1. Introduction

In 2015, the U.S. Census Bureau conducted the “2015 Summer Mandatory Messaging Test” (SMMT) to assess the impact on response, cost, and reliability of survey estimates of four sets of proposed design changes to the American Community Survey (ACS) mail materials, using the September 2015 ACS panel (Oliver et al., 2015). The proposed changes aimed to improve the way we communicate the importance and benefits of the ACS while updating the look and feel of the mail materials. Of the four designs evaluated, the Revised Design, which included the use of different logos on the envelopes and letters, the use of bold lettering and boxes to highlight elements of the material, and the addition of a box that read “Open Immediately” on the envelopes, proved to be the most promising. The Revised Design increased the self-response rates significantly and increased the precision of the survey estimates.

However, the Revised Design does not address the concern by some members of the public about the strong mandatory messages found throughout the ACS mail materials. Of the remaining candidate treatments, a variation of the Revised Design called the Softened Revised Design, where references to the mandatory nature of the survey were either removed or softened throughout the mail materials, offered the best compromise. Unfortunately, the Softened Revised Design lowered self-response (Oliver et al, 2015). Therefore, we resumed our research into mail designs that soften the mandatory messages, with the hope that the resulting self-response rates would be higher than that of the Softened Revised Design.

In June 2016, we presented the results of the SMMT and other related research (Clark, 2015a; Clark, 2015b; Barth, 2015, Heimel et al., 2016) as well as recommendations made by the White House’s Social and Behavioral Science Team (SBST), to the National Academies’ Committee on National Statistics (CNSTAT) to obtain feedback from experts in the field. In July 2016, we held a series of meetings with Don Dillman, a leading expert in the field of survey methodology to assist us in redesigning the ACS mail materials to soften the mandatory messages while maximizing self-response. The result is two proposed experimental treatments that are derivatives of the Softened Revised Design – the Partial Redesign and the Full Redesign (Roberts, 2016).

For the “2017 ACS Mail Design Test,” we will evaluate these two new experimental treatments and a third — a modification of the Softened Revised Design treatment. These experimental treatments are designed to increase awareness of the ACS through new messaging and an updated look-and-feel that increases respondent engagement and self-response while softening the tone of the mandatory requirement of the survey.

Modifications to the original Softened Revised Design include the placement of the phrase “our toll free number” before the toll free number; an updated confidentiality statement; and a new design for the reminder letter-outgoing envelope that incorporates the Reingold design recommendations (U.S. Census Bureau, 2015). The Partial Redesign and the Full Redesign treatments depart from the Softened Revised Design in the following ways:

- Removal of the “Multilingual Brochure” to reduce the number of mail pieces. This information is now included on the enclosed letter.
- The addition of a “Why We Ask” pamphlet, a color pamphlet designed to engage the recipient and provide summary information about the benefits of the ACS.
- Design changes to the front page of the questionnaire to provide instruction information that would have been contained on the “Instruction Card.”
- The use of a letter instead of a postcard for the final reminder to allow us to include login information on the letter to make responding easier. The accompanying envelope contains a new message, “Final Notice Respond Now” to make a strong push for response.

Unlike recent research (Clark, 2015a; Clark, 2015b; Barth, 2015; Oliver et al., 2016; Heimel et al., 2016), which focused on changes to specific mail materials, the Partial Redesign and Full Redesign treatments test holistic changes to the mailing strategy. The Full Redesign treatment differs from the Partial Redesign in that it varies communication content in the mail materials. Per Don Dillman’s recommendations, the messages in the letters are written in a “folksy,” deferential style that is “non-threatening” (see Dillman et al., 2014 to learn more about this approach).

Table 1 provides an overview of the differences among the four treatments (1 control and 3 experimental treatments). The data are organized by the five possible mailings that an address in sample could receive. The current production ACS mail contact strategy begins with an “initial mailing”. Prospective respondents are invited to complete the ACS online or wait for a paper questionnaire. About seven days later, these recipients receive a reminder letter. About fourteen days later, recipients who have not responded receive a “questionnaire package” containing a paper questionnaire. About four days later, these recipients receive a reminder postcard. About fourteen days later, the nonrespondents who are not eligible for the Computer-Assisted Telephone Interview (CATI) operation (we do not have a telephone number for them) receive a final reminder postcard.

* Necessary because the letter did not have space to print both the respondent address and the log in information.

**The front page will include instruction information that would have been placed on the instruction card.

***The wording placement is slightly different compared to the Softened Revised Design Treatment postcard.

Because we provide more instruction information about the ACS on the first page of the paper questionnaire associated with the Partial and Full Redesign treatments, the “please print today’s date” question found on the first page of the current production questionnaire (see page 9 of Appendix A) has been moved to the second page of the revised questionnaire (see page 11 of Appendix E). This move could potentially affect analysts’ ability to calculate a person’s age when not provided.

When a person’s age is not provided and only the month and year of birth are provided (see question 4 of Appendix E), analysts calculate the missing age using the “please print today’s date” information. Historically, such cases are not common. However, these cases could be impacted by the move of the “please print today’s date” to the second page of the questionnaire. We will assess this change in this study.

2. Research Questions and Methodology

2.1 Research Questions

The results of the “2017 ACS Mail Design Test” has the potential to improve the respondent experience by addressing two concerns: increasing respondent engagement and reducing respondent burden. It is our hope that if these concerns are satisfied, it will result in a higher self-response rate for either the Partial Redesign or Full Redesign treatment as compared to the Softened Revised Design. Table 2 presents the research questions that this test will answer at specified points in time.

Table 2. Research Questions for the Mail Design Test

The self-response return rates for the treatment comparisons will be calculated at the following points in time:

- Date the mail questionnaire package is mailed to households that did not respond online:
  - Rationale: Determine the effect of each treatment on self-response for households provided one mode for self-response (Internet) and a reminder letter (M1 mailing universe).
- Date the final reminder postcard/letter is mailed to households that did not respond to the survey online or by mail:
  - Rationale: Determine the cumulative effect of each treatment on self-response for nonrespondent households that now have two choices for self-response (Internet and mail) and have received a reminder postcard (M2 mailing universe).
- Through the Computer-Assisted Telephone Interview (CATI) closeout:
  - Rationale: Determine the cumulative effect of each treatment on self-response for the households that have received a final reminder postcard or letter and still have not responded and (M3 mailing universe).

The final response rates will be calculated at closeout after all data collection operations, including the nonresponse operations, CATI and the Computer-Assisted Personal Interview (CAPI) are completed.

- Rationale: Determine the effect of each treatment on overall survey response and the impact on costs and survey estimates.

Self-response return rates, final response rates, data collection costs, and effect on survey estimates will play a role in evaluating the experimental treatments. See Section 2.2 for the formulae for the self-response return rates and the final response rates.

To assess if there is an impact of moving the date from the first page of the questionnaire to the second page, we will first answer the following question: Is the item missing data rate for the month/day fields of the “please print today’s date” question the same for the treatment and production questionnaires? The item missing data rates will be calculated for the control treatment, the Partial Redesign treatment, and the Full Redesign treatment. If the answer to the above question is “yes” then there is no impact. If there is an impact, we will provide the number of cases where the age calculation would be affected.

2.2 Methodology

2.2.1 Sample Design

The monthly ACS production sample of approximately 295,000 addresses is divided into 24 groups, where each group contains approximately 12,000 addresses. Each group is a representative subsample of the entire monthly sample and each monthly sample is representative of the entire yearly sample and the country. We will use two randomly selected groups for each treatment. Hence, each treatment will have a sample size of approximately 24,000 addresses. In total, approximately 96,000 addresses will be used for the four treatments, which includes the current production treatment group. The current production treatment will have the same mail materials as the rest of production, but will be sorted and mailed at the same time as the other treatment materials.

The sample size(s) are chosen so that we may conduct 90-percent confidence level hypothesis tests to determine if the differences between control and experimental treatment self-response return rates are greater than 1.25-percent. In calculating our sample size, we assume that the survey achieves a 50-percent response rate and that our statistical test has a power value (discernment of this 1.25-percent difference) of 80-percent.

