Dear [Title] [Name Last]:

I am writing to inform your district about an important new study: the International Early Learning Study (IELS). This study of 5-year-olds will allow the U.S. to compare the skills and competencies of our children to their peers in other countries. Results from IELS will provide policymakers, educators, and parents/guardians with valuable information about the experiences that influence children's early learning and their abilities as they begin school. I believe this is an extraordinary opportunity for us to learn more about children at this formative age.

The United States and other countries will conduct the study in the fall of 2018. Some schools in your state have been randomly selected to participate in IELS, and I am writing to ask your agency to support the participation of those schools.

IELS is sponsored by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), an intergovernmental organization of industrialized countries. The study is conducted in the U.S. by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), part of the U.S. Department of Education, and is administered by Westat on behalf of NCES. The U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has approved the data collection under OMB #1850-0936. Study findings will not identify participating districts, schools, students, or individual staff. Please see the enclosed brochure for information about data confidentiality. While IELS is voluntary, your support of school participation in your state is invaluable so that the United States has a representative sample of schools across the country.

Within the next few weeks, a representative from Westat will contact sampled school districts and schools to discuss participating in the IELS main study. We are in contact with your state assessment director to try to ensure that we are not conflicting with other state efforts and that districts and schools understand how the IELS fits in with other data collections conducted by NCES. In the meantime, if you have questions about the study, please do not hesitate to call Mary Coleman at NCES at (202) 245-8382 or send an email to Mary.Coleman@ed.gov. You may also get more information by visiting the IELS website at <https://nces.ed.gov/surveys/iels>.

Thank you for your time and support.

Sincerely,

Peggy Carr, Ph.D.

Associate Commissioner, Assessments Division, NCES

IELS Study Brochure

IELS Study Brochure

- What do our children know and what can they do when they're entering elementary school?
- What factors influence children's early learning and development before they enter school?
- Are there lessons the U.S. can learn from other countries to improve early childhood education?

A new study gives us an extraordinary opportunity to learn more about children at this formative age. The International Early Learning Study (IELS) will provide important information about what 5-year-old children in different countries and learning environments know and can do as they enter elementary school. The study will give us new insights about children's abilities in language and literacy, mathematics, self-regulation, and social emotional skills. It also collects information from educators and parents/guardians about children's early childhood education and care experiences, home learning environments, and demographic characteristics to examine how these factors are related to children's development.

Why is this early learning study important?

IELS will allow the U.S. to compare the skills and competencies of our children to their peers in other countries. Results from IELS will provide policymakers, educators, and parents/guardians with valuable information about the experiences that influence children's early learning and their abilities as they begin school.

Who develops and administers the study?

IELS is coordinated by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) and conducted in the U.S. by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) within the U.S. Department of Education. The study is developed through a collaborative process involving input from U.S. and international education experts to make sure the materials are appropriate for each country's young children. The study is administered in the U.S. on behalf of NCES by Westat, a U.S. based research firm.

Who participates in IELS?

A nationally-representative sample of 5-year-olds enrolled in U.S. public and private schools participates in IELS, along with their peers in other countries. Parents/guardians and teachers of selected students are also asked to complete a questionnaire as part of the study. Participation in IELS is voluntary, yet critically valuable and important.

What is involved for students?

IELS is a play-based study conducted with tablets. Children will be asked to point to pictures, consider situations, and complete game-like tasks. They do not need to prepare in advance to participate in the study. The assessment is conducted one-on-one with trained staff who have experience working with children. The study is untimed and will be split across two days to minimize time away from regular classroom activity. Children will be allowed to take breaks as needed. In our experience, the study takes about 30 minutes each day and children enjoy participating.

What is required of schools and teachers?

School administrators are asked to agree to their students' and teachers' participation in the study, and to appoint a staff person who will help coordinate activities within the school. Teachers of students who participate in the study are asked to complete a brief survey about their professional background and the skills and abilities of those specific students. School staff will not be asked to administer the study. Trained IELS staff will facilitate the assessment and bring all required materials to the school.

What role do parents have in the study?

One parent or guardian of each student who participates in the study will be asked to complete a brief survey. The questionnaire asks demographic questions as well as questions about their child's early learning environment, such as whether parents read to their child and whether the child participates in enrichment programs. It also asks questions about their child's social skills and participation in child care.

Will the names of participants and their responses be kept confidential?

Results will not identify participating states, districts, schools, students, educators, or parents/guardians. All of the information provided by school staff, students, and parents may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). Individuals are never identified in any reports. All reported statistics refer to the U.S. as a whole or to national subgroups. By law, every NCES employee as well as every NCES agent, such as contractors, has taken an oath and is subject to a jail term of up to 5 years, a fine of $250,000, or both if he or she willfully discloses ANY identifiable information about any study participant.

Where can I find more information?

Visit the IELS website at <https://nces.ed.gov/surveys/iels>.

Parents will also be asked to complete a short survey.

We are asking you to encourage your school(s) to participate in IELS, which will take place this year in October and November. As a thank-you, each participating school in your district will receive $200 and each school's IELS school coordinator (i.e., a school staff person designated to liaise with IELS staff) will also receive $200 to thank them for their time and effort. Selected teachers will receive $20 for completing part A of the questionnaire, plus an additional $7 per student questionnaire, and parents asked to complete the survey will receive $20. Second Tier Incentive Letter for Pending Schools

Dear [Title] [Name Last]:

The International Early Learning Study (IELS) aims to provide U.S. educators, policymakers, and parents the opportunity to better understand the skills and competencies of our children at the beginning of primary school and how these compare with those of 5-year-olds in other countries. The study fills important gaps in international comparisons of education systems and helps countries understand how their early education and care systems prepare children for school. However, we will not be able to understand and compare the experience and skills of U.S. students without a sample of schools that represents the full spectrum of American students and teachers—and your school is an important part of such a sample.

As the IELS Project Director, conducting this study on behalf of the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), I understand that you have not yet agreed to participate but I wish personally to ask you to consider participating because your school represents hundreds of schools across the country similar to yours (but those schools cannot participate because they were not sampled and do not meet the international sampling requirements for the study).

If you can help us secure a fully representative sample, we are offering an additional token of appreciation for your school's time. If you participate, we will give your school $800. Your school's IELS school coordinator (the school staff person designated to work with IELS staff) will receive $200 as a thank you for his or her time and effort. Selected teachers will receive $20 for completing part A of their questionnaire and an additional $7 for each student questionnaire they complete. Parents will receive $20 for completing their questionnaire.

