Learning disability (LD): Learning disability involves problems with one or more of the basic processes used in understanding or in using language (spoken or written), listening, thinking, reading, writing, spelling, or solving problems in math. In some cases a child with a learning disability can perform at grade level with special help.

Reading disability: Reading disability is a learning disability that affects a child's ability to read and often also affects his or her writing.

Math disability: Math disability is a learning disability that affects the child's ability to understand and solve math problems.

Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD)/ Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD): ADD and ADHD are health impairments that make it hard for a child to focus and pay attention. With ADHD, a child is also often hyperactive (always on the go) and may have trouble being patient. A child may act without thinking, and struggle to sit still (more than is appropriate for his or her age).

Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD): ASD or autism affects a child's ability to communicate (verbally and nonverbally) and interact socially. A child with autism has difficulty understanding emotions and the perspective of others. The characteristics may include a lack of responsiveness to other people, facial expressions that do not seem appropriate for the situation, responding in other socially inappropriate ways, and repetitive activities and movements (such as hand-flapping or rocking). A child with autism may show resistance to change and hypersensitivity to sensory experiences such as the texture of some clothes for example. A child with autism may be advanced or gifted in one or more areas. Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) includes children with Asperger's syndrome and pervasive developmental disorder (PDD).

Speech or language disorder: Speech or language impairment refers to a communication disorder. A child with a speech disorder may have voice disorders, stutter, or have problems distinguishing sounds. Speech disorders range from difficulty with using a particular sound (for example, the "th" sound in this) to difficulty with speaking loudly. A child with a language impairment may have difficulty understanding and forming sentences, using words correctly, finding words for what she or he wants to say, or his or her ability to repeat information just heard.

Intellectual disability (Severe cognitive disability): A child's mental development is noticeably behind what is expected for a child of his or her age. A child with an intellectual disability also has difficulty with performing some daily life activities or functions on his or her own. A child's learning in school is very slow and far behind other children of that age. Previously called "mental retardation."

Health impairment: Health impairment includes health issues that cause problems with strength, vitality, and alertness. A child with a health condition may function intellectually or cognitively as well as his or her peers, but have difficulty "keeping up" in general. Health impairments include problems such as epilepsy or other seizure disorder, asthma, diabetes, sickle cell anemia, or hemophilia.

Physical disability: Physical disability affects a child's ability to move or balance. Disabling physical problems can include for example, cerebral palsy, amputations, bone tuberculosis, polio, and contractures (difficulty straightening a joint such as knees, elbows, and fingers).

Sensory impairment: Sensory impairments involve being hypersensitive (overly responsive) to touch, sound, movement, or temperature; or very under responsive to those sensory input. Sensory impairments may also involve a lack of control over what sensory information to pay attention to. A child may have an increased alertness to very small changes in the environment making it difficult to maintain attention to what she or he is supposed to be learning.

Emotional disturbance: Emotional Disturbance (ED) involves difficulty with emotions over a long period of time that hurts a child's school performance. ED may include (a) difficulty learning that cannot be explained by other factors; (b) difficulty with interpersonal relationships (i.e., getting along) with peers and teachers; (c) behavior or feelings that do not match what is happening; d) a general mood of unhappiness or depression; and/or (e) a tendency to develop physical symptoms or fears associated with personal or school problems. Emotional disturbance includes schizophrenia. It does not apply to a child who is socially maladjusted (extreme behavior problems), unless he or she also has an emotional disturbance.

Conduct disorder: Conduct disorder (CD) involves a pattern of behavior that is frequently defiant, angry, hostile, and disrespectful, and disrupts child's normal functioning. Before the age of ten, a child exhibiting these negative behaviors is usually diagnosed with oppositional defiant disorder (ODD). If behavioral symptoms after age ten are not severe, a child may also be diagnosed with oppositional defiant disorder (ODD).

Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD): Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, also known as PTSD, is a condition that some people develop after experiencing a shocking, terrifying, or dangerous event. PTSD can cause high anxiety, nightmares, flashbacks to the event, and can interfere with a child's ability to function.