2.2.2 Self-Response Return Rates

$$\text{Self-Response Return Rate} = \frac{\text{Number of mailable/deliverable sample addresses that provided a non-blank}^1 \text{ paper questionnaire via mail or TQA, OR a complete or sufficient partial Internet response}^2}{\text{Total number of mailable/deliverable sample addresses}^3} * 100$$

Note: The numerator encompasses all possible response modes, including Telephone Questionnaire Assistance (TQA) (part of the mail mode), which is available throughout all phases of data collection. Depending upon the point in time though, direct response via paper questionnaire may not be possible.

2.2.3 Final Response Rates

<sup>3</sup> We will remove addresses where the initial mailing was returned by the postal service as undeliverable-as-addressed and for which we did not receive a response in any mode.

$$\text{Final Response Return Rate} = \frac{\text{Number of the addresses that provided a complete or sufficient partial response}}{\text{Total number of mailable/deliverable sample addresses, excluding nonrespondent addresses that were not subsampled for CAPI, and addresses determined to be out-of-scope}} * 100$$

Note: The numerator will be calculated across mode and by mode (Internet, mail, CATI, and CAPI).

2.2.4 Item Missing Data Rates

$$\text{Item Missing Data Rate} = \frac{\text{Number of eligible housing units that did not provide a required response for the item}}{\text{Total number of eligible housing units required to provide a response to the item}} * 100$$

2.2.5 Standard Error of the Estimates

We will estimate the variances of the point estimates using the Successive Differences Replication (SDR) method with replicates – the standard method used in the ACS (see U.S. Census Bureau, 2014, Chapter 12). In calculating the self-response return rates and final response rates, we will use replicate base weights, which only account for sampling probabilities. We will calculate the variance for each rate and for the difference between rates using the formula below.

$$\text{var}(X_0) = \frac{4}{80} \sum_{r=1}^{80} (X_r - X_0)^2$$

Where:

$X_r = \hat{\zeta}$  the estimate calculated using the  $r^{\text{th}}$  replicate

$X_0 = \hat{\zeta}$  the estimate calculated using the full sample

2.2.6 Effect of Response on Cost and Survey Estimates

In evaluating the three experimental treatments, it is not sufficient to only compare their self-response return rates and final response rates. A treatment's data collection costs and effect on the survey estimates, if adopted, are also important. Past and recent research (Dillman, 1996; Barth, 2015; Oliver et al., 2016) has shown that treatments that soften or remove the mandatory language in the ACS reduce self-response. As a result, the CATI and CAPI workloads, which cost more per case to complete than self-response cases, increase.

For each experimental treatment, we will evaluate impacts under the following three scenarios:

- Maintain the current sample size: this scenario will apply the results from this test to a full year of ACS sample to evaluate the effect on the cost and reliability of estimates of using the given experimental treatment methodology for an entire ACS data collection year.
- Maintain current reliability: this scenario will use the results from this test to determine the initial sample size and cost necessary to maintain the reliability achieved using the current ACS methodology.
- Maintain costs: this scenario applies the results from this test to determine how much the sample size would need to decrease or how much it could increase to collect the ACS data using the test strategies within the 2017 budget. The effect on reliability of the survey estimates will also be determined.

3. Literature Review

Between October 2013 and November 2014, the U.S. Census Bureau collaborated with Reingold Inc. to research and propose design and messaging changes to the ACS mail materials that could potentially increase the ACS self-response rates (U.S. Census Bureau, 2015). The high-level recommendations from the report are:

- Emphasize the Census brand in ACS mail materials.
- Use visual design principles to draw attention to key messages and help respondents better navigate ACS material.
- Use deadline-oriented messages to attract attention and create a sense of urgency.
- Prioritize an official “governmental” appearance over a visually rich “marketing” approach.
- Emphasize effective “mandatory” messaging.
- Demonstrate benefits of ACS participation to local communities.
- Draw a clearer connection between objectionable questions and real-world applications and benefits.
- Streamline mail packages and individual materials.

Based on these and other recommendations, the ACS conducted five field tests in 2015 to improve the mail materials and messaging and simultaneously address respondent burden, respondent concerns about the perceived intrusiveness of the ACS, and self-response rates. A description of these five tests is provided below:

- Paper Questionnaire Package Test: conducted March 2015 to examine ways to reduce the complexity of this package (Clark, 2015a).
- Mail Contact Strategy Modification Test: conducted April 2015 to examine ways to streamline the mail materials (Clark, 2015b).