The IELS data collection begins on October 15th and extends through December 7th, 2018. A representative of IELS at Westat will call you soon to discuss your decision. For additional information, please reach out to the IELS Help Desk at IELSHelp@westat.com or 1-855-299-1398. FAQ for School Administrators

International Early Learning Study FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS Information for School Administrators

What is the International Early Learning Study (IELS)?

IELS is an international study that provides important information about what 5-year-old children in different countries and learning environments know and can do as they enter elementary school. The study provides important information about children's abilities in language and emergent literacy, mathematics and numeracy, self-regulation, and social emotional skills. It also collects information from educators and parents/guardians about children's early childhood education and care experiences, home learning environments, and demographic characteristics to examine how various factors are related to children's development. The U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) facilitates our country's participation in IELS.

Why is IELS important?

Results from IELS will provide policymakers, educators, and parents/guardians with valuable information about the experiences that influence children's early learning and their abilities as they begin school. IELS will also allow the U.S. to compare the skills and competencies of our children to their peers in other countries.

Why should my school and students participate in the study?

Participants help IELS provide an accurate picture of what 5-year-olds in the U.S. know and can do. It is important that every selected school and student participate in the study because they represent many other schools and children like them across the country. Moreover, educators and parents/guardians contribute vital information about participating children's skills and education experiences to provide insights into their learning and development.

Are there incentives for participating schools?

Yes. NCES will provide $200 to schools that participate in the study. NCES will also provide $200 to school coordinators who serve as the point of contact for each school.

Why was my school selected for participation?

Your school was selected as part of a nationally-representative sample of U.S. public and private schools. Approximately 3,000 students, from about 200 schools, will participate in the study across the country.

Will all of our 5-year-old students be asked to participate?

Up to 19 students will be randomly selected to take part in the study from each participating school. In very small schools, all 5-year-old students may be asked to participate. Students with disabilities and English Language Learners may be excused if a limited set of accommodations provided by IELS staff do not provide adequate support to enable their participation.

When and where will the study be conducted?

NCES will work with Westat, a research organization, to conduct the study in October and December 2018. The study will be conducted in participating schools. The assessment space needs to be able to accommodate the students and IELS staff.

Who will be responsible for administering the study to students?

Trained IELS staff will provide all required materials and conduct the study with students. Exceptions will be made for students with IEP accommodations who may require the assistance of school personnel (e.g., if a student works one-on-one with an aide).

What is involved for students?

IELS is a play-based study conducted with tablets. Children will be asked to point to pictures, consider situations, and complete game-like tasks. They do not need to prepare in advance. The assessment is conducted one-on-one with trained staff who have experience working with children. The study is untimed and will be split across two days to minimize time away from regular classroom activity. Children will be allowed to take breaks as necessary. The study takes about 30 minutes each day and children enjoy participating.

What happens if a child refuses to participate?

All participation is voluntary. Children can skip any question they do not want to answer. Any child who does not wish to work with IELS staff will not have to.

What is involved for teachers and parents/guardians?

Teachers of students selected for the study will be asked to complete a questionnaire, which includes questions about their professional background (about 3 minutes to complete) and the skills and abilities of the students selected for the study (about 5 minutes per child, with an average of 4 students per teacher). One parent/guardian of each participating student will also be asked to complete a brief questionnaire. Teachers will receive $20 for part A of their questionnaire and an additional $7 for each student questionnaire completed, and parents/guardians will receive $20 to thank them for their time and effort.

Will the names of participants and their responses be kept confidential?

Individual children's performance will not be shared with teachers, the school, or the district in any way. Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports. All of the information provided by school staff, students, and parents may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). All field staff and other staff working on the study have signed an affidavit of non-disclosure where they swear to abide by this law. By law, every NCES employee as well as every NCES agent, such as contractors, has taken an oath and is subject to a jail term of up to 5 years, a fine of $250,000, or both if he or she willfully discloses ANY identifiable information about any study participant.

Where can I find more information?

For additional information, call the IELS information number, 1-855-299-1398, or send an email to IELSHelp@westat.com. You may also learn more about the study by visiting the IELS website at <http://nces.ed.gov/surveys/IELS>.

School Coordinator Responsibilities Fact Sheet

2018 International Early Learning Study (IELS) School Coordinator Responsibilities Overview

As the School Coordinator, your efforts and support are crucial to the success of IELS. Please see the IELS School Coordinator Handbook for more information about how to complete the activities described below.

Thank you in advance for your help preparing for this important study!

In late August-October, you will be responsible for:

€ Preparing and submitting the student list to MyIELS.us.

The student list, which should include all age-eligible students in the school (regardless of any special needs or language spoken) and their primary teacher's information, is used to select the random sample of up to 19 students and their teachers who will participate in IELS. Please submit this list electronically; instructions are posted on the MyIELS.us website in the "Submit Student List" section. It is very important that the lists are prepared carefully and accurately.

€ Determining consent requirements and updating MyIELS.us.

There are three basic types of consent used for IELS: notification, implicit consent, and explicit consent. The IELS team has developed an online consent module for collecting parent consent electronically and is also prepared to provide hard copy and customized consent materials as necessary. Please determine what type of consent is required for student participation in IELS in your school and how consent forms will be distributed to the parents of selected students; you will need to update MyIELS.us with the consent requirements.

Leading up to the student assessment days, you will be responsible for:

€ Receiving and updating student and teacher tracking forms.

After your school's sample of students is selected, you will receive an email when Child and Teacher Tracking Forms are available to download from MyIELS.us.

The Child Tracking Form allows you to note the completion of consent forms, parent questionnaires, and teacher questionnaires for each selected student, as well as any possible needs for student accommodations.

The Teacher Tracking Form allows you to monitor the completion of teacher questionnaires. Please check MyIELS.us regularly throughout the assessment period to determine which parents and teachers need prompting to complete their questionnaires.

€ Receiving and checking IELTS School Coordinator packages.

You will receive a FedEx package with the following hard-copy materials:

- Parent participation materials,
- Teacher participation materials, and
- A cover letter with a list of included materials.

The parent and teacher materials include informational fact sheets, instructions for completing questionnaires, reminder cards, and the monetary incentives for parents and teachers. Please ensure that there are parent and teacher envelopes for each selected student and that the materials in the parent and teacher envelopes are complete.

€ Notifying parents and teachers and distributing questionnaire information.

You are responsible for distributing the parent and teacher envelopes that will be included in the School Coordinator packages. In the event that you determine students or teachers are not eligible to participate or a parent or teacher refuses to participate, be sure to update their status on both the tracking forms and MyIELS.us.

€ Encouraging consent and participation from parents and teachers and updating status on MyIELS.us.

The success of the study relies on students, parents, and teachers. Please encourage them to participate and notify your Team Leader as soon as possible about any problems affecting participation in your school. You can check the completion of questionnaires on MyIELS.

