Single Means Tested Public Benefit

Note – When a SAVE user agency submits an immigration status verification request, the agency indicates the benefit or benefits that the applicant is seeking. If the user agency indicated that it submitted the verification request for only one federal means-tested public benefit and chooses to answer the information collection questions, then the benefit will be indicated in the questions for response as reflected in the Medicaid example on this page.

Note – Medicaid is an example of a federal means-tested public benefit, but there are others to which this information collection also applies, such as Children’s Health Insurance Program, Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, and Supplemental Security Income.

Benefit Eligibility And Deeming ?

How did your agency determine the applicant's eligibility for Medicaid?

My agency approved the application for Medicaid...

- After deeming income and resources to be available to applicant
- After deeming any amount provided to applicant since they were determined to be indigent per 8 U.S.C. 1631(e)
- Without deeming income and resources to be available to applicant because applicant has earned (or was credited with) 40 qualifying quarters of coverage under Title II of Social Security Act
- Without deeming income and resources to be available to applicant because applicant or their child meets the requirements of a battered spouse or child per 8 U.S.C. 1631(f)
- Without deeming income and resources to be available to applicant because of another reason

My agency denied the application for Medicaid...

- Because deeming income and resources to be available to applicant made them ineligible
- Because applicant's immigration status made them ineligible
- Because of another reason

Would you like to use these answers for all benefits?

If the answers you entered for this benefit are the same for all means-tested benefits included in this SAVE case, you can save time by using these answers for all benefits. But if any of these answers are different (for example, your agency approved some benefits but denied others, your agency sent reimbursement request letters for some benefits but not all benefits, etc.), you must answer questions separately for each means-tested benefit.
