

Welcome to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Marine Recreational Fishing Expenditure Survey

NOAA Fisheries, the federal agency responsible for the conservation of our ocean resources, is conducting a survey about the economic importance of marine recreational fishing in the United States. The survey asks about your fishing related expenses during the past 12 months. This information helps us to understand the contribution of recreational anglers to the economies of coastal states and the nation, and allows policy makers to make more informed decisions for the good of the resource and the sport.
