BPS:12/17 Brochure Text

What is BPS?

The 2012/17 Beginning Postsecondary Students Longitudinal Study (BPS) follows students who started postsecondary education in the 2011–12 academic year. BPS will survey about 34,000 students in 2017 to collect information about their educational progress and plans, experience in the workforce, earnings and expenses, family status, and personal and professional goals.

Why am I being asked to participate?

You are being asked to participate in BPS because you were enrolled in postsecondary education for the first time during the 2011–12 academic year. Postsecondary education is any education beyond high school, including career and technical school, college, and graduate school. Most study participants were first surveyed in 2012 as part of the National Postsecondary Student Aid Study and then again in 2014 for the first BPS follow-up.

What happens to the results?

Results from the current study are scheduled to be released in 2018 and will be posted on the NCES website (<http://nces.ed.gov/surveys/bps/>) along with results from previous BPS studies. Your responses will be combined with those of other students and will be presented in summary form only. No individually-identifiable information will be published. Researchers will use BPS data to explore a wide variety of topics, such as how financial aid influences persistence in and completion of postsecondary education.

Why is my participation important?

Your survey responses help educators, researchers, and policymakers at the local, state, and national levels understand national trends in enrollment patterns, education goals, employment, and backgrounds of students who pursue education after high school. Your experiences are unique, and, if you choose not to participate in BPS, no one else can be substituted for you.

Did you know?

The most recent BPS follow-up occurred in 2014 and about 25,000 students who began their postsecondary education in the 2011–12 academic year completed an interview. More than half of these first-time beginning postsecondary students were pursuing a certificate (10 percent) or associates degree (42 percent) during their first year. Two years later in 2014, about 16 percent had earned a degree or certificate, 54 percent were still enrolled, and 30 percent were not enrolled.

Who is conducting BPS?

The 2012/17 Beginning Postsecondary Students Longitudinal Study (BPS:12/17) is being conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), in the U.S. Department of Education’s Institute for Education Sciences, with data collection being carried out under contract by RTI International, a nonprofit research organization based in North Carolina.

NCES is authorized to conduct BPS by the Education Sciences Reform Act (ESRA) of 2002 (20 U.S.C. § 9543), and to collect students’ education records from educational agencies or institutions for the purposes of evaluating Federally supported education programs under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Acts (FERPA, 34 CRF §§ 99.31(a)(3) and 99.35).

How will my information be protected?

NCES is required to follow strict procedures to protect personal information in the collection, reporting, and publication of data. Data collected from or about individual students are used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed or used in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (ESRA 2002, 20 U.S.C., § 9573).

Data security procedures for BPS are reviewed and approved by NCES data security staff. Your answers are secured behind firewalls and are encrypted during internet transmission using Secure Sockets Layer (SSL) protocol. All data entry modules are password protected and require the user to log in before accessing confidential data. Project staff is subject to large fines or imprisonment if individual responses are disclosed.

About BPS

The 2012/17 Beginning Postsecondary Students Longitudinal Study (BPS) follows students who started postsecondary education in the 2011–12 academic year. The study collects information about their education progress and plans, experience in the workforce, earnings and expenses, family status, and personal and professional goals. Data for BPS are collected through a web or telephone survey, as well as through links to college records and other data sources. The information collected will provide researchers, educators, and policymakers with a better understanding of enrollment in postsecondary education, school expenses and financial aid, employment during and after school, demographics, and living expenses.

The BPS:12/17 is the second follow-up survey of a cohort of students who were enrolled in college or another postsecondary institution for the first time during the 2011–12 academic year. Most study participants were first surveyed in 2012 as part of the National Postsecondary Student Aid Study (NPSAS) and then again in 2014 for the first BPS follow-up.

Congress has authorized the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) of the U.S. Department of Education's Institute of Education Sciences to collect data about the costs of postsecondary education because policymakers at all levels need reliable and current national data in order to make decisions about postsecondary education.

BPS is being administered for NCES by RTI International*, a nonprofit research firm based in North Carolina. RTI is affiliated with Duke University, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and North Carolina State University.

*RTI International is a registered trademark and a trade name of Research Triangle Institute.

To learn more about the data from previous BPS cycles, visit NCES' BPS website.

What to Expect

Why am I being asked to participate?

