertised."

A2b

In the past 12 months, that is, since [AUTOFILL DATE A YEAR AGO FROM SURVEY DATE], have you lost money by paying for any products or services that you never received or that turned out to be a scam?

1=Yes

2=No

'Yes' responses = 10

Fraud = 3

"Earlier this year a girl knocked on my door and claimed to be selling books to raise money for college. She asked for cash for partial payment. Later I received a bill from the company she claimed to represent which said I gave her less cash than I actually had (which indicated to me that she pocketed some of the cash). I wrote a check to the company for the difference, and I never received the books that I had ordered from her. I lost about $80 because of that."

"I invested all my money, my life savings which was 115,000 into a forex trading account managed by a trader based in Greece. It turns out that he's a fraud and has been lying to all the investors after all these years. He is not a forex trader but a professional gambler and has lost all our money gambling it away."

NO CRIME = 2

"I bought tickets to the race track but due to their ridiculous traffic I couldn't get in. I gave up and went home after moving 100ft in 1.5 hours. I think it's a scam because surely they know about the traffic situation. They knew we couldn't all get in."

"I let a person stay in my other house as they claimed to be homeless and would pay me later for the rent. Instead they sold the washer, dryer and refrigerator that was in the house and I got nothing."

NO CRIME = 14

"I have been covering my brother's bills because he is unemployed. Now that he is working and I ask him for money as a payback he complains about me asking for the money."

A9b

In the past 12 months, that is, since [AUTOFILL DATE A YEAR AGO FROM SURVEY DATE], have you lost money because you were convinced to help someone who pretended to be a family member, friend, caregiver, or someone interested in you romantically, but that person turned out to be an imposter?

Besides what we have already asked you about, in the past 12 months, that is, since [AUTOFILL DATE A YEAR AGO FROM SURVEY DATE], what else happened to you that involved someone convincing you to pay them money by misrepresenting, lying about, or hiding information?

This was an open-ended question, so there were no 'Yes' responses, per se.

Fraud = 5

"I've had many IRS phone call scams where they try to get you to transfer money, but I wouldn't ever be dumb enough to be convinced!"

"I have been receiving numerous messages on Facebook of a person or persons who claim to be affiliated with Facebooks Mark Zuckerberg. They claimed I had won a grand prize of $500,000, and all I had to do was send them $200 to claim my prize."

Note: We think these are cases of fraud because impersonating the IRS and using the internet, respectively, make the acts themselves fraud cases even if money was not lost.

Maybe Fraud = 2

"I was sponsoring 4 children through Compassion Intl. They claim that sponsors receive letters directly from the children. I believed this until I compared the handwriting on the letters in the place where the children write (not the translation area). When I saw that 11 letters from a 17 year old were each written in a different handwriting, I grew suspicious that the young man was actually writing. Each letter said basically the same few sentences. I noticed that same with the other 3 children. There were also discrepancies with some of their supposed living situations. I cancelled all sponsorships because of this."

Theft = 1

"Some hackers tried to access my credit information, but my life locker service stop them before they got any information"

Round 2 Crowdsourcing Pretesting Findings

V2 Crowdsourcing Findings

January 2017

This round of crowdsourcing involved 75 participants and the addition of new follow-up questions. Table 1 shows the number of “yes” responses that were provided for each main question. For those items that did not have additional follow-up questions, the number of text responses deemed as fraud are listed in the final column. The rows that are bolded indicate questions that contain the new follow-up questions. These items have “N/A” in the final column because later in these findings we compare the fraudulent determination of the text vs. the responses to the follow-up questions.

Table 1. Number of participants who endorsed each screener question (Bolded items have follow-up questions)

Question Number	# of Participants who answered 'Yes'*	# of text responses indicating Fraud
A1a	11	3
A1b	3	N/A
A2a	23	0
A2b	7	N/A
A3c	12	N/A
A4	2	N/A
A5	0	N/A
A6	4	0
A7	0	0
A8a	10	0
A8b	1	N/A
TOTAL	25	3

*These are not mutually exclusive

Throughout this document, we use the same color-coding scheme that was used in the “multiple responses” document for V1.

1 “Non-Fraud” Questions

Below are the three text responses that we believed would be considered fraud, but were reported on a “non-fraud” question. They call came from A1a.

