1 Introduction

In the United States, institutions of higher education are permitted to operate with considerable independence and autonomy. The United States has no Ministry of Education or other centralized federal authority exercising control over the quality of postsecondary educational institutions, and the states assume varying degrees of control over education. As a consequence, American educational institutions can vary widely in the character and quality of their programs. To ensure a basic level of quality, the practice of accreditation arose in the United States as a means of conducting non- governmental, peer evaluation of educational institutions and programs.

A college, university, or other institution of higher education seeking accreditation status must complete several primary steps in the accreditation process. Each of these primary steps is designated by the particular accreditation organization from which the institution is seeking accreditation status. The institution must first prepare materials that demonstrate the institution's accomplishments and exhibit the level of quality of the areas of operation that are under scrutiny. Next, the institution undergoes a peer review of the prepared materials. Finally, action is taken by the accreditation organization to determine whether accreditation will be granted to the institution.

The U.S. Department of Education (Department) does not accredit educational institutions and/or programs. However, the Department provides oversight over the postsecondary accreditation system through its monitoring and periodic review of all federally-recognized accrediting agencies. The Department holds accrediting agencies accountable by ensuring that they enforce their accreditation standards effectively. Also, as a part of the Department's oversight roles, the Secretary of Education is required by law to publish a list of nationally recognized accrediting agencies that the Secretary determines to be reliable authorities as to the quality of education or training provided by the institutions of higher education and the higher education programs they accredit.

In order to be recognized by the Secretary, all accrediting agencies undergo an initial evaluation process and periodic reevaluation reviews. After an agency is approved for recognition, the Department will identify the areas for which an agency is recognized and document its recognition of those areas in a Scope of Recognition Statement. These statements are posted online, along with other information about the accreditation process at the Accreditation in the United States website at <http://www2.ed.gov/admins/finaid/accred/index.html>.

The Department's Office of Postsecondary Education (OPE) has subsequently made information about accreditors, as well as information about accredited institutions and programs, available to the public through the online Database of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs at <http://ope.ed.gov/dapip/> . The public site is compiled from public information submitted to the Department by recognized accrediting agencies and state approval agencies. This information is collected and maintained in the Department's web-based Database of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs: Collection System at <https://surveys.ope.ed.gov/dapip/> . This information is used for a variety of purposes, but most notably it is used by employers to ensure that job applicants obtained their education from an accredited institution or program.

1.1 Types of Accreditation

There are two basic types of educational accreditation, one referred to as "institutional" and the other referred to as "specialized" or "programmatic."

- Institutional Accreditation normally applies to an entire institution, indicating that each of an institution's parts is contributing to the achievement of the institution's objectives, although not necessarily all at the same level of quality. Regional and national accreditors perform institutional accreditation.
- Specialized or Programmatic Accreditation normally applies to the evaluation of programs, departments, or schools which usually are parts of a total collegiate or other postsecondary institution. The unit accredited may be as large as a college or school within a university or as small as a curriculum within a discipline. Most of the specialized accrediting agencies review units within a postsecondary institution which is accredited by one of the regional accrediting commissions. However, certain of the specialized accrediting agencies accredit professional schools and other specialized or vocational or other postsecondary institutions which are free-standing in their operations. Thus, a "specialized" or "programmatic" accrediting agency may also function in the capacity of an "institutional" accrediting agency. In addition, a number of specialized accrediting agencies accredit educational programs within non-educational settings, such as hospitals.
- Internship/Residency Accreditation is a subset of the Specialized or Programmatic Accreditation that applies to the evaluation of internship or residency programs.

1.2 Types of Institution/Sites

There are two basic types of institutions found within the database:

- Institution: An Institution of Higher Education (IHE) which has as its sole purpose, or one of its primary missions, the provision of postsecondary education. Parent Institution refers to the main campus of an Institution that has one or more branch campuses.
- Site: Any non-IHE setting (e.g. hospital, research center, social services agency, etc.) in which accredited educational programs – internships, residencies and specialized programs—are administered.

Each institution may also have one or more additional campuses or additional Institution/Sites affiliated with it, as defined below:

- Additional Location: A branch Institution/Site of an institution that is not temporary, is located in a community beyond a reasonable commuting distance from its Parent Institution and offers full programs of study – meaning that 50 percent or more of the coursework required for one or more degrees can be completed at this Institution/Site. Campuses can inherit the accreditation of the Parent Institution and can also obtain additional accreditations for programs at that Institution/Site. Moreover, it includes any additional facilities geographically separate from an institution or campus, where courses are offered that are part of an organized program at the institution or campus, but less than 50 percent of the required coursework for one or more degrees can be completed at this Institution/Site. Additional Institution/Sites are accredited through the accreditation of the parent institution or campus they are affiliated with. They cannot obtain their own separate accreditation. (Campuses are considered additional location).

1.3 Types of Programs

“Program” refers to a postsecondary educational program offered by an institution of higher education that leads to an academic or professional degree, certificate, or other recognized educational credential. The specialized program types are listed and defined below:

- Specialized Program: A Specialized Program is an accredited program offered to remove strictly by IHEs and that lead to an academic or professional degree, certificate, or other recognized educational credential.

NOTE: This type of accreditation may be granted to institutions or campuses only. Accreditation of this type may not be granted to sites.

