INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING THE AISL FINAL UPDATE

Project ID: Test202
Award Type: Test

The National Science Foundation (NSF) is collecting information annually from all of its Advancing Informal STEM Learning (AISL) projects. The purpose is to obtain data that can be used to evaluate the collective impact of the AISL portfolio of funded projects, to monitor participants' activities and accomplishments, and to obtain information that can inform the design of future AISL efforts.

You should call your Westat contact person or email isehelp@westat.com if you have any questions about how to respond to a particular item.

Links are available at the top and bottom of the screen to assist you. For guidance on how to navigate the system, click on the Survey Navigation link. For information on the items contained in the survey and how to address them, click on the Help Materials link.

Please complete each of the following sections of the Final Update as they pertain to your AISL project. More than one person can log into the survey and enter information. You may complete the sections in any order. When you have started a section, the status will change to Incomplete. When you have completed a section, the status will change to Complete. Once all sections are complete, a Submit Report button will appear at the bottom of the page. Select the Submit Report button to complete and submit your survey.

Geographic Reach

D5. Which of the following best describes the actual geographic reach of the public audiences that accessed or used this deliverable over the course of your AISL grant? (Check one.)

- Single community or metropolitan region
Select even if the community or metropolitan region spans multiple states (e.g., the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area—which includes the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia).
- Multiple communities within a single state or U.S. territory
Select if the deliverable reached public audiences in two or more communities or metropolitan regions within a single state (e.g., a radio program that will be broadcast in Los Angeles and San Francisco).
- Multiple states and or U.S. territories
Do not select if the deliverable only reached a public audience in a single metropolitan area that spans multiple states (e.g., the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area—which includes the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia).

Specify in how many states and/or territories this deliverable reached public audiences over the course of your AISL grant:

D6. Did this deliverable TARGET international public audiences outside of the United States and U.S. territories over the course of the AISL grant?

DO NOT select "Yes" if international audiences were passive observers/consumers of the deliverable.

- For example, a website is not targeting international audiences merely because it is accessible to an international audience via the internet. A website only TARGETS international audiences if it is specifically designed for or is marketed to a specific international audience.

D9. Please review and update each impact for this deliverable and, if necessary, add new impacts this deliverable is designed to achieve with your public audiences.

The table below should list impact statements that depict EACH of the public audience outcomes that are expected to occur as a result of THIS deliverable.

Each impact statement should be a single sentence that describes how a target audience will change as a result of exposure to this deliverable. A well-written impact statement will include the following information:

- The public audience that will change as result of exposure to this deliverable (e.g., middle school girls);
- The type of change that will be observed (e.g., an increase in knowledge or awareness); and
- The subject or content area that is the focus of the impact.

A deliverable can have multiple impacts—e.g., one for increased knowledge AND another for enhanced interest. You should NOT combine two impacts into a single statement.

Click here to hide examples of impact statements for public audiences.

- Middle school girls will learn about the scientific research process.
- Middle school girls will be interested in the scientific research process.
- Middle school girls will have more positive attitudes toward scientific careers.
- Middle school girls will conduct scientific research.
- Middle school girls will demonstrate specific skills necessary to carry out scientific research.

Once you have updated/created this list, you will answer a set of questions for each impact statement. You should consult with your evaluator when updating/generating the list of impact statements and answering the corresponding questions.

Impact List

D9. Please review and update each impact for this deliverable and, if necessary, add new impacts this deliverable is designed to achieve with your public audiences.

The table below should list impact statements that depict EACH of the public audience outcomes that are expected to occur as a result of THIS deliverable.

Each impact statement should be a single sentence that describes how a target audience will change as a result of exposure to this deliverable. A well-written impact statement will include the following information:

- The public audience that will change as result of exposure to this deliverable (e.g., middle school girls);
- The type of change that will be observed (e.g., an increase in knowledge or awareness); and
- The subject or content area that is the focus of the impact.

A deliverable can have multiple impacts—e.g., one for increased knowledge AND another for enhanced interest. You should NOT combine two impacts into a single statement.

Click here to show examples of impact statements for public audiences.

Once you have updated/created this list, you will answer a set of questions for each impact statement. You should consult with your evaluator when updating/generating the list of impact statements and answering the corresponding questions.

STEP 1: Review and update previously entered impacts.

- To review and update the impact(s) for this deliverable, click on the impact statement in the Impact Statement column.
- After reviewing and updating an impact, you will report on the extent to which your project achieved the impact.