(A1a. In the past 12 months, that is, since [AUTOFILL DATE A YEAR AGO FROM SURVEY DATE], have you invested in something that was supposed to give you a high rate of return, but the investment caused you to lose money or did not provide the return you expected?)

#73

(Fraud) I was giving money to a friend to start a business together band he was squandering it away with no intentions of starting the business.

#133

(Fraud) I made the mistake of answering a mail advertisement with promise of $50,000 for only $50 invested.

#123

(Fraud) friend had a bunch of merchandise that was supposed to be of good quality and easy to sell. but the merchandise was not as expected

2 Follow-up Questions

This section provides all of the responses for items that triggered follow-up questions. The trigger questions were A1b, A2b, A3c, A4, A5, and A8b. When providing the data, we did not repeat the follow-up questions each time, but instead abbreviated them to capture the intent of the question. As a reminder, the questions in their entirety are shown in the text box below. The wording was not always identical to the wording in A1ba, but the essence of the follow-up questions is the same. The only wording differences would be minor adjustments to reflect the trigger question. If a respondent did not receive a question, there will be 'N/A' instead of a response.

A1ba. How many times has this happened in the past 12 months?
_____ [numeric, open text box]

[IF A1ba = 1, ASK A1bb. IF A1ba >1, GO TO A1b_DESC. ELSE, GO TO A1b_NO]

A1bb. Have you gotten all of your money back from the person or company you invested with?
1=Yes
2=No

[IF A1bb=2, ASK A1bc. ELSE, GO TO A1b_DESC.]

A1bc. Have you tried to get your money back?
1=Yes
2=No

A1bd. Are you still communicating with the person or entity that took your money?
1=Yes
2=No

[IF A1bc=1, ASK A1be. ELSE, GO TO A1b_DESC.]

A1be. Do you think you will get all of your money back?
1=Yes
2=No
3=Don't know

Each response is represented by the participant ID number and these are only participants who answered "Yes" to the main trigger question. Below the ID number are their responses to the new follow-up questions, followed by their text description of the incident. Below that is a comparison of how their responses to the follow-up questions appeared in terms of fraud/maybe fraud/not fraud and how we interpreted their text description. Ideally, both boxes will have the same result.

Round 3 Crowdsourcing Pretesting Findings

Supplemental Fraud Survey (SFS) V3 Findings

Overall, it is still hard to compare the quantitative and qualitative responses as we are comparing apples and oranges. While the qualitative explanations do shed light on the responses, they are limited without interviewer probing to get more details. We seem to be getting closer at determining Fraud and Not Fraud, but it is unclear where to go with the Maybe Fraud responses and how to shift those either way. The biggest determining factor in these is whether or not they are still in contact with the person or entity.

There are notably more “Not Fraud” determinations in the “Text” column than the “Survey” column. This is to be expected, however, because of the way the survey questions are currently programmed. If you endorse a situation as having happened in the past 12 months, the only way to be determined as “Not Fraud” is if you have received your money back. However, in the text portion, we are able to be subjective and see that someone did not get their money back, but the situation they describe is clearly not fraud. A good example of this is failed investments that are legitimate investments where no money was returned.

Below are a few things to note when reviewing the tables:

- The full specs with all of the questions are located in this document: “V3_Revised_011717_CLEAN.docx”
- The “Taxonomy” columns were developed based on answer to the follow-up survey questions (Q6-Q11) and the taxonomy map previous developed (“V3_Fraud_Taxonomy_Mapping.xlsx”)
- >1 = R reported more than 1 incident. They did not get follow-up questions in that case, so there was no determination on whether or not what they were thinking was fraud.
- X = the survey responses resulted in a “not fraud” determination so there is no taxonomy to apply.
- Level 3 of the taxonomy is missing for question A1 because we did not have a clear mapping system for it. Those were the highlighted squares that may be too complex to capture in a survey like this due to only subtle differences.
- The “Situation” column is a very condensed version of the open-ended explanation of the incident. Any and all of these can be expanded to the full text provided by the respondent if requested.

Version 3 Protocol

V3 Supplemental Fraud Survey (SFS)

Cognitive Testing Protocol–Spring 2017

On behalf of the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS), I would like to thank you for taking the time to speak with me today. I greatly appreciate it.