Anxiety disorder or phobia: A child who has an anxiety disorder worries much more than other children and may worry all the time. She or he may worry about nothing in particular or themselves, other's safety, her or his health, and/or the world. She or he often has physical signs of anxiety such as headache, abdominal pain, cramps, diarrhea, vomiting, and dizziness. Anxiety disorders include generalized anxiety disorder, social anxiety disorder (also called social phobia), and other specific phobias that interfere with a child's ability to function.

Obsessive compulsive disorder (OCD): A child must have obsessions or compulsions or both to have this disorder, and these obsessions and/or compulsions must be disabling to the child. Obsessions are thoughts that occur over and over and cause distress. A child spends so much time on the thoughts that she or he has a hard time taking care of herself or himself or relating to others. Compulsions are acts that a child feels driven to repeat over and over, such as a need to clean or organize excessively, to keep everything the same.

Eating disorder: Eating disorders may involve eating too little and an obsession with staying thin (anorexia) or binge eating (gorging food). A child may make his or herself throw-up (vomit) after binge eating and/or taking laxatives (bulimia) or a child may vomit without trying after overeating.

Depression: Depression is a general or pervasive mood of sadness or unhappiness. It includes feeling helpless, hopeless, and worthless. Depression lasts for many days to weeks keeping a child from functioning normally.

Bipolar disorder: Bipolar Disorder (also known as manic depressive disorder or manic depression) causes unusual swings in mood, energy, and activity levels in a child. This disability can make it difficult to carry out day-to-day tasks and can lead to poor decisions. The intense emotional swings are often unrelated to life events.

Tourette's syndrome: Tourette's syndrome is a nervous system disorder that involves movements or vocalizations that are repetitive and involuntary (not under the control of the child). These involuntary movements and vocalizations are called tics. Some examples include repeated facial grimaces, eye blinking, throat clearing, or grunting. Tics often get worse if a child is excited or anxious. Early symptoms are often first noticed between 3 and 9 years of age.

Traumatic brain injury: Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) is an injury to the brain from an impact to the head such as a bad fall or a car accident. A TBI makes it hard for a child to learn and may affect day to day functioning. TBI applies to open or closed head injuries that lead to difficulties in one or more areas, such as understanding; memory; attention; reasoning; abstract thinking; judgment; problem-solving; language; sensory, perceptual, and motor abilities; social behavior; physical functions; information processing; and speech. The term does not apply to brain injuries that are there or that occur at birth, or that grow worse over time.

Discapacidad de aprendizaje (LD por sus siglas en inglés): Una problema con uno o más de los procesos básicos usados para la comprensión o el uso del lenguaje (hablado o escrito), para escuchar, pensar, leer, escribir, deletrear o resolver problemas matemáticos. En algunos casos, un muchacho con una discapacidad de aprendizaje puede desempeñarse a su nivel escolar con ayuda especial.

Discapacidad para el aprendizaje de lectura: Una discapacidad para lectura es una discapacidad de aprendizaje que afecta la habilidad del muchacho para leer y a menudo también afecta la escritura.

Discapacidad para el aprendizaje de matemáticas: Una discapacidad para las matemáticas es una discapacidad de aprendizaje que afecta la habilidad del muchacho para comprender y resolver problemas matemáticos.

Trastorno por Déficit de Atención (TDA [o ADD por sus siglas en inglés]) o Trastorno de Déficit de Atención con Hiperactividad (TDAH [o ADHD por sus siglas en inglés]): El TDA/ADD y el TDAH/ADHD son deficiencias de salud que le dificultan al muchacho concentrarse y prestar atención. Un muchacho con TDAH/ADHD también es a menudo hiperactivo (siempre inquieto) y puede tener problemas para tener paciencia. Un muchacho así puede actuar sin pensar y tener problemas para estar sentado quieto (más de lo esperado para su edad).