It is also very important that you record consent information on the Child Tracking Forms and update MyIELS.us. The IELTS Team Leader assigned to your school is trained to take consent very seriously and will follow up with you on consent progress during preassessment check-ins and on assessment day.

€ Participating in a preassessment call with your IELTS Team Leader to plan the assessment days.

The Team Leader assigned to your school will reach out to you to go over the status of the preliminary tasks, discuss student and teacher participation, and work with you to arrange assessment day logistics (such as arranging a room and determining where to park). The Team Leader can field any questions you may have about any of the IELTS procedures.

€ Reserving space for the study administration.

The assessment team will need two (2) consecutive days to assess all sampled students. Please reserve space for the IELTS Team Leader and three IELTS staff to conduct the study with students. The study can take place in one large room with separate tables or smaller rooms. The space should be well-lit, quiet, free of distractions, and have two chairs and a table for each member of the assessment team. The goal is to arrange a space that is comfortable and safe for participating children. Internet access is not required.

On the student assessment days, you will be responsible for:

€ Working with the Team Leader and providing support, as needed.

Please plan to meet with the Team Leader at least 30 minutes before the first assessment session to walk through the plan for the day. Show the assessment location to the Team Leader and make sure that he/she is introduced to all relevant staff members and, if possible, to the students involved in the assessment. You should also make sure that the procedure for getting students to and from class is clear. As the School Coordinator, you are asked to assist the Team Leader and help resolve any unforeseen issues. If you are unable to meet with the Team Leader on the day of the assessment, please designate a deputy to take your place.

€ Debriefing with the Team Leader and returning completed paper questionnaires.

After the assessment on each day, please plan to meet with the Team Leader for 5-10 minutes to debrief about the day's assessments and return any questionnaires that are completed on paper by parents or teachers.

After the student assessment days, you will be responsible for:

€ Storing the tracking forms in the IELS Storage envelope until June 1, 2019.

Please securely store the Child Tracking Form, Teacher Tracking Form, and Child Assessment Grid (Team Leader form) until June 1, 2019 in the red storage envelope provided by the Team Leader.

Subject: Action Needed: Upcoming IELS Study in Your School

Dear <School Coordinator name>:

Welcome, and thank you again for agreeing to support the International Early Learning Study (IELS) in your school. Results from IELS will provide valuable information about what our country's 5-year-old children know and can do as they enter elementary school. It will also allow the U.S. to compare the skills and abilities of our children to their peers in other countries.

We have attached to this email an overview of your responsibilities as a school coordinator. As a reminder, if allowable by your school district, you and your school will each receive $200 as a thank you for supporting the study.

To provide updates on IELS as well as steps for preparing for the study, we have developed a website called MyIELS (<https://www.MyIELS.us>). This is a secure site with content tailored to each individual school.

Below is your Registration ID. You will use this the first time you visit MyIELS to create your own username and password.

MyIELS REGISTRATION ID: <INSERT REGISTRATION ID>

If you need technical assistance at any time, please do not hesitate to contact the IELS help desk at 1-855-299-1398 or via email at IELSHelp@westat.com.

We look forward to working with you. We will be in touch again at the beginning of the 2018-2019 school year to prepare for the assessments.

Sincerely,
The U.S. IELS Team

Welcome to IELS

Welcome and thank you for participating in the International Early Learning Study (IELS) 2018 field test!

The IELS 2018 field test assessments will occur between November 6 and December 15, 2017.

In IELS, each country or education system is represented by a sample of schools and students selected to reflect its population and educational contexts and provide valid estimates of student achievement.

This fall, a random sample of up to 19 students from your school who were born between November 1, 2012, and October 31, 2013 will be selected to be assessed. Each assessment will be administered by specially trained IELS staff.

There are a number of activities occurring before, during, and after the assessment. This website is designed to be your all-in-one resource throughout the entire process.

The "What You Need to Do" menu on the left is designed to guide the school coordinator through six different groups of tasks.

Provide School Information - verify information about your school. This includes the school's address and the estimated enrollment of students.

Submit Student List - submit a list of all age-eligible students (born between January 1, 2001, and December 31, 2001). IELS will use this list to draw a random sample of students to participate in the assessment.

Prepare for Assessment - meet with your local IELS representative to prepare for the assessment. The school coordinator will complete paperwork, gain parent consent for students' participation in IELS, and reserve school space for the staff to use during the visit.

Assessment Day - IELS staff will administer the assessments, while the school coordinator will be responsible for making sure that participating students arrive promptly to designated assessment location(s).

After the Assessment - retain the IELS Storage Envelope in a secure place until a designated date.

The "What You Need to Know" menu stores informational materials. Clicking on the Documents link will take you to the IELS document catalog, and is also where you can download your list of selected students once sampling is complete. We've collected websites from NCEs and the OECD so you can be as informed as you would like about IELS.

What is IELS?

A new study gives us an extraordinary opportunity to learn more about children at this formative age. The International Early Learning Study (IELS) will provide important information about what 5-year-old children in different countries and learning environments know and can do as they enter elementary school. The study will give us new insights about children's abilities in language and literacy, mathematics, self-regulation, and social emotional skills. It also collects information from educators and parents/guardians about children's early childhood education and care experiences, home learning environments, and demographic characteristics to examine how these factors are related to children's development.

IELS is sponsored by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), an intergovernmental organization of industrialized countries. In the United States, IELS is managed and conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) in the U.S. Department of Education.

Prepare for Assessment Day Screen

To ensure a successful administration of IELTS, it is important to make sure everyone involved in the assessment is informed and prepared. The tasks below will help you effectively prepare for IELTS.

Informing your school's administration and staff:

- Include IELTS on the school calendar to avoid scheduling conflicts.
- Update the principal and other school staff on the assessment date and any arrangements that need to be made for assessment day.

Enlisting teacher support:

- Share informational materials from IELTS at a faculty meeting.
- Place copies of IELTS materials in your faculty lounge.
- Remind teachers to complete their online questionnaires.

Motivating parents to participate:

- Reach out to parents who have not provided consent to discuss the importance of the study and of returning the completed consent form prior to assessment day.

The Preassessment Call:

After students have been selected, your local IELTS representative will contact you to set up a preassessment call (PAC). This call is aimed at helping prepare for the assessment and ensures everything will go smoothly and efficiently on assessment day.