STEP 2: Add new impacts.

- To add an impact, enter the impact statement in the text box in the Impact Statement column. Then, click the Add button in the right-hand column of the table.
- After you add an impact, the impact statement becomes a link to a set of questions about the impact and the extent to which your project achieved the impact. Click on the impact statement in the Impact Statement column to access and complete the questions for that impact.
- Click here to obtain background information about impacts, indicators, impact categories, study designs, and data collection methods.

Use the tables below to review and update information about previously entered public audience deliverables and, if necessary, add information for new public audience deliverables.

- The information collected for each deliverable is very important, and you should carefully consider your response to each item. The information you provide will maximize the AISL program’s capacity to report on specific trends and accomplishments at the program, project, and deliverable levels.

STEP 1: In the first table below, review and update previously entered deliverables.

- To review and update information on a deliverable, click on the deliverable name in the column titled Previously Entered Deliverable Name.
- Clicking on the deliverable name will bring you to a set of questions about deliverable accomplishments over the course of the AISL grant award period.

STEP 2: In the second table below, add new public audience deliverables.

- To add a deliverable, enter the deliverable name in the text box in the New Deliverable Name column. Then, click the Add button in the right-hand column of the table.
- Your project will likely have multiple deliverables (e.g., a museum exhibit and a website). You should enter the name of each deliverable that was not entered in a previous report. Click here to review the OPMS list of public audience deliverable types. If your deliverable type is not included on this list, you can enter it in an "Other" category when you provide information about the deliverable type.
- After you add a deliverable, click on the deliverable name in the New Deliverable Name column.
- Clicking on the deliverable name will bring you to a set of questions about this deliverable and what it accomplished over the course of the AISL grant award period.

D17. Is this deliverable interdisciplinary (i.e., does it integrate concepts across multiple content areas)?

ONLY select "Yes" if your deliverable is interdisciplinary:

- A deliverable is interdisciplinary if it integrates concepts, information, techniques, perspectives, theories, etc. from two or more disciplines. For example, a television series is interdisciplinary if a single episode explores how math skills are utilized in a specific scientific field.

DO NOT select "Yes" if your deliverable is multidisciplinary OR the team developing the deliverable is multidisciplinary:

- A deliverable is multidisciplinary if it includes, but does not integrate, concepts, information, techniques, perspectives, theories, etc. from two or more disciplines. For example, a television series is multidisciplinary if it includes one episode about math skills and a separate episode about a specific scientific field. In this case, math and science are not integrated.
- A deliverable is NOT interdisciplinary simply because the team members developing the deliverable come from multiple disciplines. The deliverable, and not the team, must integrate two or more disciplines in order to be interdisciplinary.

D18b. What indicators did you use to determine whether this impact was achieved?

- Indicators are the evidence that is used to measure progress towards a given impact. An indicator answers the question: How will you know it when you see it?
- Effective indicators align directly to impacts and are clear, measurable, unbiased, and sensitive to change. For instance, if an impact relates to knowledge gains, the indicator should measure knowledge gains as opposed to, say, participant interest.
- While indicators are measurable, they do not always need to be quantifiable. Indicators can also be qualitative and descriptive, i.e., "Participants will describe that they ..."

D18. Please provide the following information about the impacts of this deliverable on your public audience.

- If no impacts will be measured for this deliverable, select the box below the table.

Use the table below to generate a list of impact statements that depict EACH of the public audience outcomes that are expected to occur as a result of THIS deliverable.

Each impact statement should be a single sentence that describes how a target audience will change as a result of exposure to this deliverable. A well-written impact statement will include the following information:

- The public audience that will change as result of exposure to this deliverable (e.g., middle school girls);
- The type of change that will be observed (e.g., an increase in knowledge or awareness); and
- The subject or content area that is the focus of the impact.

A deliverable can have multiple impacts—e.g., one for increased knowledge AND another for enhanced interest. You should NOT combine two impacts into a single statement.

Once you have created this list, you will answer a set of questions for each impact statement about corresponding indicators, study designs, data collection methods, and the extent to which your project achieved the impact. You should consult with your evaluator when generating a list of impact statements and answering the corresponding questions.

STEP 1: Generate a list of impact statements for this deliverable.

- To add an impact, enter the impact statement in the text box in the Impact Statement column. Then, click the Add button in the right-hand column of the table.

STEP 2: Provide information about each impact.

