MEMORANDUM

TO: Shelly Martinez
Desk Officer

THROUGH: Lynn Murray

Jeri Mulrow
Acting Director

Chief, Criminal Justice Data Improvement Program

FROM: Allina Lee
Statistical Policy Advisor

SUBJECT: Non-substantive Change to OMB# 1121-0314 Firearm Inquiry Statistics (FIST) Program – adding four new questions to survey instrument

DATE: April 12, 2016

The purpose of this memorandum is to advise OMB of and request approval for proposed changes to the approved Firearm Inquiry Statistics (FIST) Program survey instrument.

Briefly, the FIST program collects data on firearm background check activities from a sample of local agencies authorized to conduct background checks and combines these data with data obtained from state reporting agencies, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF) to produce a national estimate of firearm applications, denials, and reasons for denials. Since 1995, BJS has conducted the FIST survey. The Regional Justice Information Service (REJIS) was competitively awarded a cooperative agreement in FY 2014 to, under BJS's direction, continue its efforts to administer the FIST data collection.

Proposed survey revisions

As part of our overall effort to improve the FIST methodology and respond to increased interest by policymakers, government officials, and the public about why applications for firearm transfers are denied, we continue to strategize ways to collect more reliable and complete information about reasons for denials. As discussed in the methodology section of the FIST publication, Background Checks for Firearm Transfers, 2012 – Statistical Tables,¹ collecting data on reasons for denial is complicated by several factors, in particular differences in the methods checking agencies follow to track and record reasons for denial and variations in how Federal and state law prohibitions are classified. A key challenge to collecting these data is also high item nonresponse – some agencies do not report data to FIST, though the reasons for not doing so are not always clear.

We are proposing to add four new questions to the FIST survey instrument to obtain better information on if and how agencies collect data on reasons for denial. Our goal is to better understand the processes followed to track and report this information and identify what resources could help to improve these processes. The questions are designed to obtain more detailed information on how agencies track denials, why agencies are unable to track denials (if applicable), and what resources would enable them to begin tracking summary statistics of denials (if applicable). One of the proposed questions asks respondents to estimate what proportion of the agency's denials are made up of various major categories, including felony arrests, charges, and convictions, domestic violence convictions and protective (restraining) orders, and state law prohibitions. Attachment I highlights the new instructions and questions for ease of review.

In addition to the new questions, we also propose to retain the survey screener questions only for those states (Minnesota, Nebraska, and Washington) where the checking/permitting function can vary amongst local agencies within the state, e.g. in some counties a sheriff's office may be doing checks, while in others the local police department does the checks, or in some cases both do the checks. By contrast, in a place like Iowa, for example, the checking/permitting authority is always the local sheriff and there is no deviation from this authority (i.e., no local police departments do the checks). BJS's experience has shown that, in places where there is certainty about who is a checking/permitting agency, the screener questions may inadvertently confuse the respondent and result in agencies inaccurately exempting themselves from the survey. In other words, in most cases, the screener questions do not reduce respondent burden and may cause agencies to mistakenly believe they are ineligible to participation in the survey.

Pretest results

REJIS sent the revised survey and a brief evaluation form to obtain feedback on the new proposed questions to 9 local agencies that did not provide data on reasons for denial for the 2012 FIST collection. The objective of the pretest was to get feedback on the wording and organization of the new questions. Six agencies responded, of which 5 returned the evaluation form and 3 provided data in addition to completing the evaluation form.

Overall, the feedback received was positive. All 5 respondents that returned an evaluation form reported that the questions were either easy or somewhat easy to understand and that the ordering made sense. Four out of 5 respondents reported that the new Q4 included the most common methods used to track reasons for denial, and all 5 respondents reported that the new Q8 included the most common barriers to tracking reasons for denial. All 5 respondents also reported they would be able to provide the requested estimates of reasons for denial (new Q6). Attachment III provides a summary of the pretest results.

Burden

The approved respondent burden for the current FIST survey is 25 minutes. This approved estimated burden included 10 questions about activities related to appeals, arrests, and reversals. Due to historically high item nonresponse, these questions were removed from the 2013-2014 FIST survey instrument.