Trastorno del Espectro Autista (TEA [o ASD por sus siglas en inglés]): El TEA/ASD o autismo afecta la habilidad del muchacho para comunicarse (verbal y no verbalmente) e interactuar socialmente. Un muchacho con autismo tiene dificultad para comprender las emociones y la perspectiva de los demás. Las características pueden incluir: falta de respuesta a otras personas, expresiones faciales que no parecen adecuadas para la situación, otras maneras de responder socialmente inapropiadas, así como actividades y movimientos repetitivos (tales como aletear las manos o mecerse). Un muchacho con autismo puede mostrar resistencia a los cambios. También puede mostrar hipersensibilidad a experiencias sensoriales como la producida por la textura de la ropa. Un muchacho con autismo puede estar muy adelantado o tener mucho talento en alguna o más áreas. El Trastorno del Espectro Autista (TEA/ASD) incluye a los muchachos con el síndrome de Asperger y el Trastorno Generalizado del Desarrollo (TGD [o PDD por sus siglas en inglés]).

Trastorno del habla o lenguaje: Un trastorno del habla o lenguaje se refiere a un trastorno de la comunicación. Un muchacho con un trastorno del habla puede tener trastornos de la voz, tartamudear o tener problemas para distinguir sonidos. La variedad de los trastornos del habla va desde la dificultad al usar un sonido en particular (por ejemplo, el sonido “rr” en “carro”) hasta la dificultad para hablar con voz fuerte. Un muchacho con un impedimento del lenguaje puede tener dificultad para entender y formar oraciones, para usar las palabras correctamente y para encontrar palabras que él o ella quiere decir. También puede tener dificultad para repetir información que acaba de oír.

Discapacidad intelectual (o discapacidad cognitiva severa): El desarrollo mental de un muchacho está notoriamente retrasado con respecto a lo esperado para un muchacho de su edad. Un muchacho con una discapacidad intelectual también tiene dificultad para desempeñar por sí mismo algunas actividades o funciones diarias. El aprendizaje escolar del muchacho es muy lento y bastante retrasado con relación a otros muchachos de la misma edad. Anteriormente esto se llamaba "retraso mental."

Impedimento de salud: Un impedimento de salud incluye cuestiones de salud que le ocasionan problemas con la fuerza física, la vitalidad y la agilidad mental. Un muchacho con un problema de salud puede funcionar intelectual o cognitivamente tan bien como sus compañeros, pero generalmente tiene dificultad para “mantenerse a la par de los demás”. Los impedimentos de salud incluyen problemas tales como la epilepsia u otros trastornos convulsivos, asma, diabetes, anemia falciforme o hemofilia.

Discapacidad física: Una discapacidad física afecta la habilidad del muchacho para moverse o mantener el equilibrio. Problemas de discapacidad física pueden incluir parálisis cerebral, amputaciones, tuberculosis de los huesos, polio, y contracturas (dificultad para extender las articulaciones como las rodillas, codos, y dedos).

Discapacidad sensorial: Las discapacidades sensoriales consisten en ser hipersensible (demasiado sensible) al contacto físico, al sonido, al movimiento o a la temperatura; o muy poco sensible a dichas cosas. Las discapacidades sensoriales también pueden consistir en una falta de control sobre a qué información sensorial le deben prestar atención. Un muchacho puede tener un mayor estado de alerta a cambios muy pequeños en su entorno que le hacen difícil mantener la atención sobre lo que debería estar aprendiendo.

Trastorno emocional: Los trastornos emocionales (ED por sus siglas en inglés) consisten en dificultades con las emociones durante un largo periodo de tiempo que perjudica el rendimiento escolar de un muchacho. ED puede incluir (a) una dificultad de aprendizaje que no puede ser explicada por otros factores; (b) dificultad en las relaciones interpersonales (es decir, en llevarse bien) con sus compañeros y maestros; (c) comportamiento o sentimientos que no tienen que ver con lo que está sucediendo; (d) un estado de ánimo general de infelicidad o depresión; y/o (e) una tendencia a desarrollar síntomas físicos o temores asociados con problemas personales o escolares. Los trastornos emocionales incluyen esquizofrenia. No se aplica a un muchacho que es socialmente inadaptado (problemas de comportamiento extremos), a menos que él o ella también tenga un trastorno emocional.