- After you add an impact, the impact statement becomes a link to a set of questions about the impact and the extent to which your project achieved the impact.
- Click on the impact statement in the Impact Statement column to access and complete the questions for that impact.
- Click here to obtain background information about impacts, indicators, impact categories, study designs, and data collection methods.

Audience Count

D21c. In the table below, please select the method or methods that were used to deliver this product, program, or experience to your public audiences over the course of the AISL grant.

For each selected delivery method, provide the number of individuals that you reached with this deliverable over the course of the AISL grant.

If possible, provide an unduplicated count of the number of individuals that used a given delivery method to listen, view, read, and/or use this deliverable during the AISL grant award period. If you are only providing an unduplicated count, please leave the duplicated count field blank.

In cases where it is not possible to provide an unduplicated count for a given delivery method, provide a duplicated count of the number of individuals that listened to, viewed, read, and/or used this deliverable. If you are only providing a duplicated count, please leave the unduplicated count field blank.

You only need to provide an unduplicated count or a duplicated count, not both. However, you should provide both if your project collects both unduplicated and duplicated participation data.

Geographic Reach

D22. Which of the following best describes the actual geographic reach of the public audiences that accessed or used this deliverable over the course of the AISL grant? (Check one.)

- Single community or metropolitan region
Select even if the community or metropolitan region spans multiple states (e.g., the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area—which includes the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia).
- Multiple communities within a single state or U.S. territory
Select if the deliverable reached public audiences in two or more communities or metropolitan regions within a single state (e.g., a radio program that will be broadcast in Los Angeles and San Francisco).
- Multiple states and or U.S. territories
Do not select if the deliverable only reached a public audience in a single metropolitan area that spans multiple states (e.g., the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area—which includes the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia).

Specify in how many states and/or territories this deliverable reached public audiences over the course of the AISL grant:

D23. Did this deliverable TARGET international public audiences outside of the United States and U.S. territories over the course of the AISL grant?

DO NOT select "Yes" if international audiences were passive observers/consumers of the deliverable.

- For example, a website is not targeting international audiences merely because it is accessible to an international audience via the internet. A website only TARGETS international audiences if it is specifically designed for or is marketed to a specific international audience.

For example, even though an exhibit is accessible to all public audience types, an exhibit only TARGETS a public audience type if it is specifically designed for or marketed to that audience.

Geo Reach (FG)

E4. Which of the following best describes the actual geographic reach of the professional audiences that accessed or used this deliverable over the course of your AISL grant? (Check one.)

Single community or metropolitan region
Select even if the community or metropolitan region spans multiple states (e.g., the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area—which includes the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia).

Multiple communities within a single state or U.S. territory
Select if the deliverable reached professional audiences in two or more communities or metropolitan regions within a single state (e.g., a radio program that will be broadcast in Los Angeles and San Francisco).

Multiple states and or U.S. territories
Do not select if the deliverable only reached a professional audience in a single metropolitan area that spans multiple states (e.g., the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area—which includes the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia).

Specify in how many states and/or territories this deliverable reached professional audiences over the course of your AISL grant:

E5. Did this deliverable TARGET international professional audiences outside of the United States and U.S. territories over the course of the AISL grant?

DO NOT select "Yes" if international audiences were passive observers/consumers of the deliverable.

- For example, a website is not targeting international audiences merely because it is accessible to an international audience via the internet. A website only TARGETS international audiences if it is specifically designed for or is marketed to a specific international audience.

E6. In the table below, please select each professional audience that this deliverable reached over the course of your AISL grant. (Check all that apply.)

For each professional audience that you select, please provide your best estimate of the number of professionals that you reached with this deliverable over the course of your AISL grant.

If possible, provide an unduplicated count of individuals who were reached over the course of your AISL grant. If you are only providing an unduplicated count, please leave the duplicated count field blank.

In cases where it is not possible to provide an unduplicated count, provide a duplicated count of individuals who were reached over the course of your AISL grant. If you are only providing a duplicated count, please leave the unduplicated count field blank.

You only need to provide an unduplicated count or a duplicated count, not both. However, you should provide both if your project collects both unduplicated and duplicated participation data.

E9b. What indicators did you use to determine whether this impact was achieved?