Purpose: The purpose of this interview is to ask you questions about your experiences with being a victim of fraud. We are hoping to get your feedback and opinions on these questions so we may improve them.

Procedure: I am going to ask you questions as if I were an interviewer who came to your house or called you on the phone. I would like you to please answer these questions to the best of your knowledge and know that there are no right or wrong answers. After some of the survey questions I may stop and ask you follow-up questions to better understand your answer and the way you thought about the question. Most of my follow-up questions will ask what you thought about certain phrases or what you think a question is trying to ask.

As we are going through the survey, please feel free to tell me anything that comes to mind or to ask me anything you are unclear about. Feel free to think aloud as you are answering these questions. We want your honest opinions about what you like and dislike and what you do and don't understand so we can improve this survey. I also want to remind you that you do not have to answer any questions you do not want to and you can end the interview at any time. If I ask you a question you do not want to answer, you can just say "Pass".

Once you have answered all of my survey questions, I will ask you a few follow-up questions about your overall thoughts about the survey.

Do you have any questions before we begin?

INTERVIEWERS: MAKE NOTES OF QUESTIONS OR RELEVANT INFORMATION R GIVES WHEN RESPONDING TO SURVEY QUESTIONS. INCLUDE ANY INFORMATION THAT WILL HELP DESCRIBE THEIR INCIDENT(S).

INTRO

These next questions refer to experiences in which someone convinced you to pay, invest, or donate money or your personal time, by tricking or lying to you, hiding information, or promising you something that you never received.

Version 4 Protocol

V4 Supplemental Fraud Survey (SFS)

Cognitive Testing Protocol–Spring 2017

On behalf of the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS), I would like to thank you for taking the time to speak with me today. I greatly appreciate it.

Purpose: The purpose of this interview is to ask you questions about your experiences with being a victim of fraud. We are hoping to get your feedback and opinions on these questions so we may improve them.

Procedure: I am going to ask you questions as if I were an interviewer who came to your house or called you on the phone. I would like you to please answer these questions to the best of your knowledge and know that there are no right or wrong answers. After some of the survey questions I may stop and ask you follow-up questions to better understand your answer and the way you thought about the question. Most of my follow-up questions will ask what you thought about certain phrases or what you think a question is trying to ask.

As we are going through the survey, please feel free to tell me anything that comes to mind or to ask me anything you are unclear about. Feel free to think aloud as you are answering these questions. We want your honest opinions about what you like and dislike and what you do and don't understand so we can improve this survey. I also want to remind you that you do not have to answer any questions you do not want to and you can end the interview at any time. If I ask you a question you do not want to answer, you can just say "Pass."

Once you have answered all of the survey questions, I will ask you a few follow-up questions about your overall thoughts about the survey.

Do you have any questions before we begin?

1 BACKGROUND

The Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS) is in the process of developing a supplemental survey on fraud for the National Crime Victimization Survey (NCVS). This survey is based on a taxonomy of fraud developed by the Financial Fraud Research Center (FFRC), a joint project of the Stanford Center on Longevity and the FINRA Investor Education Foundation (FINRA Foundation), in collaboration with BJS. The taxonomy identified up to five levels of individual fraud.

As part of this process, BJS asked RTI to assist in the development and testing of the supplemental survey. After multiple rounds of data collection using the crowdsourcing website Mechanical Turk (MTurk), RTI began conducting in-person cognitive interviews.

The two versions used for testing were called Version 3 (V3) and Version 4 (V4). Both Versions 1 (V1) and 2 (V2) were tested in crowdsourcing and had evolved, which is why only V3 and V4 were used for in-person cognitive testing. V3 was created by staff at RTI, with input from BJS, as a means of capturing both Level 2 and Level 3 types of fraud in the screener. Unlike the previous versions (V1 and V2) there was an extra layer of follow-up questions added to the V3 screener. The screener was tested in crowdsourcing, but was still found to have problems. In order to gather more information about improving V3, it was passed on to in-person cognitive testing.

V4 was created by BJS, with input from RTI, as a hybrid of the V2 and V3 screeners. This hybrid was created based upon the positive findings in each version screener during crowdsourcing. Unlike V3, the V4 screener had not been previously tested in crowdsourcing.