The additional questions we are proposing to add will not require respondents to query or tabulate new or additional information. Rather, they are designed to obtain information on processes and resources. The new proposed Q10 asks respondents to provide an estimate of denials by categories that they should already maintain, which should not result in any increased burden. Respondents also have the option to skip this question if they are not able to provide the information. Additional clarification and instructions have also been added to the form which has increased the amount of time required to review and complete the survey. BJS feels that the additional instructions and guidance are critical elements to include and will actually serve to reduce burden by providing better clarification and thus alleviating confusion. Even if there would be an additional response burden associated with the new questions, BJS estimates it would not exceed the time respondents spent answering the 10 questions on the prior form related to appeals, arrests, and reversals, so the 25 minute estimate is still practical.

Three respondents provided data during pretesting, and 2 completed a survey and an evaluation sheet. The average respondent burden was 25 minutes (20 and 30 minutes) for the agencies that returned both an evaluation form and submitted a survey. The remaining agencies reported the estimated time spent completing the evaluation form.²

Based on these responses, the deletion of questions related to arrests and appeals, and the fact that the additional questions will not require respondents to query or tabulate new or additional information, we anticipate the estimated burden will remain 25 minutes annually.

Web-form

As detailed in the approved OMB clearance package, the FIST web-form was designed and tested with input from survey methodologists, subject matter experts, and background checking agency stakeholders. The web-form is intended to encourage participation by providing a secure, convenient mode of responding to the FIST survey and is intended to streamline the survey process by eliminating questions that the respondent may not need to see, thus also reducing response burden. It is also designed to reduce item nonresponse by requiring that a response to critical items is submitted before continuing to the next question.

Each FIST participant will continue to be provided a unique User ID and password that will allow secure access to the web form. In order to reduce any differences in response as a result of the mode by which a respondent chooses to participate in the survey (mode effects), particularly mode effects due to the different web and mail response modes, the web-form was designed to mimic the visual presentation of the paper survey as much as possible. The wording of the questions is consistent between the two modes.

The modifications to the web-form will be finalized upon receiving OMB's approval of the proposed changes. Screenshots of the current web-form are provided to show the layout and sequence, which will be updated with the new questions upon approval.

Implementation plan

Pending OMB approval of the proposed survey changes, REJIS will complete the modifications to the web-form and paper survey and redraw the FIST sample. The 2015 FIST data collection is scheduled to begin in May 2016.

Summary

BJS seeks OMB approval of the above noted changes to the FIST survey. We will work to expeditiously respond to any OMB inquiries and/or requests for additional information.

Thank you in advance for your time and consideration.

Name / Address

Dear ___:

Within the next few weeks you will receive via mail a request to complete a brief survey for the Firearm Inquiry Statistics (FIST) Program. The Regional Justice Information Service (REJIS) is the data collection agent for the FIST Program and is authorized to collect data on behalf of BJS.

BJS began the FIST Program in 1995 to provide national estimates of the total number of firearm purchase applications received and denied pursuant to the Brady Act and similar state laws. The FIST program collects counts of firearm transfers and permit checks conducted by state and local agencies and combines this information with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) National Instant Criminal Background Check System (NICS) transaction data to produce national estimates of background check activity. Additional information on reasons for denials and law enforcement actions the FBI and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF) take against denied persons is also collected.

Our records indicate that your agency currently collects information on <<type/s of background checks>> for your jurisdiction in the state of <<name>>. You are receiving this letter to request in advance your cooperation in this important data collection initiative. A survey will be enclosed with the request to participate in the 2016 FIST data collection that you will receive next week as well as instructions on how to complete a web-based version of the survey. We anticipate that the completion of the survey will take you approximately 25 minutes and REJIS will be available to answer any questions you may have about the survey or FIST Program.

Your participation in this data collection is critical to help ensure the reliability of the national estimates produced for firearm background check activities. BJS and REJIS thank you in advance for your support of the FIST Program and participation in the 2016 data collection. Should you have any immediate questions please contact Connor Brooks, FIST Program Manager, at 202-514-8633, or Connor.Brooks@usdoj.gov.

Sincerely,

Gerard F. Ramker

Since 1995, the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS) has conducted the Firearm Inquiry Statistics (FIST) survey. With assistance from the Regional Justice Information Service (REJIS) of Saint Louis, Missouri, BJS has collaborated with federal, state, and local agencies to collect data on firearm transfers and permits that are regulated by the Brady Act and similar state laws. We are requesting your participation in this important data collection to obtain data on background check activities conducted by your agency during calendar year 2016.

Participation by your agency in this voluntary effort will provide a wealth of data for policymakers, researchers, administrators, and others who study background check trends and activities nationwide and help efforts to assess the impact of the Brady Act over time. BJS will use the data provided by your agency and others to produce a 2016 national estimate of firearm applications and denials, along with reasons for denials. The data will be published in the “Background Checks for Firearm Transfers” series on the BJS website (bjs.gov).

