The Mortgagee in this transaction, its agents and assigns foreclosures

As a mortgage loan borrower, you will be legally obligated to make the mortgage payments called for by your mortgage loan contract. The fact that you dispose of your property after the loan has been made will not relieve you of liability for making these payments. Payment of the loan in full is ordinarily the way liability on a mortgage note is ended. Some home buyers have the mistaken impression that if they sell their homes when they move to another locality, or dispose of it for any other reasons, they are no longer liable for the mortgage payments and that liability for these payments is solely that of the new owners. Even through the new owners may agree in writing to assume liability for your mortgage payments, this assumption agreement will not relieve you from liability to the holder of the note which you signed when you obtained the loan to buy the property. Unless you are able to sell the property to a buyer who is acceptable to HUD/FHA who will assume the payment of your obligation to the lender, you will not be relieved from liability to repay any claim which HUD/FHA may be required to pay your lender on account of default in your loan payments. The amount of any such claim payment may be a debt owed by you to the Federal Government and subject to established collection procedures.

Fair Housing Act

I and anyone acting on my behalf are, and will remain, in compliance with the Fair Housing Act, 42 U.S.C. § 3604, et seq., with respect to the dwelling or property covered by the loan and in the provision of services or facilities in connection therewith. I recognize that any restrictive covenant on this property related to race, color, religion, sex, disability, familial status, or national origin is unlawful under the Fair Housing Act and unenforceable. I further recognize that in addition to administrative action by HUD, a civil action may be brought by the DOJ in any appropriate U.S. court against any person responsible for a violation of the applicable law.