You are being asked to participate in BPS because you were enrolled in postsecondary education for the first time during the 2011–12 academic year. Postsecondary education is any education beyond high school, including career and technical school, college, and graduate school. Most study participants were first surveyed in 2012 as part of the National Postsecondary Student Aid Study (NPSAS) and then again in 2014 for the first BPS follow-up.

How can I complete the BPS survey?

You may complete the BPS survey on the Web – simply log in from the home page by entering your Study ID and password, which are provided in the BPS letter or e-mail you received. You can even complete it on your mobile device. If you need assistance accessing the survey on the website, or if you want to complete the survey by telephone, contact the BPS Help Desk by calling (800) 334-2321 or send an e-mail to bps@rti.org.

How long will the survey take?

For most people, we expect the survey will take about 30 minutes, depending on your answers. You do not have to complete the survey in one session. You can get started and, if you choose, you can easily log out and resume at a later time.

Do I have to participate?

Participation in this study is voluntary; however, your involvement is very important to the success of this study. By participating, you have the opportunity to help researchers, educators, and policymakers gain a better understanding of enrollment in postsecondary education, school expenses and financial aid, employment during and after school, demographics, and living expenses.

Can I refuse to answer a question?

You may refuse to answer any question at any time. If you choose not to answer or are unable to answer a particular question, you may still continue with the rest of the survey. However, your answers to particular questions may determine subsequent questions you are asked.

I'm registered on the National Do Not Call Registry. That means you can't contact me, right?

The National Do Not Call Registry restrictions exempt survey research organizations. Because our sole purpose is to encourage you to participate in a survey, not to sell you anything, we are permitted to contact you about your participation. For more information, please refer to consumer information regarding the National Do Not Call Registry.

Who is conducting BPS?

The 2012/17 Beginning Postsecondary Students Longitudinal Study (BPS:12/17) is being conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), in the U.S. Department of Education's Institute for Education Sciences, with data collection being carried out under contract by RTI International*, a nonprofit research organization based in North Carolina. NCES is authorized to conduct BPS by the Education Sciences Reform Act (ESRA) of 2002 (20 U.S.C. § 9543), and to collect students' education records from educational agencies or institutions for the purposes of evaluating Federally supported education programs under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA, 34 CFR §§ 99.31(a)(3) and 99.35). How do I know your website is secure?

The BPS website is protected by Secure Sockets Layer (SSL; 128-bit encryption) technology. Your survey responses are collected over a secure server and connection also protected by SSL.

Should I use a particular web browser to take the survey?

The survey requires a browser that supports HTML5 and JavaScript. The latest versions of Firefox, Chrome, and Safari will work, as will Internet Explorer 9 and later. If you are having any trouble completing the survey, please call our Help Desk at (800) 334-2321 and we will be happy to assist you.

Previous Results

As with all prior BPS studies, the results will be presented in summary form only; no individually identifiable information will be published. Data collected from BPS will enable researchers, educators, and policymakers to gain a better understanding of enrollment in postsecondary education, school expenses and financial aid, employment during and after school, demographics, and living expenses.

Here's what we've learned from BPS so far...

The most recent BPS follow-up occurred in 2014. About 25,000 students who began their postsecondary education in the 2011–12 academic year completed an interview. More than half of these first-time beginning postsecondary students were pursuing a certificate (10 percent) or an associate's degree (42 percent) during their first year. Only a limited number of people were selected for the study, so each person represents many others who were not selected. Therefore, it is extremely important that you complete the interview so that educators and policymakers better understand the rate at which beginning students are completing degree programs, the factors preventing them from continuing their education, and the experiences of students as they transition into employment. Because the results from this study will help develop policy regarding participation in higher education, your experiences and opinions will help determine how future tax dollars are spent.

Dear «casename»:

On behalf of the National Center for Education Statistics in the U.S. Department of Education's Institute of Education Sciences and the staff of the 2012/17 Beginning Postsecondary Students Longitudinal Study (BPS), we would like to thank you for completing your BPS survey. Your participation in this study is very important to its success. Enclosed you will find a check for $<<inc_amount>>.

If you are unable to cash this check without incurring a fee, you may cash it at any Wells Fargo location for free. If the teller informs you there is a fee for cashing the check, ask them to refer to the account notes, as all fees should be waived. If the teller insists on charging a fee, please do not cash the check. Contact us immediately at (800) 647-9657.