Trastorno de conducta o Trastorno de Oposición Desafiante: Un trastorno de conducta (CD por sus siglas en inglés) consiste en un patrón de comportamiento que es con frecuencia desafiante, enojado, hostil e irrespetuoso, e interrumpe el funcionamiento normal del muchacho. Antes de los diez años de edad, un muchacho que exhibe estos comportamientos negativos es generalmente diagnosticado con trastorno de oposición desafiante (ODD por sus siglas en inglés). Si los síntomas de comportamiento después de los diez años no son graves, un muchacho también puede ser diagnosticado con trastorno de oposición desafiante (ODD por sus siglas en inglés).

Trastorno de Estrés Postraumático (TEPT [o PTSD por sus siglas en inglés]): Trastorno de estrés postraumático, también conocido como TEPT (o PTSD por sus siglas en inglés), es un trastorno que algunas personas desarrollan después de pasar por un evento que les causa un shock, los aterra o que es peligroso. El TEPT/PTSD puede causar extremada ansiedad, pesadillas, traer a la mente imágenes del evento y puede interferir con la capacidad de funcionamiento del muchacho.

Trastorno de ansiedad o fobia: Un muchacho que tiene un trastorno o fobia de ansiedad se preocupa mucho más que otros muchachos y puede preocuparse todo el tiempo. Él puede preocuparse por nada en particular o por sí mismo, por la seguridad de otros, por su propia salud y/o por el mundo. Él tiene a menudo signos físicos de ansiedad, tales como dolor de cabeza, dolor abdominal, calambres, diarrea, vómitos y mareos. Los trastornos de ansiedad incluyen trastorno de ansiedad generalizada, trastorno de ansiedad social (también llamado fobia social) y otras fobias específicas que interfieren con la capacidad del muchacho para funcionar.

Trastorno obsesivo-compulsivo (TOC [o OCD por sus siglas en inglés]): Un muchacho debe tener obsesiones o compulsiones o ambas cosas para tener este trastorno, y estas obsesiones y/o compulsiones debe impedir el funcionamiento normal del muchacho. Las obsesiones son pensamientos que se producen una y otra vez y causan angustia. Un muchacho dedica tanto tiempo a los pensamientos que eso le causa dificultad para cuidar de sí mismo o relacionarse con los demás. Las compulsiones son actos que un muchacho se ve obligado a repetir una y otra vez, tal como una necesidad de limpiar u organizar en exceso, para mantener todo igual.

Trastorno de la alimentación: Los trastornos de la alimentación consisten en comer muy poco y una obsesión por mantenerse delgado (anorexia) o comer sin parar (atraerse de comida). Un muchacho puede obligarse a vomitar después de los atracones y/o tomar laxantes (bulimia), o un muchacho puede vomitar sin intentarlo después de comer en exceso.

Depresión: La depresión es un estado de ánimo, de tristeza o infelicidad penetrante. Incluye el sentirse inútil, desesperanzado y despreciable. La depresión dura muchos días o hasta semanas, impidiendo que el muchacho funcione de manera normal.

Trastorno bipolar: El trastorno bipolar (también conocido como trastorno maniaco depresivo o depresión maniaca) causa cambios inusuales de humor, energía y niveles de actividad en un muchacho. Este trastorno puede hacer difícil que se hagan las actividades diarias y puede llevar a que se tomen malas decisiones. Esos cambios emocionales intensos generalmente no están relacionados a eventos de la vida.

Síndrome de Tourette: El síndrome de Tourette es un trastorno del sistema nervioso que consiste en movimientos o vocalizaciones repetitivos e involuntarios (que el muchacho no controla). A estos movimientos y vocalizaciones involuntarias se les llama tics. Algunos ejemplos incluyen muecas faciales, parpadeo de ojos, carraspeos o gruñidos. Estos tics a menudo empeoran si el muchacho está emocionado o ansioso. Los síntomas tempranos generalmente se notan entre 3 y 9 años de edad.