We encourage you to complete the 2016 FIST survey via the secure FIST web-form at REJIS.org/FIST. Your unique User ID and Password are «WebID» and «WebPsswd». For your convenience, we also enclosed a paper survey form and prepaid return envelope. You can also submit the completed survey via fax to 314-535-1729, or by email to fist@rejis.org. We would greatly appreciate the return of your completed survey by <date>.

BJS is authorized to conduct this data collection under 42 U.S.C. § 3732(c). BJS, its employees, and its data collection agents will use the information you provide only for statistical and research purposes pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 3735, and will protect it to the fullest extent under federal law. For more information on how BJS and its data collection agents will use and protect your information, see https://www.bjs.gov/content/pub/pdf/BJS_Data_Protection_Guidelines.pdf.

Thank you for your support of the FIST program and contributions to the FIST data collection. BJS and REJIS greatly appreciate your efforts. You may direct general comments, feedback, or questions about the FIST program to the FIST Project Manager at 1-800-531-2150, or send an e-mail to fist@rejis.org.

Sincerely,

Gerard F. Ramker

Dear <name>:

On <date> we sent a survey packet to your office, on behalf of the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS), that asked for data from your agency on specific types of firearm transfers and permits (depending on the agency) including counts for applications, denials, and reasons for denials. According to our records, your agency has not provided a response as of this date.

We are writing again because of the importance of your agency's totals in helping us obtain accurate data for "Background Checks for Firearm Transfers," a series published on the BJS website. In order to accurately paint a portrait of firearms background check activity (via counts of firearm transfer and permit applications and denials), pursuant to the Brady Act and similar state laws, we need your input.

If you have already submitted your agency's data for 2016 and we simply have not yet received it, we sincerely thank you for your participation. If you still need to submit your data, a survey is enclosed with this letter to collect information on the issuance and processing of firearm permits and transfers conducted by your agency in 2016. The materials can be returned by fax to 314-535-1729, by email (fist@rejis.org), or by mail to the address listed on this letter. We encourage you to avail yourself of the secure Web reporting option as well. To complete the survey online, please go to rejis.org/FIST and enter your User ID: (XXX) and Password: (FXXX). In order for us to complete our analyses of the 2016 data, we would greatly appreciate a response by <date>.

Thank you for your assistance and continued participation in this important effort. If you have any questions, comments, or concerns about this request, or if there is any way we may be of assistance to you, please contact us by phone at 1-800-531-2150 or by email at fist@rejis.org.

Hello, my name is (insert name) and I am calling from the Regional Justice Information Service on behalf of the Bureau of Justice Statistics, United States Department of Justice. May I please speak with (CONTACT)? [If contact no longer there, ask for person in charge of (insert state terminology)].

(Caller can leave contact information if leaving a message).

(Again) Hello, my name is (insert name) and I am calling from the Regional Justice Information Service. We are working with the Bureau of Justice Statistics to conduct the Firearm Inquiry Statistics Program survey – also known as FIST.

Are you familiar with the FIST program? If yes, continue to next question. If no, provide a brief explanation of purpose and data collected: Since 1995, BJS has been providing national estimates of the total number of firearm purchase applications received and denied pursuant to the Brady Act and similar state laws. The FIST program collects counts of firearm transfers and permit checks conducted by state and local agencies and combined this information with FBI transaction data to produce national estimates of background check activity. Additional information on reasons for denials is also collected.

We have previously mailed two surveys to your agency but have not received a response, so I am calling to see if you received the survey. [If no, offer to send another copy] [If yes, would you be able to fill out the survey or complete the online version. Provide directions for the web- form.]

[If respondent needs details of survey]:

We are asking for summary data on background checks for (use state terminology), which you could report on the survey for (use FIST terminology).

- Point – of – transfer background checks for firearm transfers
- Background checks on permits to purchase a firearm (Purchase Permit)
- Background checks on permits to carry a concealed weapon or purchase a firearm (Carry Permit)
- Background checks on permits both to just purchase a firearm, or to carry a concealed weapon and/or purchase a firearm (P&C Permits)
- Background checks on permits for a handgun license to purchase a firearm (NY – Purchase Permit)
- Background checks on permits to purchase a firearm (WA - Purchase Check)

We anticipate that the survey will take about 25 minutes to complete and we are more than happy to walk you through it and discuss any questions you may have. This data collection is very important because it highlights the application and denial rates for firearm background checks being conducted throughout the country. Your agency's responses are critical to ensure that BJS is able to produce the most reliable national estimates of firearm background check activity.