The purpose of crowdsourcing was to test the screeners to see if respondents were correctly reporting fraud. For in-person interviewing, we tested both the screener and the body of the survey, which was called the incident form. The incident form was developed by BJS, with input from RTI, for the V4 screener. RTI then adapted the skip logic and added the incident form to the V3 screener. The incident forms for both V3 and V4 are the same.

2 PARTICIPANTS

Participants for these in-person cognitive interviews were recruited via ads posted on craigslist.com. The posted ad described the survey content and included a link to a screener survey. The screener survey for these interviews was the V4 screener with some additional questions for demographic and contact information. Interested volunteers would complete the screener survey and those who were eligible would be called by an RTI recruiter in order to set up a date and time to complete the interview.

Ads were posted in the corresponding craigslist sites for three cities where RTI interviewers were located: Raleigh/Durham/Chapel Hill, NC; Charlotte, NC; and Portland, OR. In Raleigh/Durham/Chapel Hill, NC and Portland, OR, participants came into an RTI office whenever possible to complete the interview. Whenever that was not possible or when there was a volunteer in Charlotte, NC, interviews took place in a private room at a public library. The majority of interviews took place in the Raleigh/Durham/Chapel Hill, NC area as that was where the most interviewers were located. Table 1 shows the demographic breakdown of participants by location. All participants reported at least one type of fraud occurring in the past 12 months in the online interview screener survey. A few participants reported that their experiences with fraud were more than 12 months once they were being interviewed in-person.

*P7's responses were inconsistent between the screener and incident questions. This was not caught until after the interview was complete, but the interviewer was suspicious that the participant was fabricating responses during the survey. We did not exclude this participant from analysis, but we are cautious when interpreting these findings.

3 METHODOLOGY

Cognitive interviews are one-on-one interviews used to assess a questionnaire for general understanding, question and response wording, respondent burden, and question context. The goal is to gain an understanding of how well the questions work when administered to a sample of the survey's target population. The interview follows a cognitive protocol with pre-scripted probes. Cognitive interviewers also use spontaneous probes to gain a better understanding of questions.

Interviews lasted approximately 1 hour. Participants were instructed to listen to the questions asked by the interviewer and answer them as if they were being interviewed at their homes or over the phone. Throughout the survey, the interviewer stopped in between survey questions to ask scripted and unscripted probes to better understand the participant's thought process and fraud experience. Following the interview, we asked each participant some additional debriefing questions regarding their feelings about the survey in general.

4 FINDINGS

In these findings, if there are no comments about unclear questions or examples of misinterpretations, it should be assumed that the question was generally well understood by all.

4.1 GENERAL

Non-Monetary Fraud

One participant (P11) did not endorse any of the screener questions as happening in the past 12 months, but she did share some information on fraud she had been a victim of. Though she was reserved with the information she shared, it was clear that more than once she had been tricked into providing her information in exchange for a prize. The situations she described were either receiving an email or an internet pop-up saying she had won money but had to provide her personal information in order to claim it. She described an email she received as very personal and it really sounded like someone in another state had left her money. She provided information like her name, address and bank account number and never received the promised money. She did, however, have her identity stolen. In one case, she provided her personal information and she even received a check in the mail. However, when she went to cash the check, it bounced. Though she did not provide money up front to receive more money in return, these situations seem to suggest fraudulent activity as she is being tricked or lied to about what she would receive in return.

Getting Reimbursed By a Third Party

In multiple follow-up branches, participants correctly responded to the question “Have you gotten all of your money back from the person or company you (gave/sent/donated) money to?” when they received money from a third party. One participant answered “no” to that question explaining that the money came back from the credit card company. Another person answered “no” because she did not get money back from the person she gave it to, but another friend who felt bad for her and gave her the money she lost.

Multiple Incidents

The majority of people counted multiple incidents chronologically. They counted the first event as the “first event to happen in the past 12 months.” In other words, the last event they counted was usually the most recent event.

Reporting Fraud to Agencies

The most common groups or agencies that participants had not been heard of before were the CFPB, IC3 and FINRA. A few participants commented that it would have been nice to know about the existence of some of these agencies when they were being defrauded. A few participants said they had not heard of the FTC, but that was only a small number.

Realization of Victimization

One interviewer reported having a few participants who revealed that they had not thought of themselves as victims of fraud until they were completing our recruitment screener. These folks appreciated the resources that were provided at the end of the survey.

