YOUR RESPONSIBILITY AS A REPRESENTATIVE PAYEE

Your job is to use the Social Security benefits you receive for the personal care and well-being of the beneficiary. This is true whether you are relative, friend, court-appointed guardian, or official of a private agency or institution. You must keep yourself informed of the beneficiary's needs, so you can decide how the benefits should be used. You must account for the use of the benefits on the form enclosed. This accounting will be reviewed by the Social Security Administration and is subject to verification. Therefore, you should keep a record of the amount of benefits you received and how you used them (keep receipts, cancelled checks, etc.).

You must notify the Social Security Administration when the beneficiary changes residence or you are no longer responsible for the care and welfare of the beneficiary. You must also report to us promptly if the beneficiary dies, marries, is adopted, goes to work, or enters or leaves a hospital or institution.