- Envelope Mandatory Messaging Test: conducted May 2015 to study the impact of removing mandatory messages from the envelopes (Barth, 2015).
- Summer Mandatory Messaging Test: conducted September 2015 to study the impact of removing or modifying the mandatory messages from the mail materials (Oliver et al., 2016).
- Why We Ask: conducted November 2015 to study the impact of including a flyer in the paper questionnaire mailing package explaining why the ACS asks the questions that it does (Heimel et al., 2016).

In June 2016, we presented the results of these research as well as recommendations made by the Whitehouse’s Social and Behavioral Science Team (SBST), to the National Academies’ Committee on National Statistics (CNSTAT) to obtain feedback from experts in the field (Plewes, 2016). In July 2016, we also held a series of meetings with Don Dillman who provided a critique of our current mail materials and messaging and 2015 research and offered suggestions for improvement. The result is two newly proposed mail treatments that are derivatives of the Softened Revised Design treatment from the “2015 Summer Mandatory Messaging Test” (Oliver et al., 2016) – the Partial Redesign and the Full Redesign. These two new treatments involve changes to the ACS mail materials and communications strategy based on social exchange theory. See Dillman (2014) for details.

4. Potential Actions

The conclusions drawn from the “2017 ACS Mail Design Test” could result in new mail materials put into production, as well as revisions to the current materials.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the American Community Survey?

The American Community Survey collects information about population and housing characteristics for the nation, states, cities, counties, metropolitan areas, and communities on a continuous basis. Based on the American Community Survey, the Census Bureau can provide up-to-date data about our rapidly changing country more often than once every 10 years when the census is conducted.

How do I benefit by answering the American Community Survey?

Communities need data about the well-being of children, families, and the older population to provide services to them. By responding to the American Community Survey questionnaire, you are helping your community to establish goals, identify problems and solutions, and measure the performance of programs.

The data are also used to decide where to locate new highways, schools, hospitals, and community centers; to show a large corporation that a town has the workforce the company needs; and in many other ways.

Do I have to answer the questions on the American Community Survey?

Yes. Your response to this survey is required by law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141, 193, and 221). Title 13, as changed by Title 18, imposes a penalty for not responding. We estimate this survey will take about 40 minutes to complete.

How will the Census Bureau use the information that I provide?

The Census Bureau can use the information you provide for statistical purposes only and cannot publish or release information that would identify you and your household. Your information will be used in combination with information from other households to produce data for your community. Similar data will be produced for communities across the United States.

We may combine your answers with information that you gave to other agencies to enhance the statistical uses of these data. This information will be given the same protections as your survey information. Based on the information that you provide, you may be asked to participate in other Census Bureau surveys that are voluntary.

Will the Census Bureau keep my information confidential?

Yes. All of the information the Census Bureau collects for this survey about you and your household is confidential by law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9). By law, every Census Bureau employee—including the Director as well as every field representative—has taken an oath and is subject to a jail term, a fine, or both if he or she discloses ANY information that could identify you or your household.

Where can I find more information about the American Community Survey or get assistance?

You may visit our Web site census.gov/acs or call 1-800-354-7271 if you need assistance or more information.

 OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR

A message from the Director, U.S. Census Bureau ...

Your household has been randomly selected to complete a very important national survey, the American Community Survey. The U.S. Census Bureau conducts this survey to give our country an up-to-date picture of how we live—our education, employment, housing, and more. Using the enclosed instructions, please complete the survey online as soon as possible at:

<https://respond.census.gov/acs>

The Census Bureau is using the Internet to collect this information in an effort to conserve natural resources, save taxpayers' money, and process your data more efficiently. If you are unable to complete the survey online, there is no need to contact us. We will send you a paper questionnaire in a few weeks.

This survey collects critical information used to meet the needs of communities across the United States. For example, results from this survey are used to decide where new schools, hospitals, and fire stations are needed. This information also helps communities plan for the kinds of emergency situations that might affect you and your neighbors, such as floods and other natural disasters.

