You have been invited to participate in a research study because you or a family member has submitted a refugee application to the United States. Your decision to be in this study is voluntary.

The purpose of this research study is to evaluate the accuracy of an investigational electronic process used to test DNA (Deoxyribonucleic acid), which may help applicants and the U.S. Government in the future immigration and refugee application process. If you participate in this study, you will provide a saliva sample so that we can examine parent-child relationships among refugee applicants.

If you agree with the information presented below, please select the boxes and sign in the signature box.

If you agree to participate in this study, you are agreeing to let a representative of the U.S. Government swab the inside of your cheek to collect your DNA. DNA contains biological information that indicates family relationships, such as a parent-child relationship. Your DNA samples will be collected and analyzed with an on-site Rapid DNA analysis system for research purposes. You understand that this test will not be used by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) to determine whether you are biologically related to a parent or child in your case or related cases.

The RAPID DNA results may be compared to results produced by separate samples sent to an American Association of Blood Banks (AABB) accredited laboratory in the United States. Only the results of the AABB accredited laboratory DNA test may be used when considering your refugee application. A staff member will swab the inside of your cheek with five different cotton swabs so that five samples of your DNA are collected. This will take about five to ten minutes to complete. Study staff members will dispose of all cheek swab samples after testing is complete. There is no physical discomfort from saliva collection. We do not anticipate any risks from analysis of your samples and every effort will be made to protect your and your relative's privacy and the confidentiality of the DNA and the testing results from unauthorized disclosure.

The U.S. Government, including the Food and Drug Administration, the sponsor, and the Institutional Review Board (IRB) may review the research study records as required by law. The IRB is a group of people who perform independent review of research as required by regulations. Your identity will be kept confidential, including in any publications.

You are NOT required to participate in this test or sign this consent form. Your alternative is to not participate. You are volunteering to participate, and may change your mind any time before the test begins. Your decision will not result in any penalty or loss of benefits if you are eligible for such immigration benefits. USCIS will make the decision on your refugee application based on all relevant evidence that you submit, including whether that evidence demonstrates the claimed biological parent/child relationship.

You may ask the representative present at the time of testing about any questions, concerns or complaints about this study or a problem due to the research, and you may email Help@wirb.com about your rights as a research participant, questions, concerns or complaints.