- Internship: An internship is the supervised practical training of advanced students, or recent graduates, in areas such as medicine, psychology, or dietetics. This option applies to the accreditation of qualified internships, including Predoctoral Internships in Pediatric Dentistry or internship programs in Nurse-Midwifery.

- Residency: A residency is the specialized, clinical training of physicians, where recent graduates practice medicine under the supervision of fully licensed medical professionals, usually in a hospital or clinic. This option applies to programs for the accreditation of qualified residency programs, such as Postdoctoral residencies in Optometry or Podiatry.

2 Getting Started

The following information is provided to assist users in performing basic tasks in the Database of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs: Collection System including user types, logging in, registering, navigating the system, and helpful hints and tips

2.1 Helpful Hints and Tips

- The Accredited Schools List Help Desk is available to assist with technical issues and can be reached at 855-831-9922 or dapip@inovas.net.
- A glossary is available under the Help menu. You can search by term to find the definition of a keyword, or by definition to find terms with the keyword included in the definition.
- System and Accreditation FAQs are available under the Help menu.
- For changes to your agency’s scope of recognition or for questions about compliance, please contact your Accreditation Group analyst. This would include requests to add a new degree level or program.
- Any information except the “Confidential Action” entered into the Database of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs: Collection System is subject to public display on the Database of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs website at <https://ope.ed.gov/dapip/>.
- A decision letter is required to be posted by the agency who serves as Title IV gatekeeper for the institution that is placed on probation or equivalent status, or a more severe action, or a status that results in loss of accreditation. At a minimum, the document for a summary of any such action to an institution or program is required by all other agencies. The document for a decision letter or summary is optional for any other reported accreditation action. An 'Upload

Documentation' function is now available to upload the decision letter. Read more in section 5.4 Modify Accreditation.

- Agency submissions under 34 CFR 602.30 and 602.31 should be submitted to the Department's Accreditation Group at <https://opeweb.ed.gov/aslweb/>, or directly to the Accreditation Group analyst if so requested (for purposes of complaints against the agency, etc.).

Materials and actions that are neither required to be made public nor appropriate for public posting should be submitted to the Department through the following email addresses: CaseTeams@ed.gov and AslRecordsManager@ed.gov.

Also, the new Database of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs: Collection System is designed to allow agencies to report agency actions directly under the sections of the regulation listed below:

1. 34 CFR 602.27(a)(1) – 602.27(a)(7)

Including agency annual reports, directory, annual data summary, proposed/ notification of changes in policies and standards; reporting of fraud, abuse, and compliance with Title IV responsibilities, etc.

2. 34 CFR 602.19(e) and 34 CFR 602.28(c)

Including reporting of drastic increase in enrollment in distant education program at an institution accredited by an agency that had previously notified the Department of a change in scope.

5 Manage Accreditations

The first step in completing most tasks in the Database of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs: Collection System – from viewing an Institution/Site’s accreditation history to inserting a new Institution/Site – is searching for the Institution/Site or site whose records you want to view and/or modify.

You can access the search option at any time by going to the DASHBOARD in the main menu, and you will be able to use either the Search box or the Advanced Search.

5.1 Search for an Institution/Site

To Search for an Institution, Additional Location or Site, start by using the simple search method as explained in section 5.1.1 Simple Search, or, for a more precise search, use the Advanced search as explained in section 5.1.2 Advanced Search.

5.1.1 Simple Search

From the DASHBOARD in the main menu, the simple search box will allow you to search by the Name, DAPIP ID or OPE ID of an accredited Institution/Site.

5.1.2 Advanced Search

For more assistance in the search criteria and to find a specific Institution, additional Location or site, you can click on the “Advanced Search” box which can be accessed from the Dashboard and you will be transferred to a new screen that will have options to fill in to help in the search process.

NOTE: Restricted ED (FSA) and ED/ ED Manager will have more fields on the Advanced Search screen such as: agency, agency code, FSA region ID and IPEDS Unit ID¹. Furthermore, they will NOT have access to the check box “Include Only Institutions Accredited by Your Agency”.

¹ The IPEDS Unit ID is assigned by the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS); whereas the accreditation system’s Unit ID is a unique institution/campus/site identifier that is only used in this system

5.3 Add New Accreditation

The Database of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs: Collection System serves as the primary means by which the Department of Education compiles and maintains information related to the accreditation of postsecondary institutions and programs in the United States.

Users can insert accreditation for a relevant Institution/Site, additional location or modify an Institution/Site's existing accreditation status, where applicable. Once an Institution/Site or educational program is accredited, the accrediting agency will continue to monitor and re-evaluate it throughout the period of accreditation to verify that it continues to meet the agency's standards.

NOTE: If a request was made in error or requires a change, please contact the DAPIP Help Desk at 855-831-9922 or dapip@inovas.net as soon as possible. Once a request is approved and migrated, it will appear on the public website. The process takes 1-2 days unless a specific request is made to the DAPIP Help Desk. No additional communication will take place after migration.

As described in section 4.1 Add New Main Institution/Site, agencies are required to add accreditation information if a new Institution/Site was added.

NOTE: ED/ED Managers have permissions to add accreditation records on behalf of agencies.