(After phone data collection or a promise to return data at a later time)

We and the Bureau of Justice Statistics sincerely appreciate your time and efforts on this important initiative.

NICS Checks and Permits

FIST accounts for NICS checks and permits on Federal, state, and local levels. Under the NICS system, firearm buyers in all 50 states undergo either an instant firearm transfer check or a check for a permit to purchase a firearm. FIST obtains complete counts for states in categories 1-3. The population in these states accounts for about 93% of the U.S. population. Only the states in category 4 need to be surveyed by FIST for counts of NICS checks or permits, as they are conducted only by local agencies. These states account for 7% of the U.S. population. Thus, for the total of checks and permits in the basic NICS system, only a small portion is estimated.

Basic NICS System Checks and Permits- Ovals

1. NICS FBI (31)

FBI conducts checks on all types of firearm purchases. Counts obtained directly from FBI. States in this category include: AL, AK*, AZ*, AR*, DE, DC*, GA*, ID*, IN, KS*, KY*, LA*, ME, MA*, MI*, MN*, MS*, MO, MT*, NM, NY*, ND*, OH*, OK, RI*, SC*, SD, TX*, VT, WV*, WY*.*

2. Full NICS POC States (13)

State POCs conduct all NICS checks for all types of firearm purchases. Counts obtained by FIST. States in this category include: CA, CO, CT, FL, HI, IL, NV*, NJ*, OR, PA, TN, UT*, VA.*

3. Partial NICS POC State Handgun Checks/FBI Long Gun Checks (3)

States run NICS handgun checks and provide counts to FIST. FBI runs NICS long gun checks and provides counts to FIST. Partial NICS POC States include: MD, NH, WI.*

4. Partial NICS POC States with Local Handgun Checks or Purchase Permits/FBI Long Gun Checks (4)

Local agencies run NICS handgun transfer or purchase permit checks and are surveyed via sample by FIST. FBI runs NICS long gun checks and provides counts to FIST. States in which local agencies are surveyed include: IA, NE*, NC*, WA.*

Note: The numbers in parentheses refer to the number of states utilizing that particular type of check or permit. For basic NICS checks and permits, each state falls into only one category. The total of the numbers in parentheses sums to 50 for the states plus one for the District of Columbia.

*Agency has a check or permit in addition to the FBI NICS check as required by state statute. See p. 2 for other check or permit type.

Legend: 2016 Checks and Permits Covered by FIST

Other Checks and Permits

Used in 30 states and the District of Columbia, these checks or permits occur in addition to basic NICS checks and permits. These permits are either qualified by ATF as alternatives to a NICS point-of-sale check or are required by state statute. FIST obtains complete counts on permits and checks in the case of:

Category 5 – DC, IL, MA, MD, MI, RI, and NJ

Category 6 – all states listed

Category 7 – MI, MN, & OH

FIST surveys the local agencies in categories 5 and 7 for which complete state-wide counts of checks or permits are not available. FIST survey estimates and the complete counts received for basic NICS and other checks and permits are combined to generate the national FIST estimate.

Other Checks and Permits - Squares

5. States with Transfer Checks or Purchase Permits Required by State Law (9)

Transfer checks or purchase permits as required by state statute. Checks are conducted on the state or local level. Except in the case of MN and NY, complete counts of checks and permits are reported to FIST by the state: DC, IL, MA, MD, MI, MN, NJ, NY, RI.

