

Ontario, Canada, due to the eggs' having been washed out by a storm and abandoned by the parents in the wild. The Service determined that an emergency affecting the viability of the piping plover eggs existed, and that no reasonable alternative was available to the applicant.

On June 13, 2019, the Service issued permit no. PRT-44262D to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, East Lansing, Michigan, to import the four viable wild-collected eggs from piping plover for the purpose of enhancement of the survival of the species. The eggs were salvaged so that the Service could hatch them in captivity at a captive-rearing facility in the United States for eventual release of the fledged birds into the wild.

Background

On January 10, 2017, the Service Director approved a request from the Service Regional Director, Midwest Region, to rename the Squaw Creek National Wildlife Refuge, located in Holt County, Missouri, to Loess Bluffs National Wildlife Refuge. This decision followed a meeting that was held at the refuge on December 19, 2016, with certain interested parties to discuss suitable alternatives for the name change. The majority of the group of stakeholders and Tribal and community leaders present at the meeting concurred that recognizing the loess hills geologic formation would be the best alternative.

Now, in response to congressional direction in House Report 115-765, which accompanied the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2019 (Pub. L. 116-6), enacted February 15, 2019, the Service is opening a public process on the question of whether or not to rename the Loess Bluffs National Wildlife Refuge. Accordingly, through this Federal Register notice, we are inviting the public to comment, for a period of 15 days, on the question of whether or not to rename the Loess Bluffs National Wildlife Refuge.

comment that we withhold your personal identifying information from public review, we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so. All submissions from organizations or businesses, and from individuals identifying themselves as representatives or officials of organizations or businesses, will be made available for public disclosure in their entirety.

Next Steps

Authority

We provide this notice in accordance with the Congressional direction in House Report 115-765, which accompanied the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2019 (Pub. L. 116-6).

Dated: July 15, 2019.

Principal Deputy Director, Exercising the Authority of the Director for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Abstract: The regulations at 30 CFR part 250, subpart L, concern the Oil and Gas Production Measurement, Surface Commingling, and Security regulatory requirements of oil, gas, and sulphur operations in the Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) and are the subject of this collection. This request also covers any related Notices to Lessees and Operators (NLTs) that BSEE issues to clarify, supplement, or provide additional guidance on some aspects of our regulations.

The BSEE uses the information collected under the Subpart L regulations to ensure that operations on the OCS are carried out in a safe and pollution-free manner, do not interfere with the rights of other users on the OCS, and balance the protection and development of OCS resources. Specifically, we use the information collected to do the following:

In regard to Liquid Hydrocarbon Measurement—

- Determine if measurement equipment is properly installed, provides accurate measurement of production on which royalty is due, and is operating properly;

- Ascertain if all removals of oil and condensate from the lease are reported;
- Obtain rates of production measured at royalty meters, which can be examined during field inspections;

In regard to Gas Measurement—

- Ensure that the sales location is secure and production cannot be removed without the volumes being recorded;

In regard to Surface Commingling—

- Review gas volume statements and compare them with the Oil and Gas Operations Reports to verify accuracy.

In regard to Miscellaneous & Recordkeeping—

- Review proving reports to verify that data on run tickets are calculated and reported accurately.