The Census Bureau chose your address, not you personally, as part of a randomly selected sample. You are required by U.S. law to respond to this survey. The Census Bureau is required by U.S. law to keep your answers confidential. The enclosed brochures answer frequently asked questions about the survey.

If you need help completing the survey, please call our toll-free number (1-800-354-7271).

Thank you.

Sincerely,

John H. Thompson

The U.S. Census Bureau is conducting the American Community Survey

In a few days you will receive an American Community Survey questionnaire in the mail. Because you are living in the United States, you are required by law to respond to this survey. If you have questions about the form, please call us toll-free at 1-800-354-7271.

What is the American Community Survey?

The American Community Survey is an important survey conducted by the Census Bureau. It is designed to give communities current information about its people and housing. In order to make well-informed decisions, a community needs accurate and reliable information. By responding to this survey, you are helping your community to get this kind of information.

Will my answers to this survey be kept confidential?

Yes. All of the information the Census Bureau collects for this survey about you and your household is confidential by law (Title 13, United States Code).

La Oficina del Censo de los Estados Unidos está realizando la Encuesta sobre la Comunidad Estadounidense

En unos días, recibirá por correo un cuestionario de la Encuesta sobre la Comunidad Estadounidense. Como usted esta viviendo en los Estados Unidos, la ley exige que usted responda a esta encuesta. Si tiene preguntas sobre el cuestionario, llámenos al 1-877-833-5625 para hablar con uno de nuestros empleados que habla español. La llamada es gratis. El empleado podrá contestar sus preguntas o usted podrá completar la encuesta por teléfono.

¿Qué es la Encuesta sobre la Comunidad Estadounidense?

La Encuesta sobre la Comunidad Estadounidense es una encuesta importante realizada por la Oficina del Censo de los Estados Unidos. Está diseñada para brindar información actual a las comunidades sobre las personas y las viviendas. Para poder tomar buenas decisiones, una comunidad necesita información precisa y confiable. Al responder a esta encuesta, usted está ayudando a su comunidad a obtener este tipo de información.

¿Serán confidenciales mis respuestas a esta encuesta?

Así es. Toda información que la Oficina del Censo de los Estados Unidos obtenga durante esta encuesta sobre usted y su vivienda es confidencial según la ley (Título 13, Código de los Estados Unidos).

A message from the Director, U.S. Census Bureau...

About two weeks ago, the U.S. Census Bureau sent instructions for completing the American Community Survey to your address. We asked you to help us with this very important survey by completing it online. But we have not received your response yet.

If you have already completed the survey, thank you very much. If you have not, please complete the survey soon using ONE of the following two options.

Option 1: Go to <https://respond.census.gov/acs> to complete the survey online.

Option 2: Fill out and mail back the enclosed questionnaire.

This survey is so important that a Census Bureau representative may attempt to contact you by telephone or personal visit if we do not receive your response.

The information collected in this survey will help decide where new schools, hospitals, and fire stations are needed. The information also is used to develop programs to reduce traffic congestion, provide job training, and plan for the health care needs of the elderly.

The Census Bureau chose your address, not you personally, as part of a randomly selected sample. You are required by U.S. law to respond to this survey. The Census Bureau is required by U.S. law to keep your answers confidential. The enclosed brochure answers frequently asked questions about the survey.

If you need help completing the survey, please call our toll-free number (1-800-354-7271).

Thank you.

Sincerely,

John H. Thompson
Director

Current Production Treatment Materials Questionnaire Package - FAQ Brochure:

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the American Community Survey?

The American Community Survey collects information about population and housing characteristics for the nation, states, cities, counties, metropolitan areas, and communities on a continuous basis. Based on the American Community Survey, the Census Bureau can provide up-to-date data about our rapidly changing country more often than once every 10 years when the census is conducted.

How do I benefit by answering the American Community Survey?

Communities need data about the well-being of children, families, and the older population to provide services to them. By responding to the American Community Survey questionnaire, you are helping your community to establish goals, identify problems and solutions, and measure the performance of programs.

The data are also used to decide where to locate new highways, schools, hospitals, and community centers; to show a large corporation that a town has the workforce the company needs; and in many other ways.

Do I have to answer the questions on the American Community Survey?