Please do not hesitate to contact us directly at (800) 647-9657 if we can provide any additional information or assistance.

Dear «fname»:

[INSERT MERGE FIELD FROM TABLE]

Students who recently began their postsecondary education face many opportunities and challenges as they transition into the next phase of their lives. To better understand beginning students' experiences, the Beginning Postsecondary Students Longitudinal Study (BPS) collects information from students about their lives, careers, and further education. You represent many other students like you, and although participation in BPS is voluntary, we hope you will decide to complete the survey about your experiences.

Please log on to our secure website to participate:

Subject: The BPS Survey: Your Questions Answered

<<Fname>>, we're offering $<<inc_amount>> for your participation in the BPS survey, which takes <<only <<time>>/about <<time>>>> minutes and can be completed on a phone or tablet. You can receive your incentive via PayPal or check.

We can't replace you with anyone else, so it's very important that you participate!

If you have questions about the study, we're here to help!

How do I participate?

Just click here to get started now, or log in at <https://surveys.nces.ed.gov/bps/>. It only takes about <<time>> minutes to complete.

Study ID: <caseid>

Password: <password>i

Why am I being asked to participate?

You are being asked to participate in BPS because you were enrolled in higher education for the first time during the 2011–12 academic year. Most study participants were first surveyed in 2012 as part of the National Postsecondary Student Aid Study (NPSAS) and then again in 2014 for the first BPS follow-up.

How long will the survey take?

SUBJECT: Don't Delay! Participate in BPS Today!

We've been contacting you about participating in BPS, <<fname>>!

BPS is an important study that will help researchers, educators, and policymakers gain a better understanding of enrollment in postsecondary education, school expenses and financial aid, employment during and after school, demographics, and living expenses.

We know that you have demands on your time, but we need your help to make sure that the study is representative of all types of students. The survey <<only>> takes about <<time>> minutes to complete, and we will send you $<<inc_amount>> (payable by PayPal or check) for completing it -- click here to get started!

You can also log in to the survey at our secure website:

<https://surveys.nces.ed.gov/bps/>

Study ID: <<caseid>>

Password: <<password>>q

Or, you can call (800) 334-2321 to get more information about BPS or to complete the survey by phone with one of our trained interviewers.

We hope you will decide to participate – BPS won't be the same without you.

Thanks!

IF OUTBOUND CALL AND NOT ALREADY MENTIONED:

Hello, this is _____, calling about the Beginning Postsecondary Students Longitudinal Study of students who began their postsecondary education during the 2011-2012 school year. The study is being conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics/ U.S. Department of Education.

CONSENT SCREEN - READ VERBATIM:

Recently, we sent you material about a study we're administering for the U.S. Department of Education to better understand the education and employment experiences of students who began their postsecondary education during the 2011-2012 academic year. The survey takes about <<time>> minutes, and may be monitored or recorded for quality assurance purposes. [INSERT MERGE FIELD FROM TABLE]. You may decline to answer any question or stop the survey at any time. If you would like to learn more about your rights as a participant, let me know.

If SM wants more information about the study or participant rights

READ VERBATIM UNTIL SM INTERRUPTS:

Your responses, combined with student record information (such as financial aid data), may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in personally identifiable form for any other purpose, unless otherwise required by law. (You are one of approximately 34,000 students who will be taking part in this study.) In addition to your survey responses, we collect financial aid, student records and related information from your school and sources such as student loan databases and admissions testing agencies.

You participation is voluntary and will not affect any aid or other benefits that you may receive. You may decline to answer any question or stop the survey at any time. The risk of participating in this study is small and relates to data security. However, there are strict security procedures in place. If you would like us to re-mail the material to you, please let me know. May we begin the survey now?

(You may contact the study's director, Jason Hill, at (800) 647-9657. For questions about your rights as a study participant, please contact RTI's Office of Research Protection at (866) 214-2043.)

If SM does not want more information about the study or participant rights,

May we begin the survey now?

(You may contact the study's director, Jason Hill, at (800) 647-9657. For questions about your rights as a study participant, please contact RTI's Office of Research Protection at (866) 214-2043. At you request we can re-mail the material to you.)
