Subject: Urine Collection, Storage and Preservation Laboratory Practice Survey

The American Society for Microbiology (ASM) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) are conducting a survey to understand laboratories' current practices related to the collection, storage and preservation of urine for microbiological culture. The goal of the study is to improve the diagnosis and management of patients with urinary tract infection. This survey will take approximately 20 minutes to complete; participation is voluntary.

The results from the survey will be compiled and shared in aggregate as a learning tool, presented at professional conferences, and potentially published in a professional journal in the field of laboratory science. All information collected in this survey will be kept in a secure manner; your IP address will NOT be retained.

Visit <https://www.surveymonkey.com/s/CDN26NN> to complete the survey by (date to be determined upon OMB clearance). Thank you for taking the time to complete this survey. Your feedback is important for guiding ASM and CDC's efforts to improve laboratory practice. Contact clinmicro@asmusa.org with questions or concerns. Thank you, Alice

This list may not be used to advertise products, services or employment opportunities by third party recruiters.

For our members from commercial vendors, Federal or regulatory sites, there are some very important issues that arise where we get very candid and often frustrated or angry, but not toward any one individual. This may be sensitive to you, your agency or company but we work and debate in the real world and you are welcome to listen in and respond, but not as a means to justify a punitive position against any of our members or their institutions.