- Indicators are the evidence that is used to measure progress towards a given impact. An indicator answers the question: How will you know it when you see it?
- Effective indicators align directly to impacts and are clear, measurable, unbiased, and sensitive to change. For instance, if an impact relates to knowledge gains, the indicator should measure knowledge gains as opposed to, say, participant interest.
- While indicators are measurable, they do not always need to be quantifiable. Indicators can also be qualitative and descriptive, i.e., "Participants will describe that they ..."

Impact List

E7. Please review and update each impact for this deliverable and, if necessary, add new impacts this deliverable is designed to achieve with your professional audiences.

The table below should list impact statements that depict EACH of the professional audience outcomes that are expected to occur as a result of THIS deliverable.

Each impact statement should be a single sentence that describes how a target audience will change as a result of exposure to this deliverable. A well-written impact statement will include the following information:

- The professional audience that will change as result of exposure to this deliverable (e.g., instructors at STEM after school programs);
- The type of change that will be observed (e.g., an increase in knowledge or awareness); and
- The subject or content area that is the focus of the impact.

A deliverable can have multiple impacts—e.g., one for increased knowledge AND another for enhanced interest. You should NOT combine two impacts into a single statement.

Click here to show examples of impact statements for professional audiences.

Once you have updated/created this list, you will answer a set of questions for each impact statement. You should consult with your evaluator when updating/generating the list of impact statements and answering the corresponding questions.

STEP 1: Review and update previously entered impacts.

- To review and update the impact(s) for this deliverable, click on the impact statement in the Impact Statement column.
- After reviewing and updating an impact, you will report on the extent to which your project achieved the impact.

STEP 2: Add new impacts.

- To add an impact, enter the impact statement in the text box in the Impact Statement column. Then, click the Add button in the right-hand column of the table.
- After you add an impact, the impact statement becomes a link to a set of questions about the impact and the extent to which your project achieved the impact. Click on the impact statement in the Impact Statement column to access and complete the questions for that impact.

Use the tables below to review and update information about previously entered professional audience deliverables and, if necessary, add information for new professional audience deliverables.

- The information collected for each deliverable is very important, and you should carefully consider your response to each item. The information you provide will maximize the AISL program's capacity to report on specific trends and accomplishments at the program, project, and deliverable levels.

STEP 1: In the first table below, review and update previously entered deliverables.

- To review and update information on a deliverable, click on the deliverable name in the column titled Previously Entered Deliverable Name.
- Clicking on the deliverable name will bring you to a set of questions about deliverable accomplishments over the course of the AISL grant award period.

STEP 2: In the second table below, add new professional audience deliverables.

- To add a deliverable, enter the deliverable name in the text box in the New Deliverable Name column. Then, click the Add button in the right-hand column of the table.
- Your project will likely have multiple deliverables (e.g., a museum exhibit and a website). You should enter the name of each deliverable that was not entered in a previous report. Click here to review the OPMS list of professional audience deliverable types. If your deliverable type is not included on this list, you can enter it in an "Other" category when you provide information about the deliverable type.
- After you add a deliverable, click on the deliverable name in the New Deliverable Name column.
- Clicking on the deliverable name will bring you to a set of questions about this deliverable and what it accomplished over the course of the AISL grant award period.

E15. Is this deliverable interdisciplinary (i.e., does it integrate concepts across multiple content areas)?

ONLY select "Yes" if your deliverable is interdisciplinary:

- A deliverable is interdisciplinary if it integrates concepts, information, techniques, perspectives, theories, etc. from two or more disciplines. For example, curriculum is interdisciplinary if a single lesson explores how math skills are utilized in a specific scientific field.

DO NOT select "Yes" if your deliverable is multidisciplinary OR the team developing the deliverable is multidisciplinary:

- A deliverable is multidisciplinary if it includes, but does not integrate, concepts, information, techniques, perspectives, theories, etc. from two or more disciplines. For example, curriculum is multidisciplinary if it includes one lesson about math skills and a separate lesson about a specific scientific field. In this case, math and science are not integrated.
- A deliverable is NOT interdisciplinary simply because the team members developing the deliverable come from multiple disciplines. The deliverable, and not the team, must integrate two or more disciplines in order to be interdisciplinary.

- If no impacts will be measured for this deliverable, select the box below the table.

Use the table below to generate a list of impact statements that depict EACH of the professional audience outcomes that are expected to occur as a result of THIS deliverable.

Each impact statement should be a single sentence that describes how a target audience will change as a result of exposure to this deliverable. A well-written impact statement will include the following information:

- The subject or content area that is the focus of the impact.