Prior to the PAC:

- Download the list of selected students, called the Student Tracking Form, from the "Documents" section of this website.
- Review the Student Tracking Form to ensure all student demographic data are correct.
- Identify students who are withdrawn or ineligible.
- Identify students with special education needs (e.g., students with IEP or 504 plans and English language learners).
- Download the Teacher Tracking Form to identify the teachers selected to complete the Teacher Questionnaire.
- Distribute the teacher packs that will be mailed to you to each of the identified teachers and encourage them to complete the online questionnaire.
- Distribute the parent packs that will be mailed to you to the parents of the selected students so that they can provide consent and complete the online questionnaire.
- Identify space for assessment sessions to take place.

During the PAC the IELTS representative will:

- Confirm parents/guardians of selected students have been notified.
- Discuss how to best follow-up to obtain missing parent consent.
- Confirm missing or corrected student demographic data.
- Confirm students that have withdrawn or are ineligible.
- Review the status of students identified as having special education needs (SEN), accommodations, and/or exclusions.
- Discuss incentives and distribution.
- Discuss the testing location(s).
- Collect and confirm assessment logistics information.

- Meet with you regarding absent students and any last-minute completed consent forms.
- Confirm completion of Parent and Teacher Questionnaires.
- Administer the assessment.
- Conduct a short postassessment meeting.

As discussed during the preassessment call, you will need to ensure that parents and teachers have been notified of the assessment. Your assistance is also important to ensure that students attend the session(s).

Following the assessment, the IELTS representative will meet with the school coordinator for a short meeting. There will also be some paperwork to finalize, which includes preparing copies of important documents to be left at the school.

As part of IELTS's pledge of confidentiality, before departing, the IELTS team will leave all documents with student names and identifying information at the school in the IELTS Storage Envelope.

The final paragraph states: "As part of IELTS's pledge of confidentiality, before departing, the IELTS team will leave all documents with student names and identifying information at the school in the IELTS Storage Envelope."

After the Assessment Screen

On behalf of IELS, we would like to extend a special thanks to the staff, parents, and students at your school. Your participation and support have made this data collection a success!

Your school should keep the contents of the IELS Storage Envelope until the date specified on the label, at which point they should be destroyed. The best way to destroy any sensitive IELS materials is to shred them.

IELS Scoring and Reporting

IELS scores the assessment data and links them to the background information collected from the staff and parent/guardian questionnaires to provide a more complete picture of early learning.

Instructions for School Coordinators to E-file student lists

1. Prepare Electronic Student File (E-File)

Steps for preparing an Electronic Student File (E-File)

Step 1: Identify ALL students at your school who meet the eligibility criteria

Criteria for the IELS student eligibility are:

- Born between Date and Date.

NCES needs accurate information about all students at your school who meet the above criteria for IELS student eligibility. Include all students, even those students who typically may be excluded from other testing programs, such as students with IEPs or 504 plans (SD), English language learners (ELL), or students with limited English proficiency (LEP). A small number of these students may be unable to complete the IELS assessment. Do not include on your list students who are known to be withdrawn. All other eligible students must be added to your list of students.

Step 2: List each of the eligible students along with their grade and demographic information (see Figure 1 below for an example)

Using the electronic listing form template provided on the MyIELSUSA.com website (www.MyIELSUSA.com), list students in your school who are eligible for the IELS along with their demographic information.

- Student first name
- Student middle name (not required)
- Student last name
- Month of birth (M or MM; must be submitted in numeric format, not text)
- Year of birth (YYYY: 2012)
- Grade
- Sex (1 = Female; 2 = Male)
- Primary Teacher's first name
- Primary Teacher's last name
- Primary Teacher's email address

2018 International Early Learning Study

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Information for Teachers

What is the International Early Learning Study (IELS)?

IELS is an international study that is conducted in the United States by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), part of the U.S. Department of Education. It will provide important information about:

- What 5-year-old children in different countries and learning environments know and can do as they enter elementary school;
- Children's abilities in language and emergent literacy, mathematics and numeracy, self-regulation, and social emotional skills; and
- How home, childcare, and pre-school experiences are related to children's skills as they enter school.

Why is IELS important?

IELS will allow the U.S. to compare the skills and competencies of our children to their peers in other countries. Results from IELS will provide educators, policymakers, and parents/guardians with valuable information about the experiences that influence children's early learning and their abilities as they begin school. For example:

- Kindergarten teachers can gain a better understanding of children's skills and abilities as they enter school, which can help them improve classroom activities.
- Educators and policymakers can use the results to make informed decisions about children's early education.
- Parents/guardians can learn about activities they can do at home that may increase children's knowledge and development.

What is involved for students?

IELS is a play-based study conducted with tablets. Children are asked to point to pictures, listen to stories, and complete game-like tasks. They do not need to prepare in advance, and they do not need to know how to read. In our experience, children enjoy participating in the study.

- The study will take place during school hours and in a room designated by the IELS School Coordinator, such as the library. It is untimed and will be split across two days. Children generally take about 30 minutes each day to complete the activities and can take breaks as necessary.
- Children will complete the study activities with an IELS team member who has experience working with children. School staff or teachers are welcome to observe.
- All participation is voluntary. Children can skip any question they do not want to answer. Any child who does not wish to work with IELS staff will not have to.

What role do teachers have in IELS?

Teachers of students selected for the study are asked to complete a questionnaire, which includes questions about their professional background (about three minutes to complete) and the skills and abilities of the students selected for the study (about five minutes per child, with an average of four students per teacher).

- The questionnaire is available online. You may also request a paper version, if you prefer.
- You can decide when and where to complete the questionnaire, within the timeframe of the study. You may exit the questionnaire at any point and return to it later.

Teacher participation ensures that IELS will be able to provide a more accurate picture of what our nation's 5-year-olds know and can do. If allowed by school policy, teachers will be offered $20 for completing part A of the questionnaire, plus an additional $7 per student questionnaire. Schools will receive $200 for participation.

Do teachers need to help administer the assessments?

No. Trained IELS staff from Westat will administer the study on behalf of NCES. Exceptions will be made for students with IEP accommodations that may require the assistance of school personnel (e.g., if a student works one-on-one with an aide).

What is involved for parents?

One parent or guardian of each student who participates in the study is asked to complete a 30-minute questionnaire. The questionnaire asks about the child's early childhood education and care experiences, home learning environments, and demographic characteristics.

Why should students, teachers, and parents participate in the study?

Participants help IELS provide an accurate picture of what 5-year-olds in the U.S. know and can do. It is important that every selected school and student participate in the study because they represent many other schools and children like them across the country. Teachers and parents/guardians contribute vital information about participating children's skills and education experiences to provide insights on the relationship between children's early learning experiences and their skills as they enter school.

What will happen with the collected data?

IELS is not designed to produce results for individual children. Results will be combined to describe the nation's 5-year-olds and will not identify participating districts, schools, students, teachers, or parents/guardians. Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports.

