This list may not be used to advertise products, services or employment opportunities by third party recruiters.

For our members from commercial vendors, Federal or regulatory sites, there are some very important issues that arise where we get very candid and often frustrated or angry, but not toward any one individual. This may be sensitive to you, your agency or company but we work and debate in the real world and you are welcome to listen in and respond, but not as a means to justify a punitive position against any of our members or their institutions.
