Dear: Ms Doe,

We sent the Potential Private Pension Benefit Information notice to tell you that the URS Corporation had reported that you may be entitled to benefits from these plans.

We have no say in the administration or benefit policies of any private pension plans and do not make any decisions about benefits paid under a private pension plan. Therefore, we are unable to answer questions about beneficiary entitlement under a specific private pension plan.

The information we sent you earlier is the only pension information in our files.

If you have written to the Plan Administrator and had your letter returned, you may wish to write to the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, Inquiries Department, 1200 K Street NW, Washington DC 20005. This corporation is responsible for protecting individuals' rights under private pension benefit plans.

We are writing to tell you that you, or the worker whose Social Security number appears at the top of this form, MAY be entitled to some private pension benefits upon retirement. Also, your family, or the worker's family, may be entitled to retirement or survivor benefits.

These Are Not Social Security Benefits

These potential benefits are NOT Social Security benefits and we do not make any decisions about the payment of these benefits. The following provides some basic information about these private pension benefits.

Information About Pension Benefits

You have , or the worker has, earned pension rights although no longer employed in a job covered by the pension plan. These are called "deferred vested benefits." Private pension plan administrators must provide information about such benefits to us through the Internal Revenue Service. We provide this information about the pension plan when the individual asks for it or when a claim is filed for Social Security benefits.