How are schools and students selected for participation?

The U.S. Department of Education identified a sample of about 200 public and private schools to represent the nation. Within each school, up to 19 children were randomly chosen to participate. Approximately 3,000 5-year-olds will take part in the study across the U.S.

Will the names of participants and their responses be kept confidential?

All of the information provided by teachers, students, and parents may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). All field staff and other staff working on the study have signed an affidavit of non-disclosure where they swear to abide by this law. By law, every NCES employee as well as every NCES agent, such as contractors, has taken an oath and is subject to a jail term of up to 5 years, a fine of $250,000, or both if he or she willfully discloses ANY identifiable information about any study participant.

Where can I find more information?

For additional information, call the IELS information number, 1-855-299-1398, or send an email to IELSHelp@westat.com. You may also learn more about the study by visiting the IELS website at <http://nces.ed.gov/surveys/IELS>.

Summer Email for School Coordinators

Subject line: Upcoming IELTS Study in Your School

Dear {name}:

Thank you again for agreeing to take part in the important new study, the International Early Learning Study (IELS). This study of 5-year-olds will allow the U.S. to compare the skills and competencies of our children to their peers in other countries.

We enjoyed speaking with you this past winter and are looking forward to visiting your school on {assessment date} to complete the planned assessments. If for any reason that date no longer works for your school, please contact us at 1-855-299-1398 or IELSHelp@westat.com.

This fall, a Westat representative will call you to discuss sampling all of the 5-year-olds and their teachers in your school so that we can randomly select the 19 children we will ask to participate. We will also discuss the most efficient method of contacting parents and gaining consent for their child's participation, working with teachers who were identified during sampling to invite them to the study and to complete their online surveys, and assessment logistics. To thank you for your help, you will receive $100 after sampling is complete and an additional $100 at the end of the study.

In the meantime, if you would like to learn more about the study, please visit <https://www.MyIELS.us/>. If you have forgotten your username and/or password, information is on the site to have them resent to you. You can also call the IELTS support line for this information.

Dear <School Coordinator name>:

Thank you for your support for the International Early Learning Study (IELS) at your school!

In order to randomly select students for IELS, we need a list of all eligible students at your school. Detailed instructions about how to submit your lists are included in the attached document, "IELS E-Filing Instructions." Be sure to include all students who meet the birth-date criteria regardless of any special needs or language spoken; the sample of up to 19 students will be taken from the full list.

The deadline for student list submission is [Month] [Day], 2018. Please upload your school's lists as soon as possible so that sampled students, their teachers, and their parents/guardians can be notified about the study well in advance.

Please also begin to determine the consent requirements for your school. There are three basic types of consent used for IELS: notification, implicit consent, and explicit consent. More information about the consent options can be found in the School Coordinator Handbook, which is also available on the MyIELS website.

If you have any questions about the instructions, please contact the IELS help desk at IELSHelp@westat.com or by calling 1-855-299-1398. The e-filing instructions are also posted on the IELS website.

Pre-Assessment Call and Space Reminder Email for School Coordinators

Subject: IELTS Reminder: Reserve space and talk with your Team Leader

Dear <School Coordinator name>:

The IELTS assessment days will be here before we know it! If you haven't done so already, please reserve space for the IELTS Team Leader and three IELTS assessors to conduct the study with participating students.

When arranging for a space for the study, remember that the ideal location for the assessments is one large room like the gymnasium, the music room during off-hours, the library or media center, or any other similar space where several assessments could be conducted simultaneously. The space should be well-lit, quiet, free of distractions, and have two chairs and a table for each member of the assessment team. The goal is to arrange a space that is comfortable and safe for participating children.

A sample setup of an assessment room is attached for your reference.

Your IELTS Team Leader will soon be reaching out to you to arrange assessment day logistics. He/she will be able to answer any questions you have about the assessment space, encouraging participation from parents and students, or using MyIELS.

As always, if you have any questions in the meantime, please contact the IELTS help desk at IELSHelp@westat.com or by calling 1-855-299-1398.

Sincerely,
The U.S. IELTS Team

Teacher Questionnaire Invitation Email

Dear «Name»:

Your school is one of about 200 schools across the United States that has accepted an invitation from NCES to participate in the IELS 2018 main study. You've been sampled to participate by completing an online teacher questionnaire about your teacher training and education, your views on teaching, and information about some of the students you teach. If you have any questions about how you were selected for this survey, please contact your IELS school coordinator, «SC_FNAME» «SC_LNAME».

The questionnaire takes on average 3 minutes per teacher background questionnaire plus 5 minutes per student for student information questionnaire to complete, with an average of 4 students per teacher. This information, combined with data from students, and their parents/legal guardians helps to provide a more complete understanding of early childhood education and contexts for learning.

Your school coordinator should have given you informational materials about the study, along with a check for $20 for completing part A of the questionnaire, plus an additional $7 per student questionnaire you are asked to complete, if allowed by your school's policy. Use the provided link and unique account information below to complete your questionnaire.

Notification Email for Parents

Subject: Important materials being sent home with your child

Dear <parent/guardian name>:

Our school has been selected to participate in the U.S. Department of Education's International Early Learning Study (IELS). Results from the study will provide parents/guardians, teachers, and policymakers with valuable information that can be used to improve children's education and experiences in the first five years of life

A small group of our kindergartners, including your child, have been randomly chosen to participate in the study. Parents are also asked to complete a 30-minute questionnaire to provide a more complete picture of their child's learning and development.

I will be sending an IELS information packet home with your child this week. Please watch for it. You can also learn more about the study here:

<http://nces.ed.gov/surveys/IELS>.

The study is voluntary, but I encourage you to participate. Our school receives $200 for participating and a $20 cash card is included in the information packet to thank you for your time and effort. It will be activated when you complete the parent questionnaire.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Study Introduction Letter for Teachers

SCHOOL LETTERHEAD

Dear <Teacher name>:

Our school is one of about 200 schools across the United States that has been selected to participate in the 2018 International Early Learning Study, or IELS. Results from IELS will provide valuable information about what our country's 5-year-old children know and can do as they enter elementary school. It will also allow the U.S. to compare the skills and abilities of our children to their peers in other countries.

IELS is conducted by the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES). The study will take place during the week of <insert date>.

- Some of your students have been selected to participate in IELS as part of the random sample of 5-year-olds across the nation. The study will be split across two days and children take about 30 minutes each day to complete the activities.
- As the teacher of participating students, you are asked to complete brief questionnaires about their skills and abilities as well as provide information about your teacher training and education. A check is included to thank you for completing the questionnaires for your selected students.
- Parents are also asked to complete a questionnaire for each participating student. Together, these questionnaires provide important contextual data on children's early learning environments.
- Our school will receive $200 for participating in the study!

