

Justification for Non-Substantive Changes for Form SSA-3820-BK and i3820
Disability Report - Child
20 CFR 416.924a
OMB No. 0960-0577

Background:

Form SSA-3820-BK, (Disability Report -Child), provides the Disability Determination Service adjudicators with a detailed explanation of a Title XVI disabled child's medical history that is essential to the disability determination.

Under Section 7, the individual completing the form should record whether the child is receiving services from other Federal, State, or Local government agencies; include the name(s) and address(es) of each agency, phone number, type of test(s) conducted and date of test(s). This information can serve as valuable sources of medical and non-medical evidence.

The Social Security Administration (SSA) implemented processes to allow applicants to complete and submit the SSA-3820 online. This online application is the Internet Child Disability Report or i3820. The i3820 allows the Internet user (IU), a person who is filing on behalf of a child, to provide disability information about a child who is filing for disabled child benefits under the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program. The IU, or applicant, identifies their relationship (e.g., parent, relative, neighbor, or attorney) to the child within the i3820 screens. The IU, or applicant, provides information about the child's medical condition(s), medical records, education, and work history, if applicable.
