Section 232 Investigation on the Effect of Imports of Mobile Cranes on the U.S. National Security

The Bureau of Industry and Security (BIS), Office of Technology Evaluation (OTE), is conducting a survey of the U.S. mobile cranes industry. The resulting data will be used to support an ongoing mobile crane import investigation under Section 232 of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962, as amended. The investigation was initiated by the U.S. Department of Commerce, based on a petition from a mobile crane manufacturer.

The principal goal of this survey is to assist BIS in determining whether mobile cranes are being imported into the United States in such quantities or under such circumstances as to threaten to impair the national security. The survey will also assist in determining the overall health and competitiveness of the mobile cranes industry in the United States. Information collected will include manufacturing capabilities, suppliers and customers, financial information, national defense and critical infrastructure support, and competition and trade. The resulting data will provide BIS with information that is otherwise not available and needed to conduct its investigation.

Your organization has been identified as a manufacturer, distributor, and/or end-user of mobile cranes with one or more facilities in the United States. Your participation in this survey is vital to ensure a comprehensive dataset for the assessment. BIS has worked in successful partnership with other U.S. industry sectors and we anticipate similar cooperation from your organization on this effort.