Yes. Your response to this survey is required by law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141,193, and 221). Title 13, as changed by Title 18, imposes a penalty for not responding. We estimate this survey will take about 40 minutes to complete.

How will the Census Bureau use the information that I provide?

The Census Bureau can use the information you provide for statistical purposes only and cannot publish or release information that would identify you and your household. Your information will be used in combination with information from other households to produce data for your community. Similar data will be produced for communities across the United States.

We may combine your answers with information that you gave to other agencies to enhance the statistical uses of these data. This information will be given the same protections as your survey information. Based on the information that you provide, you may be asked to participate in other Census Bureau surveys that are voluntary.

Will the Census Bureau keep my information confidential?

Yes. All of the information the Census Bureau collects for this survey about you and your household is confidential by law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9). By law, every Census Bureau employee—including the Director as well as every field representative—has taken an oath and is subject to a jail term, a fine, or both if he or she discloses ANY information that could identify you or your household.

Where can I find more information about the American Community Survey or get assistance?

You may visit our Web site census.gov/acs or call 1-800-354-7271 if you need assistance or more information.

A Message From John H. Thompson, Director of the U.S. Census Bureau:

Your address has been randomly selected by the U.S. Census Bureau to participate in the American Community Survey. The Census Bureau conducts this survey each year to give our country an up-to-date picture of how we live – including our education, housing, and jobs.

Communities across the country rely on information from this survey to decide where important services are needed, including:

- Improving roads and reducing traffic
- Building schools
- Planning for the health care needs of the elderly

Respond now at <https://respond.census.gov/acs>

Because your household has been asked to participate on behalf of your community, it is vital that you complete this survey to help meet critical needs in your area. Your response is required by U.S. law.

If you are unable to complete the survey online, we will send you a paper questionnaire in a few weeks. The Census Bureau is using the Internet to collect this information to conserve natural resources, save taxpayers money, and process data more efficiently.

If you need help completing the survey or have questions, please call our toll-free number 1-800-354-7271.

Thank you in advance for your prompt response.

Sincerely,

John H. Thompson

Softened Revised Design Treatment Materials

Will my response be confidential?

Yes. The information you provide will help create a picture of your community, but it cannot be used to identify you. By law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9), all of the information the Census Bureau collects for this survey is completely confidential, and millions of people securely participate in the survey each year. Census Bureau employees are subject to a $250,000 fine and/or up to five years in prison if they disclose any information that could identify you.

Am I required to fill out this survey?

Yes. Your response to this survey is required by law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141, 193, and 221). As a randomly selected representative of your community, you are the voice of your neighbors and peers. To create an accurate picture of your community, it is critical that you respond.

How will the Census Bureau use the information I provide?

Your confidential response will be aggregated with information from other nearby households to produce a portrait of your community. This information is made freely accessible to government leaders, businesses, nonprofit organizations, and the public at large.

Based on the information you provide, you may be asked to participate in other Census Bureau surveys that are voluntary. We may combine your answers with information that you gave to other agencies to enhance the statistical uses of these data. This information will be given the same protection as your survey response.

How Your Responses Help America

The American Community Survey (ACS) provides vital information that public officials, planners, and entrepreneurs use to assess the past and plan the future. When you respond to the ACS, you are doing your part to help your community plan hospitals, support school lunch programs, improve emergency services, build bridges, inform businesses looking to add jobs and expand to new markets, and more. Respond at <https://respond.census.gov/acs> today.

What we ask about

How your responses help

Employment

- Unemployment
- Not in labor force
- Weeks and hours worked
- Industry and occupation

- Develop programs to boost employment.
- Pinpoint areas of growth to help businesses choose new locations.
- Help governments plan unemployment programs and services.

Education

- School enrollment, private vs. public
- Information on students, at all educational levels
- Completed level of education

- Help communities measure how well educational resources are serving their populations.
- Identify the educational and training needs of adults.
- Bridge gaps between the levels of education completed by workers and educational requirements for employers.

Veterans

- Military service
- Veteran period of service
- VA service-connected disability rating

- Help the government and communities plan for the future health care of veterans.
- Plan and fund job training for veterans.
- Improve the home loan guarantee program for veterans.