A deliverable can have multiple impacts—e.g., one for increased knowledge AND another for enhanced interest. You should NOT combine two impacts into a single statement.

- Instructors at STEM after school programs will learn about the scientific research process.
- Instructors at STEM after school programs will be interested in providing instruction about the scientific research process.
- Instructors at STEM after school programs will have more positive attitudes towards using the scientific research process with teenagers.
- Instructors at STEM after school programs will conduct scientific research with teenagers.
- Instructors at STEM after school programs will demonstrate mastery of the specific skills needed to teach teenagers about how to carry out scientific research.

Once you have created this list, you will answer a set of questions for each impact statement about corresponding indicators, study designs, data collection methods, and the extent to which your project achieved the impact. You should consult with your evaluator when generating a list of impact statements and answering the corresponding questions.

STEP 1: Generate a list of impact statements for this deliverable.

- To add an impact, enter the impact statement in the text box in the Impact Statement column. Then, click the Add button in the right-hand column of the table.

STEP 2: Provide information about each impact.

E18b. What indicators did you use to determine whether this impact was achieved?

- Indicators are the evidence that is used to measure progress towards a given impact. An indicator answers the question: How will you know it when you see it?
- Effective indicators align directly to impacts and are clear, measurable, unbiased, and sensitive to change. For instance, if an impact relates to knowledge gains, the indicator should measure knowledge gains as opposed to, say, participant interest.
- While indicators are measurable, they do not always need to be quantifiable. Indicators can also be qualitative and descriptive, i.e., "Participants will describe that they ..."

E17. Please provide the following information about the impacts of this deliverable on your professional audience.

- If no impacts will be measured for this deliverable, select the box below the table.

Use the table below to generate a list of impact statements that depict EACH of the professional audience outcomes that are expected to occur as a result of THIS deliverable.

Each impact statement should be a single sentence that describes how a target audience will change as a result of exposure to this deliverable. A well-written impact statement will include the following information:

- The professional audience that will change as result of exposure to this deliverable (e.g., instructors at STEM after school programs);
- The type of change that will be observed (e.g., an increase in knowledge or awareness); and
- The subject or content area that is the focus of the impact.

A deliverable can have multiple impacts—e.g., one for increased knowledge AND another for enhanced interest. You should NOT combine two impacts into a single statement.

Once you have created this list, you will answer a set of questions for each impact statement about corresponding indicators, study designs, data collection methods, and the extent to which your project achieved the impact. You should consult with your evaluator when generating a list of impact statements and answering the corresponding questions.

STEP 1: Generate a list of impact statements for this deliverable.

- To add an impact, enter the impact statement in the text box in the Impact Statement column. Then, click the Add button in the right-hand column of the table.

STEP 2: Provide information about each impact.

- After you add an impact, the impact statement becomes a link to a set of questions about the impact and the extent to which your project achieved the impact.
- Click on the impact statement in the Impact Statement column to access and complete the questions for that impact.
- Click here to obtain background information about impacts, indicators, impact categories, study designs, and data collection methods.

E21. Which of the following best describes the actual geographic reach of the professional audiences that accessed or used this deliverable over the course of your AISL grant? (Check one.)

- Single community or metropolitan region
Select even if the community or metropolitan region spans multiple states (e.g., the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area—which includes the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia).
- Multiple communities within a single state or U.S. territory
Select if the deliverable reached professional audiences in two or more communities or metropolitan regions within a single state (e.g., a radio program that will be broadcast in Los Angeles and San Francisco).
- Multiple states and or U.S. territories
Do not select if the deliverable only reached a professional audience in a single metropolitan area that spans multiple states (e.g., the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area—which includes the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia).

Specify in how many states and/or territories this deliverable reached professional audiences over the course of your AISL grant:

E22. Did this deliverable TARGET international professional audiences outside of the United States and U.S. territories over the course of the AISL grant?

DO NOT select "Yes" if international audiences were passive observers/consumers of the deliverable.

- For example, a website is not targeting international audiences merely because it is accessible to an international audience via the internet. A website only TARGETS international audiences if it is specifically designed for or is marketed to a specific international audience.

If possible, provide an unduplicated count of individuals who were reached over the course of your AISL grant. If you are only providing an unduplicated count, please leave the duplicated count field blank.

You only need to provide an unduplicated count or a duplicated count, not both. However, you should provide both if your project collects both unduplicated and duplicated participation data.