Lesión cerebral traumática: Lesión cerebral traumática (LCT [o TBI por sus siglas en inglés]) es una lesión en el cerebro debido a un impacto o golpe en la cabeza, debido a una caída seria o un accidente automovilístico. El LCT se aplica a una lesión abierta o cerrada en la cabeza que conlleva a dificultades en una o más áreas, como la comprensión; memoria; atención; razonamiento; pensamiento abstracto; juicio; solución de problemas; lenguaje; habilidades sensoriales, de percepción y motoras; comportamiento social; funciones físicas; procesamiento de información; y el habla. El término no se aplica a lesiones cerebrales que ya están ahí o que ocurren al nacer, o que empeoran con el tiempo.

HA0INFCNSENT1

Question Wording:

Recently, we sent you materials about the U.S. Department of Education's High School and Beyond 2020 (HS&B:20) study.

HS&B:20 is a longitudinal study that follows a group of 9th-grade students through high school and into postsecondary education and the labor force. In addition to exploring the transition from high school, this study will focus on the relationship between students' high school experiences and their education and career choices.

Your participation in HS&B:20 is critical to its success. [If sampled school is participating in student component in school: Because [School's name] is participating in this study, we'd like to survey you, too./else: no fill]

[If respondent is a school administrator: The survey contains questions about your school's characteristics, students, teachers, courses, and policies, in addition to questions about your background./else: The survey contains questions about this school's characteristics, students, teachers, courses, and policies.] The data you provide will help us to understand how the school environment influences the decisions students make about their education and their future.

The risk of participation in this study is minimal, given the strict confidentiality and security procedures in place as required by law.

You may decline to answer any questions or stop the survey at any time. On average, the survey takes about 40 minutes to complete. You may begin the survey now and finish at another time, if necessary.

The National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) is authorized to conduct HS&B:20 by the Education Sciences Reform Act of 2002 (ESRA 2002, 20 U.S.C. §9543). The data are being collected for NCES by RTI International, a U.S.-based nonprofit research organization. Help Text:

English language learners (ELLs): Students whose native language is one other than English and whose skills in listening, speaking, reading, or writing English are such that they have difficulty understanding school instruction in English.

Two-way immersion program (TWI) or two-way bilingual program: The goal of these programs is to develop strong skills and proficiency in both students' home language and English. These programs may also be called dual language programs. These programs include students whose native language is not English (but who all speak the same non-English language) and students whose native language is English. Instruction is provided in both languages, typically starting with a smaller proportion of instruction in English, and gradually moving to half of the instruction in each language.

Developmental bilingual program, late exit transitional program, or maintenance bilingual education program: The goal of these programs is to develop some skills and proficiency in students' home language and strong skills and proficiency in English. Content is taught in both languages by teachers fluent in both languages. These programs may also be called dual language programs. Instruction at lower grades is in the students' home language with a gradual transition to English. Students typically transition into mainstream classrooms with their English-speaking peers. The programs can vary in the focus placed on acquiring literacy in students' home language, but students generally do continue to receive some degree of support in their home language after the transition to English classrooms.

Transitional program, early exit bilingual program, or early exit transitional program: The goal of these programs is to develop English proficiency skills as soon as possible, without delaying learning of academic core content. Instruction begins in students' home language but rapidly moves to English. Students typically are transitioned into mainstream classrooms with their English-speaking peers as soon as possible.

Heritage language program or indigenous language program: The goal of these programs is to develop literacy in two languages. Content is taught in both languages by teachers fluent in both languages. These programs typically target non-English speakers with weak literacy skills in their home language.

Sheltered English instruction or content-based English as a Second Language (ESL) program: The goal of these programs is to develop proficiency in English while learning content in an all-English setting. Students from various linguistic and cultural backgrounds can be in the same class. Instruction is adapted to students' proficiency in English and is supported by visual aids and support in the students' home languages as available. Fully developed prototypes of this program include Sheltered Instruction Observational Protocol (SIOP) and Specially Designed Academic Instruction in English (SDAIE).