I encourage you to support this effort. IELS is voluntary, but participation is critically important for the study to be successful. Please see the enclosed FAQ for more information.

2018 International Early Learning Study FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS Information for Parents and Guardians

What is the International Early Learning Study (IELS)?

IELS is an international study that is conducted in the United States by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), part of the U.S. Department of Education. It will provide important information about:

- What our country's 5-year-old children know and can do as they enter elementary school;
- How home and pre-school experiences are related to children's skills as they enter school; and
- How U.S. students and their experiences compare to their peers in other countries.

Why is IELS important?

Results from IELS will provide valuable information that can be used to improve children's education and experiences in the first five years of life. These early years can set the stage for future success in and outside of school. For example:

- Parents/guardians can learn about activities they can do at home that may increase children's knowledge and development.
- Kindergarten teachers can gain a better understanding of children's skills and abilities as they enter school, which can help them improve classroom activities.
- Educators and policymakers can use the results to make informed decisions about children's early education.

What is involved for students?

IELS is a play-based study conducted with tablets. Children are asked to point to pictures, listen to stories, and complete game-like tasks. They do not need to prepare in advance, and they do not need to know how to read. In our experience, children enjoy participating in the study.

- The study will take place during school hours and in a room designated by the IELS School Coordinator, such as the library. It is untimed and will be split across two days. Children generally take about 30 minutes each day to complete the activities and can take breaks as necessary.
- Children will complete the study activities with an IELS team member who has experience working with children. School staff or teachers are welcome to observe.

What is involved for parents?

One parent or guardian of each student who participates in the study is asked to complete a 30-minute questionnaire. Parent participation in IELS is critically important for the study to be able to report on the relationship between children's early learning experiences and their skills as they enter school.

- The questionnaire asks for demographic information and about the child's early childhood education experiences. It also asks questions about the child's social skills and participation in child care.
- The questionnaire is available online. You may request a paper version, if you prefer. Spanish versions of the questionnaire are also available.
- You can decide when and where to complete the questionnaire, within the timeframe of the study. You may exit the questionnaire at any point and return to it later.
- You may skip questions you do not want to answer.

Parent participation ensures that IELS will be able to provide valuable, actionable results. You will receive $20 to thank you for your time and effort.

BACK PAGE

Why should my child and I participate in the study?

It is important that every selected child participates in IELS because they represent many other children like them across the country. Parents contribute vital information about children's early educational experiences to provide a more complete picture of their learning and development. The child's teacher will also complete a short questionnaire to provide a full picture of a child's skills and experiences.

Schools that participate in IELS will be offered $200 and parents/guardians who complete the questionnaire will receive $20.

What results will be reported?

IELS results will include information about:

- 5-year-olds' abilities in language and literacy, mathematics, self-regulation, and social emotional skills; and
- The relationship between these skills and children's early learning experiences.

IELS is not designed to produce results for individual children. Results will be combined to describe the nation's 5-year-olds.

The information provided by individual children and parents or guardians will not be shared with teachers, schools, or the district. Individuals and schools will not be identified in any reported data.

How did my child and their school get selected for IELS?

The U.S. Department of Education identified a sample of about 200 public and private schools to represent the nation in the study. Schools were chosen at random to ensure racial/ethnic and socioeconomic diversity, as well as representation from schools in rural, suburban, and urban areas.

Within each school, up to 19 students were randomly chosen to participate. Approximately 3,000 5-year-olds will participate in IELS across the country.

What happens if my child refuses to participate?

All participation is voluntary. Children can skip any question they do not want to answer. Any child who does not wish to work with IELS staff will not have to. Children can take breaks whenever they would like during the assessment.

My child has a disability. Can he/she still participate?

Students with disabilities and English Language Learners may be offered a limited set of accommodations to participate in IELS. If those accommodations provide adequate support, they may participate.

Will the names of participants and their responses be kept confidential?

All of the information provided by teachers, students, and parents may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in an identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). All field staff and other staff working on the study have signed an affidavit of non-disclosure in which they swear to abide by this law. By law, every NCES employee as well as every NCES agent, such as contractors, has taken an oath and is subject to a jail term of up to 5 years, a fine of $250,000, or both if he or she willfully discloses ANY identifiable information about any study participant.

Who do I contact for information about the IELS?

For additional information, call the IELS information number, 1-855-299-1398, or send an email to IELSHelp@westat.com. You may also learn more about the study by visiting the IELS website at <http://nces.ed.gov/surveys/IELS>.

Notification Letter for Parents

SCHOOL LETTERHEAD

Dear Parent or Guardian,

I am writing to inform you about an exciting study that our school will participate in this fall. This study is called the International Early Learning Study, or IELS. It will allow the U.S. to compare the skills and competencies of our children to their peers in other countries. Results from IELS will provide policymakers, educators, and parents/guardians with valuable information about the experiences that influence children's early learning and their abilities as they begin school.

The U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) has asked our school to take part in IELS. Some of our 5-year-olds, including your child, have been randomly chosen to participate. IELS is voluntary, but participation is important to ensure we get an accurate picture of what 5-year-olds in the U.S. can do.

IELS is a play-based study that is given on tablets. It is conducted one-on-one with trained staff. The assessment is untimed and will be split across two days to minimize time away from regular classroom activity. In our experience, the study takes about 30 minutes each day and children enjoy participating.

I encourage you to support this effort by agreeing to have your child take part. One parent or guardian of each student who participates will be asked to complete a brief survey. Enclosed is information about how to complete the survey, along with a $20 cash card to thank you for completing the survey.

The information provided by students and parents or guardians will not be shared with teachers, our school, or the district. Individuals and schools will not be identified in any reported data. NCES is authorized to conduct this study under the Education Sciences Reform Act of 2002 (ESRA 2002, 20 U.S.C. §9543). All of the information provided by you and your child may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151).

NCES will work with Westat, a research organization, to conduct the study in the U.S. between October and November 2018. The enclosed fact sheet provides additional information about IELS and explains what is involved for each child selected to participate in the study. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to call 1-855-299-1398 or send an email to IELSHelp@westat.com. You may also get more information about this study by visiting the IELS website at <https://www.MyIELS.us/>.

Thank you for taking the time to consider your child's participation in this important study.

Sincerely,

School Coordinator Tip Sheet for Questionnaire Follow-up

2018 International Early Learning Study Encouraging Participation Tips for School Coordinators

The following suggestions are helpful ideas for how you can encourage participation and ensure a successful study administration in your school. Remember, results from the International Early Learning Study (IELS) will provide valuable information that can be used to improve children's education and experiences in the first five years of life. The success of the study relies on the participation of students, parents, and teachers.