V3 Overall Comments

Overall, the survey was fairly well received. A few participants commented on how thorough the survey was and how many different aspects of fraud that were covered. One participant thought we would ask for more details about the specific incident, then added that they would have been comfortable providing more information. Another participant thought we should ask more about how people were contacted, as well as questions about social media use as it relates to being defrauded. One participant felt that older respondents may need questions to be repeated more often because of how similar they are.

V4 Overall Comments

The V4 survey was fairly well received, as well. One participant commented that the survey seemed repetitive. Two participants commented on the time frame and that more information could be provided if the time was expanded beyond the past 12 months. Another participant suggested providing a definition of fraud at the beginning of the survey as some may not understand what all it entails. One interviewer received multiple comments pointing out fraudulent ads on craigslist.com (where we recruited).

Fraud Situations:

- P17: Approached about a Foundation that was created out of a couple’s lottery winnings. It was an opportunity for people to create bank accounts and earn interest from those lottery winnings. He provided money to setup the “bank account” and to pay “banking fees,” but never received any money in the account, as was promised. (Note: This is difficult because the money was coming from “lottery winnings” (though not their own personal lottery winnings), they were putting money up front to get interest in return, which suggested an “investment,” but they were not actually investing their money, they were “paying” for charges to open and maintain a bank account.)

Difficulties:

- This is P17, which is a single incident that was repeated as it fit in multiple categories (prize/grant fraud, investment fraud, products and services fraud) and the participant continued to re-report it. Since P17 said A7d=1, he received the follow-up questions for prize and grant fraud. Some of his answers made sense.
 - A8a – He paid money up front (for the bank account) to receive lottery winnings (the interest that came from the “foundation founders” lottery winnings).
 - A8d – Here, he got confused and started talking about a second incident when he was asked to send money overseas to get an inheritance, but he did not actually do it. There are multiple reasons why he should not have endorsed this item.

Fraud Situations:

- P5: Made aware of an opportunity to receive a return on investment with a good company with other investors. However, after investing, the company just closed up.
- P7: Involved in a penny-stock scheme. (Should likely not be counted in fraud (responses) because P said they thought they would get their money back [A1e=1]).
- P17: (Only responded to Incident Form questions for Prize/Grant Fraud) Approached about a Foundation that was created out of a couple's lottery winnings. It was an opportunity for people to create bank accounts and earn interest from those lottery winnings. He provided money to setup the "bank account" and to pay "banking fees," but never received any money in the account, as was promised. - P18: Was in a dance class and asked to invest money in a “women’s investment opportunity” and get 8 other women to invest as well. After paying her money, she could not get 8 others to invest and went back to tell the person, who simply said it fell through anyway. However, their money was never returned.

Difficulties:

- P18 was not quite sure of the difference between “investing money” (A1) and “paying money” (A2).
- P18 had slight difficulty answering some of the incident questions because it was just a group of people, not a business that defrauded her.

Fraud Situations:

- P5: Got money back.
- P14: Someone contacted her by phone and promised her travel benefits for a fee. She provided her checking account number but they took out the money from her savings account. They had a contact number for the company, but after 2 months of trying and no answer, decided to stop. This person initially felt that the bank had made an error in allowing the withdrawal to come from her savings account. It was when she tried to get this money back from the company that she realized she had been defrauded.

- P17: (Only responded to Incident Form questions for Prize/Grant Fraud) Approached about a Foundation that was created out of a couple’s lottery winnings. It was an opportunity for people to create bank accounts and earn interest from those lottery winnings. He provided money to setup the “bank account” and to pay “banking fees,” but never received any money in the account, as was promised. - P18: She ordered something from ebay, but when the box arrived, it sounded like it was full of broken parts. She tried to contact the seller, but received no answer. She would have reported it to ebay, but she did not file a grievance in time. To our knowledge, she never opened the box. (Not counted in fraud (narrative) because this does not sound like fraud.)

Difficulties:

- P11 noted that A1 and A2 seemed similar (though they did not endorse either).
- After hearing A2 read aloud, P14 thought it would have been more appropriate to her situation than A1, which she had already responded to. Her answers were then moved to A2.
- This is P17, which is a repeat of an incident reported in A1. However, this is tricky as he endorsed all of these items but most of them made sense.
 - A7a – paid for a product never received (a bank account)
 - A7b – he paid for a service (banking fees) that he felt she should not have had to pay for.
 - A7c – billed for the deposit fee (same as A7b)
 - A7d – he was told to pay money up front (to pay for the bank account) to get more money in return (the interest).