Income and Housing Costs

- Income sources
- Living expenses

- Help gauge the need for economic and housing assistance.
- Provide the only source of community data on the population and characteristics of people who live in poverty.
- Provide a measure of housing affordability.

U.S. Census Bureau
Washington, DC 20233

A Message From John H. Thompson, Director of the U.S. Census Bureau:

Your address has been randomly selected by the U.S. Census Bureau to participate in the American Community Survey. The Census Bureau conducts this survey each year to give our country an up-to-date picture of how we live – including our education, housing, and jobs.

Communities across the country rely on information from this survey to decide where important services are needed, including:

- Improving roads and reducing traffic
- Building schools
- Planning for the health care needs of the elderly

Respond now at <https://respond.census.gov/acs>

Because your household has been asked to participate on behalf of your community, it is vital that you complete this survey to help meet critical needs in your area. Your response is required by U.S. law.

If you are unable to complete the survey online, we will send you a paper questionnaire in a few weeks. The Census Bureau is using the Internet to collect this information to conserve natural resources, save taxpayers money, and process data more efficiently.

If you need help completing the survey or have questions, please call our toll-free number 1-800-354-7271.

Thank you in advance for your prompt response.

Sincerely,

John H. Thompson
Director, U.S. Census Bureau

Will my response be confidential?

Yes. The U.S. Census Bureau is required by law to protect this information. The Census Bureau is not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify you. We are conducting this survey under the authority of Title 13, United States Code, Sections 141 and 193. Federal law protects your privacy and keeps your answers confidential (Title 13, United States Code, Section 9). Per the Federal Cybersecurity Enhancement Act of 2015, your data are protected from cybersecurity risks through screening of the systems that transmit your data.

Am I required to fill out this survey?

Yes. Your response to this survey is required by law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141, 193, and 221). As a randomly selected representative of your community, you are the voice of your neighbors and peers. To create an accurate picture of your community, it is critical that you respond.

How will the Census Bureau use the information I provide?

Your confidential response will be aggregated with information from other nearby households to produce a portrait of your community. This information is made freely accessible to government leaders, businesses, nonprofit organizations, and the public at large.

Based on the information you provide, you may be asked to participate in other Census Bureau surveys that are voluntary. We may combine your answers with information that you gave to other agencies to enhance the statistical uses of these data. This information will be given the same protection as your survey response.

The Census Bureau has randomly selected your address to receive this survey as part of a nationally representative sample. You are required by U.S. law to respond to this survey. Because you will be providing important information on behalf of your community, it is vital that you complete this survey to help meet critical needs in your area – including determining where to locate new schools, hospitals, and fire stations.

If you do not respond promptly, a Census Bureau interviewer may contact you to complete the survey.

Your answers are completely confidential.

By law, the Census Bureau cannot publish or release information that would identify you or your household.

If you need help completing the survey or have questions, please call our toll-free number 1-800-354-7271.

Thank you for your prompt response.

Sincerely,

I am writing to request your help with the American Community Survey. The Census Bureau conducts this survey each year to give our country an up-to-date picture of how we live – including information about our education, housing, and jobs. Communities across the country rely on information from this survey to decide where important services are needed, including roads, schools, hospitals, and veterans' services. Your address has been selected to represent your community.

The Census Bureau would prefer that you answer this survey online using the secure website and User ID provided below. Answering online saves taxpayer money, conserves natural resources, and makes processing the results quicker and more efficient.

Respond at <https://respond.census.gov/acs>
Log in using this User ID:

I would appreciate you completing this survey for all people living at this address to help identify critical needs in your area. I realize that not everyone is comfortable responding online. If you are unable to complete the survey online, the Census Bureau will send you a paper questionnaire in about 3 weeks. Your response is required by law (Title 13, U.S. Code).

The enclosed brochure, "How Your Responses Help America," explains more about why particular questions are included in this survey. If you need help completing the survey or have questions, please call our toll-free number 1-800-354-7271.

Thank you in advance for your prompt response.

Sincerely,

John H. Thompson
Director, U.S. Census Bureau

Will my response be confidential?

