G. What is a Special Government Employee (SGE)?

The SGE category was created by Congress to employ individuals who provide important, but limited, service to the Government. These employees are subject to a limited set of conflict of interest requirements. SGEs provide temporary service to the Government (not to exceed 130 days during any period of 365 consecutive days with or without compensation). SGEs are often recruited because they provide outside expertise or perspectives that might be unavailable among an agency's regular employees. SGEs are generally used as advisory committee members, individual experts or consultants. However, some SGEs serve on Boards or Commissions and are brought on pursuant to applicable statute. (See 18 U.S.C. §202(a) for more information.)

H. What is a conflict of interest?

18 U.S.C. §208 prohibits all employees (including SGEs) from participating in any particular Government matter that will have a direct and predictable effect on their financial interests. It also prohibits employees from acting in Government matters that will affect the financial interests of others with whom they have certain relationships. These relationships are:

- Spouse
- Minor child
- General partner
- Organization in which the individual serves as officer, director, trustee, general partner or employee
- Person or organization with which the employee is negotiating or has an arrangement concerning prospective employment.

I. What is a particular matter?

The term "particular matter" includes deliberations, decisions, or actions that are focused upon the interests of specific persons or entities or an identifiable class of persons or entities. A particular matter does not extend to broad policy options or considerations directed toward the interest of a large and diverse group of people. A particular matter may involve specific parties (e.g., a contract, grant or case in litigation) or it may be a particular matter of general applicability that is focused on the interests of a discrete and identifiable class of persons (such as an industry).

J. What is a direct and predictable effect?

A particular matter will have a direct effect on a financial interest if there is a close causal link between any decision or action to be taken in the matter and any expected effect of the matter on the financial interest. However, a particular matter will not have a direct effect on a financial interest if the link is attenuated, or is contingent upon the occurrence of events that are speculative, or that are independent of, and unrelated to, the matter. Furthermore, a particular matter that has an effect on a financial interest only as a consequence of its effects on the general economy is also not considered to have a direct effect on a financial interest. A particular matter will have a "predictable" effect if there is a real (as opposed to speculative) possibility that the matter will affect a financial interest. It is not necessary to know the magnitude of the loss/gain, and the dollar amount is immaterial.

K. What is an appearance of a loss of impartiality?

5 C.F.R. Part 2635, Subpart E contains provisions intended to ensure that an employee takes appropriate steps to avoid an appearance of a loss of impartiality in the performance of his/her official duties. Where an employee knows that a particular matter involving specific parties is likely to have a direct and predictable effect on the financial interest of a member of his/her household, or knows that a person with whom he/she has a covered relationship is or represents a party to such a matter, and where the person determines that the circumstances would cause a reasonable person with knowledge of the relevant facts to question his/her impartiality in the matter, the employee should not participate in the matter unless he/she has informed the agency designee of the appearance of a problem and received authorization from the agency designee.