Fraud Situations:

- P1: This person talked about giving money to strangers on the street but not knowing where it was really going. He considered that fraud and felt that it fit into the screener. The incident questions in S7 were not asked because they did not make sense to him (as the recipient was a stranger).

- P9: A bunch of kids said they needed money for the homeless. He gave them money 3 different times before he stopped. He said he found out they were using the money to buy drugs and alcohol.

Difficulties:

- In both of these instances, the participants gave money to individuals they did not know, but these strangers did not pretend to be family, friends, or romantically interested. This made the question wording sometimes awkward to understand.
- Current routing sent these folks down the path of relationship/trust fraud because they gave money to individuals and not groups, but these individuals were seen as charity cases. According to the taxonomy, these incidences should have been categorized as charity. This also would have made more sense to the participants.
- P9 was not sure how to answer how much money he gave them because he gave these people money 3 different times, even though the questions specifically asks “altogether”. He provided the total amount of money he gave (which was $180).

*One participant (P16) was almost involved in an employment situation where she was asked to pay money up front. She did not pay the money so she answered 'No' to S4, but since she had a similar experience, the interviewer went through the questions with her anyway to receive feedback.

S4D
DO YOU THINK THERE IS A CHANCE THE PERSON OR COMPANY MIGHT STILL GIVE YOU ALL OF YOUR MONEY BACK?	No	No/DK

Fraud Situations:

- P2: Met a man at the local mall who was representing a modeling agency. They were doing a casting call for a fashion show. It seemed legit and they really liked her. They offered her a contract and she paid $200 to participate. She was asked to go to another event which she and another woman attended, but no one was there. They realized that it was a fraud and they could not find the guy again.
- P6: There was an offer for a job placement at a training course for auto sales and he was trying to get back into auto sales at the time. He paid the money for that course and never received any notifications of the classes or job placement. He was also unable to contact customer service. He got no responses to his contact attempts and they disappeared.
- P15: Paid to take a course and get a certification as a medical marijuana dispensary agent. These people guaranteed a certification and a job. However, once she got the certification and went into dispensaries, she was told that her certificate did not mean anything. There was no follow-up from the company afterwards.
- P16*: Two months ago she sent her resume to a shell corporation inside a shell corporation and was selected for an interview. She went in for an interview and they told her if she chose to move forward she would have to pay for licensure and training materials, with promises of reimbursement for a portion of the materials. She did not go any further with it, but she had gone through 2 interviews with them.

Difficulties:

- In the screener, P15 said they did not try to get their money back, so this was not counted as fraud in Fraud (responses). However, the interviewer continued with the incident questions to obtain feedback.

- In the interview with P6, at the end of the questions for this incident, he noted that he tried to contact customer service. The interviewer noted that this was the first they had heard of this and realized when the participant was previously asked about customer service, the question was worded, “Did you tell any of the following people or groups about the incident...?” The participant had responded “no” to this question because they were unable to reach customer service and, therefore, unable to te// them about the incident. There is no place in the survey to record unsuccessful contact attempts like this.

None

Difficulties:

- P6 felt that this question was so broad that it could encapsulate the previous two questions. When he heard the probe asking his thoughts if we changed this question to “invested money with a person or company that promised you a guaranteed return or promised you would not lose any money,” he said this version was clearer. Had he heard that question instead of the one currently in the survey, he would not have said yes to this question. Therefore, the interviewer did not ask the corresponding incident questions.
- Another participant who did not endorse this type of fraud felt that the question wording provided in the probe made them think of a scam where the original question wording had not.