6. Exempt Concealed Carry Permits Issued by State Agencies (13)

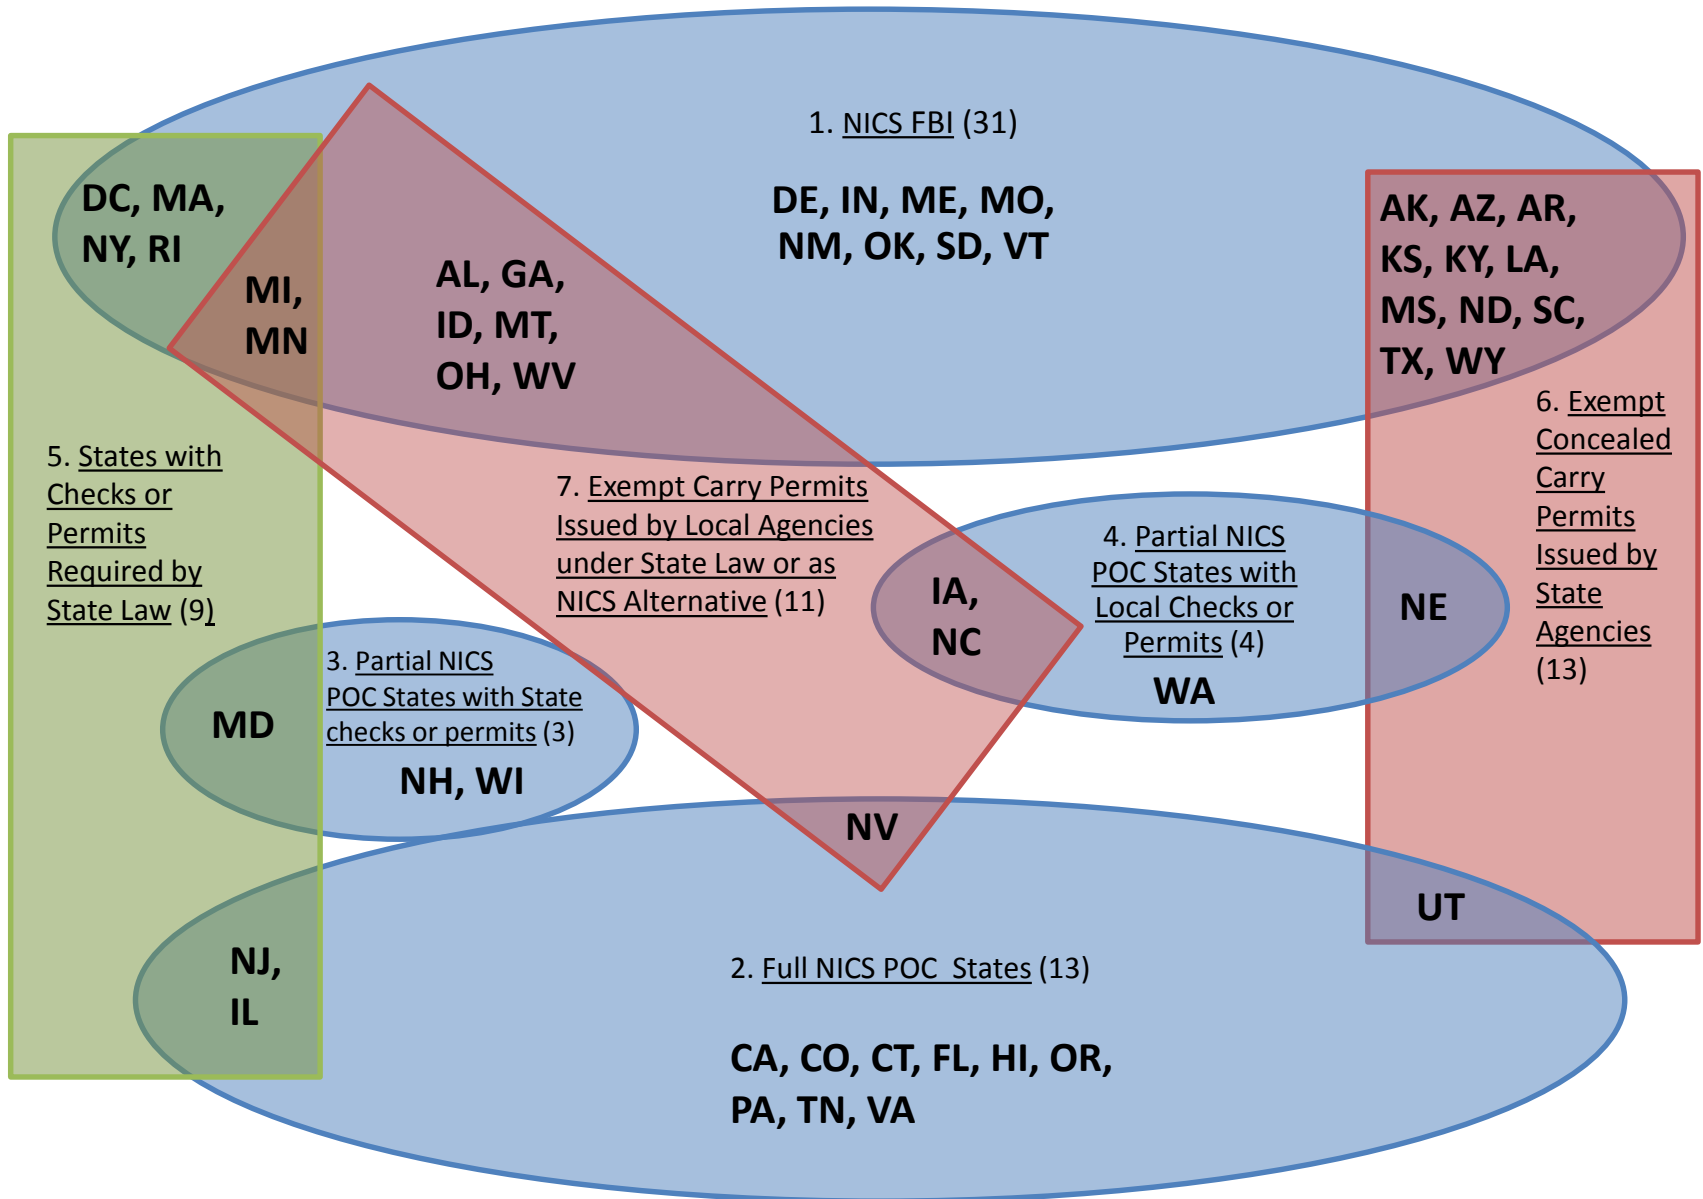

Concealed carry permits issued by a state agency as an alternative to a point-of-sale NICS check. States include: AK, AZ, AR, KS, KY, LA, MS, NE, ND, SC, TX, UT, WY.

7. Exempt Concealed Carry Permits Issued by Local Agencies under State Law or as a NICS Alternative (11)

Concealed carry permits issued by a local agency as an alternative to a NICS point-of-sale check or as directed under state statute. States include: AL, GA, ID, IA, MI, MN, MT, NC, NV, OH, WV.

Note: the number in parentheses refer to the number of states utilizing the type of check or permit it is listed after. A state may utilize more than one type[s] of permit[s].

2016 Checks and Permits Covered by FIST

Attachment VIII. Proposed 2016 FIST sample determination and allocation

Data for the FIST collection will be obtained from state agencies that report state-level data (thirty-four states), a statewide census of nine states in which local agencies conduct checks and report to FIST on a local level only and a sample survey of three states that operate local checking agencies and report only on a local level, but have a larger number of agencies than the other aforementioned six states. This decision equates to a total data collection of 1,044 POCs plus the FBI NICS data.

In the three states that are to be sampled (GA, MN, & WA), a stratified sample based on population size will be created that roughly equates to 1) rural – places of less than 10,000 population; 2) small cities – places of between 10,000 and 99,999 population; 3) small metropolitan areas – places of between 100,000 and 199,999 population; and 4) large metropolitan areas – places of 200,000 or more population. The correlated variable