- It is important that every selected child participates in IELS because they represent many other children like them across the country.
- Teachers provide additional information about the knowledge and skills of participating children that provides a more complete picture of what our nation's 5-year-old children know and can do.
- Parents contribute vital information about children's home, early care, and pre-school experiences, which helps the program report how those experiences are related to children's skills as they enter school.

Notify selected students' parents and teachers about the study before you distribute their participation envelopes. Providing advanced notice increases the likelihood that parents and teachers will pay attention to the printed materials.

Provide additional information to parents and teachers using the PowerPoint presentations that are available on MyIELS. Consider hosting informational sessions during a scheduled staff meeting or parent night.

Remind parents and teachers about the deadline for completing their questionnaires on a regular basis using the provided email, text message, and/or printed reminders. Email reminders are especially helpful because parents and teachers can immediately access MyIELS or the online questionnaire.

Support parents and teachers by answering questions, as appropriate, about the content of the questionnaires. Consider offering a time and space for parents to complete the questionnaires at your school and/or meeting with them if they have any questions during the process.

Emphasize the importance of the study and their contribution to it when communicating with parents and teachers. Talking points are provided on the back of this document.

Remember that the IELS team is here to help! If you have any questions, please contact your IELS Team Leader, call the IELS help desk at 1-855-299-1398, or send an email to IELSHelp@westat.com.

Talking Points for Parents

- It is important that every selected child participates in IELS because they represent many other children like them across the country. Together, the participating children will demonstrate what 5-year-old children in the United States know and can do as they begin elementary school.
- IELS will provide you and other parents with valuable information about activities you can do at home that may increase children's knowledge and development.
- By completing the questionnaire, you will help the study provide results about the relationship between children's early learning experiences and their skills as they enter school.
- It is important to be honest and accurate to ensure IELS can provide valuable, actionable results.
- Our principal, teachers, and staff can gain a better understanding of children's skills and abilities as they enter school, which can help us improve classroom activities and better meet their needs.
- Educators and policymakers can use the results for the U.S. and other countries to make informed decisions about how to improve early childhood education for future generations.
- It will only take you 30 minutes to complete the parent questionnaire, and you will receive $20 to thank you for your time and effort!

Talking Points for Teachers

- IELS results can help you, our staff, and our principal gain a better understanding of children's skills and abilities as they enter school, which can help us improve classroom activities and better meet their needs.
- By completing the questionnaire, you help ensure that IELS can provide a more complete picture of what our country's 5-year-old children know and can do as they enter school.
- Educators and policymakers can use the results for the U.S. and other countries to make informed decisions about how to improve early childhood education for future generations.
- It will take less than 30 minutes for you to complete all of your questionnaires.
- To thank you for your time and effort, you will receive $20 for part A of the teacher questionnaire, and an additional $7 for each questionnaire you are asked to complete for participating students (if allowed by school policy).

Estudio Internacional del Aprendizaje Temprano 2018

PREGUNTAS FRECUENTES

Información para padres y tutores

¿Qué es el Estudio Internacional del Aprendizaje Temprano (IELS)?

IELS es un estudio internacional que lleva a cabo el Centro Nacional de Estadísticas para la Educación de los Estados Unidos (NCES por sus siglas en inglés), el cual es parte del Departamento de Educación. Este estudio aportará información importante sobre:

- Los conocimientos y habilidades de los niños de 5 años en nuestro país al iniciar la educación elemental;
- La relación entre las experiencias de los niños tanto en casa como en centros pre-escolares y sus habilidades cuando inician la educación elemental; y
- Cómo se comparan los estudiantes de los Estados Unidos y sus experiencias con las de niños de su edad en otros países del mundo.

¿Por qué es importante IELS?

Los resultados de IELS aportarán información valiosa que podrá ser usada para mejorar la educación de los niños y sus experiencias en los primeros 5 años de vida. Estos primeros años pueden sentar las bases para el éxito de los niños dentro y fuera de la escuela. Por ejemplo:

- Los padres y tutores pueden aprender actividades para realizar en casa que incrementen los conocimientos de los niños y ayuden a su desarrollo
- Los maestros de kindergarten pueden entender mejor las destrezas de los niños y sus habilidades antes de comenzar primer grado, lo cual puede mejorar también las actividades dentro del salón de clase.
- Los educadores y encargados de diseñar políticas públicas pueden usar los resultados para tomar decisiones informadas acerca de la educación temprana de los niños.

¿En qué consiste la participación de los estudiantes?

IELS es un estudio basado en juegos y que se lleva a cabo utilizando tabletas. Se les pide a los niños que señalen imágenes, escuchen historias y completen tareas que parecen juegos. Ellos no necesitan prepararse para el estudio y no necesitan saber leer tampoco. En nuestra experiencia, vemos que a los niños les gusta participar en el estudio.

- El estudio se llevará a cabo durante las horas de escuela en un salón designado para esto por el coordinador de IELS en la escuela, por ejemplo, en la biblioteca. No se toma cuánto tiempo le lleva a un niño completar la evaluación y se lo divide en dos días. Completar las actividades les lleva en general a los niños unos 30 minutos cada día y pueden tomar tantos descansos como necesiten.
- Los niños completarán las actividades de este estudio con un miembro del equipo de IELS con experiencia en trabajo con niños. El personal de la escuela o los maestros son bienvenidos si desean observar.

¿En qué consiste la participación de los padres?

Se le pedirá a uno de los padres o tutores de cada estudiante participante que complete un cuestionario de 30 minutos. La participación de los padres es de crucial importancia para que el estudio pueda reportar la relación entre las experiencias de aprendizaje temprano del niño y sus destrezas al iniciar la escuela.

- El cuestionario solicita información demográfica, e información de las experiencias de educación temprana de los niños. También se hacen preguntas sobre las habilidades sociales de los niños y su participación en arreglos de cuidado infantil.
- El cuestionario está disponible en versión electrónica, pero usted puede solicitar una versión impresa si lo prefiere. También hay disponibles versiones en inglés.
- Usted puede decidir cuándo y dónde completar el cuestionario dentro del plazo para el estudio. Usted puede dejar salir del cuestionario electrónico en cualquier momento y retomarlo más adelante.
- Usted puede saltar las preguntas que no desee contestar.

La participación de los padres asegura que IELS pueda aportar resultados valiosos y que sirvan para tomar decisiones. Usted recibirá $20 dólares como muestra de nuestro agradecimiento por su tiempo y esfuerzo.

¿Por qué deberíamos participar mi niño(a) y yo en el estudio?