Structured English Immersion (SEI): The goal of SEI is to develop fluency in English. This program usually serves only English language learners. All instruction is in English, though the instruction is adjusted to the English proficiency level of students so subject matter is comprehensible. Teachers may have some receptive skills in the students' home language(s) and generally use sheltered instructional techniques.

Pull-out English as a Second Language (ESL) or English Language Development (ELD): The goal of these programs is to develop fluency in English. ELL students leave their mainstream classroom for part of the day to receive ESL instruction, which generally focuses on grammar, vocabulary, and communication skills, not academic content. There typically is no support provided for students' home languages.

Push-in English as a Second Language (ESL) program: The goal of push-in ESL is to develop fluency in English. Students receive ESL instruction in a mainstream classroom, with instruction in English with some native language support if needed. The ESL teacher or an instructional aide provides clarification, translation if needed, and uses ESL strategies.

HM0INFCNSENT1 *

Question Wording:

Recently, we sent you materials about the U.S. Department of Education's High School and Beyond 2020 (HS&B:20) study.

HS&B:20 is a longitudinal study that will follow a group of 9th-grade students through high school and into postsecondary education and the labor force. In addition to exploring the transition from high school, this study will focus on the relationship between students' high school experiences and their education and career choices.

Because your school indicated you are a math teacher of at least one student who has been selected to participate in the study, we'd like to survey you too. The data you provide will help us to understand how the home, school, and community environments influence the decisions students make about their education and their future.

To review the letter that we mailed, click here.

To review the study brochure, click here.

Your participation in HS&B:20 is critical to its success. [If school allows an incentive and it's not a custom incentive: You will receive $20 for completing the parts about you and your classroom, plus an additional $7 for each individual student about whom you answer questions./else: no fill]

Please click the "Next" button to continue.

HM0INFCNSENT2 *

Question Wording:

You are one of approximately 225 teachers who will be taking part in this study. Your responses may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). The risk of participation in this study is minimal, given the strict confidentiality and security procedures in place as required by law.

You may choose not to answer any question or stop the survey at any time. There are three categories of questions we will ask you about. The questions about students are estimated to take [If respondent is taking the abbreviated survey: 3/else: 4] minutes per student. There are [Number of students] HS&B:20 students that we will ask you to confirm you teach math to. The questions about classes you teach are estimated to take [If respondent is taking the abbreviated survey: 3/else: 5] minutes per class. The questions about yourself and your school are estimated to take [If respondent is taking the abbreviated survey: 7/else: 11] minutes. You may begin the survey now and finish at another time, if necessary.

If you have questions about the study, you may contact the study's Help Desk toll-free number at XXX-XXX-XXXX, or you can email hsb@rti.org. If you have questions about your rights as a study participant, you may contact RTI's Office of Research Protection at 919-316-3358 in Durham, NC (or toll-free at 866-214-2043) or email OREP@rti.org.

Academic rigor: A course's level of difficulty.

Basic or remedial: A course focusing primarily on skills development, including literacy in language, mathematics, and the physical and social sciences. These courses are typically less rigorous than standard courses and may be intended to prepare a student for a general course.

General or regular: A course providing instruction in a given subject area that focuses primarily on general concepts appropriate for the grade level. General courses typically meet the state's or district's expectations of scope and difficulty for mastery of the content.

HC0INFCNSENT1

Question Wording:

Recently, we sent you materials about the U.S. Department of Education's High School and Beyond 2020 (HS&B:20) study.

HS&B:20 is a longitudinal study that follows a group of 9th-grade students through high school and into postsecondary education and the labor force. In addition to exploring the transition from high school, this study will focus on the relationship between high school experiences and their education and career choices.

Your participation in HS&B:20 is critical to its success. [If school is participating in student component in school: Because this school is participating in this study, we'd like to survey you, too./else: no fill]

The survey contains questions about this school's programs and policies, in addition to questions about this school's counseling staff. The data you provide will help us understand how the school environment influences the decisions students make about their education and their future.