Fraud Situations:

- P10: Ordered a panini press from Macy's and never received it. The post office had shipped it back to the warehouse because he had moved. Two months later, it was never delivered, he got the runaround to different post offices. The store and post office all say it has been delivered. Used PayPal to pay so has spoken to them and they are investigating. In the meantime, he gets something in the mail from the post office saying there is a package there for him but there is $17 due in order to receive it. He has not gone to get it yet, but he does not plan on paying any more. He did admit that he did not think this was fraud (S6B16=2). Not counted as fraud in Fraud (narrative).
- P12: Signed up for a dating service and found out the website was more risqué than expected and decided he did not want to be a part of it. He had given them his information over the phone before checking the website. He said the website was poorly made and that was when he realized he had made a mistake. He contacted the company and bank almost immediately. Bank refunded his money but took it back after an investigation. Not counted as fraud in Fraud (narrative).
- P13: Bought filters for an evaporative cooler from a cheaper company overseas and never received them. She got her money back from the credit card company.

Difficulties:

- It was interesting that P12 got their money back from the bank, but after an investigation, the bank took the money back and ruled against his claim. He answered the questions correctly that he did not get his money back (even though he had temporarily).

Screener Responses:

P8
S7A
HOW MANY TIMES DID THIS HAPPEN IN THE PAST 12 MONTHS?	1

Fraud Situations:

- P8: He was a victim of marriage fraud. He had been married to a woman for 10 years, paid for everything, all bills, her car payments, etc. He later found out that she was a Swedish millionaire, had multiple social security cards, fake passports, and had committed fraud in both the US and Sweden. This has resulted in years of investigations from multiple agencies who have said there was not enough money involved to pursue her.

Difficulties:

- There was some difficulty with the time frame. The participant said this happened in the past 12 months because all things were settled about 11 months ago. However, he had been divorced from this woman for a few years by that point, so though he was still dealing with the fallout from this situation, he was not paying for anything for his ex-wife 12 months ago.
- He had difficulty describing the form of payment because he did not necessarily “pay her” but he paid for her expenses, bills, cost of living, etc. for about 10 years. He used his credit card, ATM card and cash to pay for these things.
- He had contacted a number of agencies beyond what was listed in S7B11 to report her for multiple types of fraud. When asked if he told with family or friends, he shared that he has a blog all about it. He brought folders full of legal documents with him. Given the nature of their relationship, it was awkward when asked if he contacted “Company’s customer service,” “FTC,” “BBB,” “IC3,” or “FINRA.”

5 RECOMMENDATIONS

When comparing the outcomes from the administrations of V3 and V4, it is difficult to tell if one version worked better than the other. V3 was designed to whittle down to Level 3 of the fraud taxonomy through a few follow-up questions. Though the questions worked conceptually, in practice, there was more confusion than there was clarification. It is clear that one fraudulent incident can have aspects of multiple types of fraud, making it extremely challenging to categorize a specific type of fraud in only a few questions. That being said, we would recommend moving forward with V4.

Due to the variety of ways a person can be defrauded and the many avenues of communication today's technology allows, it is difficult to anticipate all of the fraudulent situations that will be reported. Below are a few recommendations intended to help guide respondents through the survey and down the correct path.

- Consider revising the wording in S5. The suggested wording in follow-up probe 16 evoked a greater understanding of the types of situations that should be considered.
- It was not clear how (or if) giving money to strangers on the street should be considered fraud. We recommend either making a clear path for these cases (likely to Charity Fraud) or being specific about excluding them (we tend to favor the latter option here).
- Clarify whether Prize/Grant Fraud should include non-monetary prizes, such as the iPad one participant was told they won and for which they just had to pay shipping to receive, but never did.
- Consider whether or not being defrauded out of personal financial information should count as fraud. Even though a specific sum of money was not handed over, personal information allowing access to the participant's finances was provided under false pretense.
- In a few cases, describing the form(s) of payment was difficult for participants because they provided money on the spot. We recommend revising some of the questions to be mindful of the possibility of in-person transactions.
- It may be useful to include a question asking about any people or agencies someone may have attempted to contact, but they were unsuccessful in doing so (for example, company customer service, individual seller, etc.). In many of these instances, the participant realized they were a victim of fraud after they could not get in touch with someone.

One final thought for consideration is related to the possibility of participants endorsing a screener question and later deciding their situation fit better in another category. Considering that some of our participants changed their minds about their responses after hearing subsequent questions, it may be helpful to share the seven different types of fraud with participants at the beginning of this section so they know what is coming. This may help minimize the need for interviewers to back track if a participant changes their mind. It might also help by conveying the meaning of the types of things we will be asking about, which will give respondents some insights and/or guardrails that might help them answer more accurately.