Es importante que cada niño seleccionado participe en IELS porque ellos representan a muchos otros niños como ellos en su país. Los padres, al proporcionar información acerca de las experiencias tempranas de los niños, contribuyen al estudio brindando una visión más completa del desarrollo y aprendizaje de los participantes. Los maestros también deberán completar un cuestionario corto para complementar la información de las habilidades y experiencias de los niños.

Las escuelas que participen en IELS recibirán $200 dólares y los padres y tutores que completen el cuestionario recibirán $20 dólares.

¿Qué resultados se reportarán?

Los resultados de IELS incluirán información sobre:

- Las destrezas en lenguaje y alfabetización, matemáticas, auto-regulación y habilidades emocionales y sociales; y
- La relación entre estas habilidades y las experiencias de aprendizaje temprano de los niños

IELS no está diseñado para producir resultados de cada niño por separado. Los resultados se combinarán para describir a todos los niños de 5 años del país.

La información proporcionada individualmente por niños y padres de familia o tutores no se compartirá con los maestros, las escuelas o el distrito escolar. Los individuos y las escuelas no serán identificados en ninguno de los datos reportados.

¿Cómo fueron seleccionados mi niño y su escuela para participar en IELS?

El Departamento de Educación de los Estados Unidos identificó una muestra de alrededor de 200 escuelas públicas y privadas para representar a la nación en este estudio. Las escuelas fueron seleccionadas al azar para asegurar diversidad racial/étnica y socioeconómica, además de tener representación de las escuelas en áreas rurales, suburbanas y urbanas.

En cada escuela se seleccionaron al azar hasta 19 estudiantes para participar en el estudio. Aproximadamente participarán en IELS un total de 3000 niños de 5 años en todo el país.

¿Qué pasa si mi niño no quiere participar?

Toda participación es voluntaria. Los niños pueden dejar sin contestar cualquier pregunta que no quieran responder. Los niños que no deseen trabajar con el personal de IELS no están obligados a hacerlo. Los niños pueden tomar tantos descansos como lo deseen durante la evaluación.

Mi niño tiene una discapacidad. ¿Igualmente puede participar?

Para los estudiantes con discapacidades así como para los que están aprendiendo inglés se ofrecerán acomodaciones limitadas para participar en IELS. \ Si las acomodaciones disponibles brindan apoyo adecuado para los niños, ellos pueden participar.

¿Se mantendrán de manera confidencial los nombres de los participantes y sus respuestas?

Toda la información proporcionada por los maestros, los estudiantes y los padres de familia se usará únicamente con propósitos estadísticos y no podrá revelarse o usarse de manera que los participantes puedan ser identificados de manera personal en forma alguna excepto en los casos requeridos por ley (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). Todo el personal de campo y otro personal trabajando en el estudio ha firmado un compromiso de no divulgar información en el que ellos juran que cumplirán enteramente con esta ley. Por ley cada empleado o agente de NCEES, tales como los contratistas, han prestado juramento y son pueden ser condenados a pasar hasta 5 años en la cárcel y pagar una multa de $250,000 dólares, o ambos castigos, si divulgan información de manera voluntaria acerca de cualquier participante.

¿A quién puedo contactar para obtener información sobre IELS?

Si usted desea más información sobre el estudio, comuníquese al número gratuito de información de IELS 1-855-299-1398 o envíe un correo electrónico a IELSHelp@westat.com. También puede tener más información sobre el estudio en el sitio electrónico de IELS en <http://nces.ed.gov/surveys/IELS>.

Estimado(a) padre, madre o tutor,

Le escribo para comunicarle acerca de un importante estudio en el que participará nuestra escuela este otoño. Se trata del Estudio Internacional del Aprendizaje Temprano (IELS por sus siglas en inglés). Este estudio permitirá a los Estados Unidos comparar las destrezas y habilidades de los niños de Estados Unidos con niños de la misma edad de otros países. Los resultados de IELS proporcionarán a los encargados de diseñar políticas públicas, educadores así como a los padres de familia y tutores información valiosa acerca de las experiencias que influyen sobre el aprendizaje temprano de los niños y sus habilidades al iniciar la escuela.

El Centro Nacional para Estadísticas de la Educación (NCES por sus siglas en inglés) que forma parte del Departamento de Educación de los Estados Unidos ha invitado a nuestra escuela a participar en el estudio IELS. Algunos de nuestros estudiantes de kindergarten, incluyendo a su niño(a), han sido seleccionados al azar para participar en el estudio. La participación en IELS es voluntaria, pero es muy importante que su niño(a) participe para garantizar que tengamos una visión precisa de lo que pueden hacer los niños de 5 años de edad en los Estados Unidos, IELS es un estudio basado en juegos y se lleva a cabo utilizando tabletas. Cada niño hará la evaluación reuniéndose de manera individual con personal especialmente entrenado. No se toma cuánto tiempo le lleva a un niño completar la evaluación y se lo divide en dos días para que no falten demasiado tiempo de las actividades regulares de su clase. En nuestra experiencia, la participación lleva unos 30 minutos cada día y los niños disfrutan de participar.

Le invito a apoyar este esfuerzo permitiendo que su niño(a) participe. Uno de los padres o tutores de cada estudiante que participe deberá también contestar una breve encuesta. Usted encontrará información anexa para contestar la encuesta, además de una tarjeta de regalo con valor de $20 dólares por completar la encuesta.

La información proporcionada por los estudiantes y sus padres o tutores no se compartirá con los maestros, con nuestra escuela o con el distrito escolar. Los individuos y las escuelas no serán identificados en ninguno de los reportes. El Centro Nacional para Estadísticas de la Educación (NCES) está autorizado a realizar este estudio bajo el Acta de la Reforma de las Ciencias de la Educación de 2002 (ESRA 2002, 20 U.S.C. §9543). Toda la información que usted y su niño(a) proporcionen puede usarse únicamente para propósitos estadísticos y no puede divulgarse ni usarse de manera que permita identificar a los participantes para ningún otro propósito, a menos que así lo exija la ley (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151).

NCES trabajará con Westat, una organización que realiza proyectos de investigación, para llevar a cabo este estudio en los Estados Unidos entre octubre y noviembre de 2018. La hoja de preguntas frecuentes anexa le brinda información adicional de IELS y explica en qué consiste la participación de cada niño seleccionado para el estudio. Si usted tiene cualquier pregunta por favor no dude en llamar al 1-855-299-1398 o enviar un correo electrónico a IELSHelp@westat.com. Usted puede encontrar más información acerca de este estudio visitando el sitio electrónico de IELS en: <https://www.MyIELS.us/>.

Gracias por considerar la participación de su niño(a) en este importante estudio