used to estimate variance (number of applications in 2010) had information for all strata in only one of the three states. The other two states each had empty or a singular report of information in different strata. Without the estimate of variance, a stratified sample could not be determined individually for each of the three states. Consequently, it was decided to utilize a random sample, proportional to size, for each state. This increased the sample size sufficiently such that an estimate and resulting confidence interval can be determined for each of these three states.

The following formula was used to determine the sample size and weight allocation for the stratified sample of the three states taken as a group.

$$\text{The formula used is: } n = \frac{\sum N_i^2 \sigma_i^2}{N^2 D + \sum N_i \sigma_i^2} \quad \text{where } D = \frac{B^2}{4}$$

Reference: Elementary Survey Sampling by Scheaffer, Mendenhall & Ott

Definitions:

n = sample size

N_i = population within stratum

σ²_i = stratum variance

w_i = stratum weight

N = population

D = B²/Z² (at a 95% confidence level Z² ≈ 4)

B = error bound

The following formula was used to determine the sample size of a random sample in each state. The bound on error was 100 applications for GA and WA. The bound was fifty applications for MN.

The formula used is: $n = \frac{N\sigma^2}{N^2D + \sigma^2}$ where $D = \frac{B^2}{4}$ —

Reference: Elementary Survey Sampling by Scheaffer, Mendenhall & Ott

Definitions:

n = sample size σ^2 = variance N = population

D = B^2/Z^2 (at a 95% confidence level $Z^2 \approx 4$) B = error bound

The proposed FIST sample size is 1,044 to account for potential nonresponse.

Following is a summary sheet of the actual sample for the three states (GA, MN, & WA) where local agencies will be sampled.