Yes. The U.S. Census Bureau is required by law to protect this information. The Census Bureau is not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify you. We are conducting this survey under the authority of Title 13, United States Code, Sections 141 and 193. Federal law protects your privacy and keeps your answers confidential (Title 13, United States Code, Section 9). Per the Federal Cybersecurity Enhancement Act of 2015, your data are protected from cybersecurity risks through screening of the systems that transmit your data.

Am I required to answer this survey?

Yes. Your response to this survey is required by law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141, 193, and 221). As a selected representative of your community, you are the voice of your neighbors and peers. To create an accurate picture of your community, it is critical that you respond.

How will the Census Bureau use the information I provide?

Your confidential response will be combined with information from other nearby households to produce a portrait of your community. This combined information is made freely accessible to government leaders, businesses, nonprofit organizations, and the public at large.

Based on the information you provide, you may be asked to participate in other Census Bureau surveys that are voluntary. We may combine your answers with information that you gave to other agencies to enhance the statistical uses of these data. This information will be given the same protection as your survey response.

It is important that we hear from all respondents. If you would rather respond in a different language, please use the following resources:

U.S. Census Bureau
Washington, DC 20233

A few days ago, I sent you a request to complete the American Community Survey, which helps communities and businesses throughout the U.S. plan for the future of our country. Local communities depend on information from this important Census Bureau survey to decide where schools, highways, hospitals, and other important services are needed. If you have already responded, I want to thank you. If not, I would really appreciate receiving your response soon.

Respond at <https://respond.census.gov/acs>
Log in using this User ID:

If you are not able to answer online or prefer to answer by mail, the Census Bureau will mail a paper questionnaire to your address in about 10 days.

Just as people are required to respond to jury duty, get a driver's license, pay their taxes, and report their income, they also have the obligation to respond to this survey. The survey asks for information about your housing and each person living at this address.

I very much appreciate your help in completing this Census Bureau survey. If you have any questions about the survey, I invite you to call our toll-free number 1-800-354-7271, so a Census Bureau representative can answer them.

Sincerely,

Dear Resident:

As promised, I am sending an American Community Survey questionnaire to you and others from whom a response has not yet been received. I hope this will make it easier for you to respond.

Those who receive this request are required by a national law (Title 13, U.S. Code) to complete the American Community Survey. Responses from people in every state provide an understanding of how communities differ with regard to housing, education, transportation, health, and other issues. Your answers assist in identifying local needs such as job training, highway construction, and the building of health care facilities.

I also want to let you know that if you prefer to respond online instead of sending back the paper questionnaire, you can do so by going to <https://respond.census.gov/acs> and using information from the cover of the enclosed questionnaire to log in. Some online respondents may find it helpful to see the questions before starting the online version. If you complete the survey online, please do not send back the paper questionnaire. Answering this survey online saves taxpayer money, but I appreciate receiving your response by whichever method is most convenient for you.

You will see in the questionnaire that questions are asked about your housing and each person living at this address.

If you need help completing this survey or have questions, please call our toll-free number 1-800-354-7271.

I look forward to receiving your response.

Sincerely,

I have asked for your help in completing the American Community Survey. If you have already responded, I want to thank you. If you have not, I would really appreciate it if you would complete the survey soon.

Complete and mail back your paper questionnaire now.
 Or respond at <https://respond.census.gov/acs>

Census Bureau interviewers will start calling or visiting those who don't respond soon. The interviewers will, of course, identify themselves as employees of the U.S. Census Bureau and will be pleased to respond to any questions you have about the American Community Survey. If you like, you can also call our toll-free number 1-800-354-7271 to respond by phone.

Thank you,

 John H. Thompson
 Director, U.S. Census Bureau

Soon, Census Bureau interviewers will be attempting to contact households who have not yet responded to the American Community Survey. We do this in-person follow-up as part of our effort to produce the most accurate results possible. There is still time to respond online, and I would appreciate it if you would respond now because it saves the cost of sending someone to your home.

Respond at <https://respond.census.gov/acs>
Log in using this User ID:

Responding to the survey helps national, state and local officials make informed decisions with timely and accurate data. Your response is critically important to your local community and your country and is required by law (Title 13, U.S. Code).

If you are unable to respond online, please call our toll-free number 1-800-354-7271 to complete the survey.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "John H. Thompson".
