TITLE OF INFORMATION COLLECTION:

2018 NLM SIS Emerging Adults Health Needs Assessment

PURPOSE:

The purpose of this National Library of Medicine (NLM) Division of Specialized Information Services (SIS) information collection is to obtain qualitative feedback from potential users of NLM health information resources for emerging adults (young adults ages 18-25). Emerging adults constitute a special population group of high interest for the NLM. Results of the information collection will be used to improve existing consumer health information resources and develop new specialized modules and resources targeting this population.

DESCRIPTION OF RESPONDENTS:

The assessment will include three discussion groups with emerging adults living with chronic diseases. Two groups will be conducted with students at University of Maryland, College Park, a 4-year residential college; one group will be conducted with low-income young adults attending Montgomery College in Rockville, Maryland, a 2-year commuter community college. Twenty-seven students will be recruited to participate in the focus groups. The survey component of the assessment will be given to a sample of 150 young adults (of unspecified health status) recruited at University of Maryland, College Park and Montgomery College.

TYPE OF COLLECTION:
