Introduction and Methods

The U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) has contracted with Westat to conduct the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP) Integrity Study. The study will provide FNS with important information about how State agencies oversee the SFSP to ensure program integrity. The research objectives of the study are to:

1. Examine and describe how State agencies administer and provide SFSP oversight and why they believe it is effective. Probe for evidence demonstrating the effectiveness of the States’ oversight processes.
2. Identify SFSP integrity challenges common across States and types of sites in the administration and oversight of SFSP.
3. Identify existing or State-recommended resources, training, or technical assistance that would better support State agencies in their effective administration and monitoring of the SFSP.

In preparation for study launch, Westat tested the State SFSP web-survey and the guides for the State, sponsor, and site interviews. The versions of the instruments we tested reflected edits made based on FNS comments on the draft instruments. The goals of the testing were to ensure that (1) respondents interpret the questions as intended and can easily respond; and (2) interviewers can easily administer the instruments. There were nine respondents for this data collection. Each respondent interview lasted between 60-90 minutes over telephone and were audio-recorded for later review and analysis.

1.1 Recruitment Methods

Westat, with FNS approval, selected nine respondents for pretesting, as displayed in Table 1.1 below.

Because the State survey will be completed by all State Child Nutrition (CN) Directors, we did not want to test the State survey or interview guide with a State CN Director. Instead, two FNS Regional Office staff and one State-level CN Assistant Director were selected to test the State-level instruments.

Table 1.1. Pretest respondents

Study Instrument(s)	Pretest Respondents
State Survey and Interview Guide	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 2 FNS Regional Office staff - 1 State Child Nutrition Assistant Director
Sponsor Interview Guide	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 1 SFA Sponsor - 1 Government Sponsor - 1 Nonprofit Sponsor
Site Interview Guide	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 1 School Kitchen Manager - 1 Program Manager at a Local Organization - 1 Residential Camp Staffer

For pretests of the sponsor interview guide, the research team contacted sponsors who had provided meaningful input on a previous summer meals study to ask if they would be willing to participate. To ensure the interview guide was appropriate for the various sponsor types we expect to recruit in the main study, we pretested the instrument with one school food authority, one government organization and one private nonprofit organization.

Finally, to recruit site supervisors for pretests of the site interview guide, we first asked the three sponsors participating in a pretest to recommend one of their site supervisors who they felt would be able to provide helpful feedback on the site instrument. Two of the three sponsors recommended supervisors from sites they sponsor, and provided contact information. Because the third sponsor could not refer us to a site supervisor, we used a list of site supervisor contacts from a previous summer meals study to identify and recruit a third respondent for the pretest.

1.2 Data Collection

Trained interviewers conducted the pretest interviews by telephone. The interviews included the following:

- The interviewer administered the study introduction, explaining the study purpose and the respondent's rights as a research subject.
- Respondents were asked for their verbal consent after interviewers explained the voluntary nature of their participation and confidentiality, and requested that the interview be audio recorded.
- The interviewer asked the relevant respondents for feedback on the State survey, with specific probes for survey questions that were flagged by either the respondent or interviewer ahead of time.
- The interviewer administered the relevant interview guides and administered scripted probes in addition to asking for reactions to specific words and questions.
- At the conclusion of each interview section, the respondents were provided an opportunity to offer any additional feedback or reactions.
- After the end of the entire pretest interview, the respondent was thanked for participating.

We tested the qualitative data collection instruments by administering them as written and observing how respondents responded, noting any difficulties they encountered. All pretest interviews were conducted over the phone. Interviewers administered the interview guides, and observed and documented issues that arose for both respondents and interviewers.

The process to pretest the State survey instrument differed from the pretests of the qualitative interview guides. To accommodate respondents' schedules, the pretest telephone interview with the three respondents who pretested the State-level instruments covered both instruments in one phone call. The respondents received the survey instrument in advance and were asked to complete it prior to the scheduled telephone interview. During the telephone interview, the interviewer administered the State interview guide following the process described above. Once that pretest was complete, the interviewer reviewed the respondents' completed surveys and probed into the following: 1) the overall experience and time burden to complete the survey; 2) responses that did not match our expectations; 3) the exhaustiveness of the response options provided; and 4) suggestions to improve the wording of particular questions or response options.

1.3 Data Analysis

Interviewers also served as analysts. They reviewed the interview recordings and their own notes to identify themes and patterns within respondents' feedback, particularly any challenges in administering or responding to the instruments. The interviewers discussed the results of the analysis to reach consensus on the edits that needed to be made. Themes and patterns were organized and summarized into report form.

Summary of Recommendations

The remainder of this report summarizes the issues found in each tested instrument and provides recommendations for addressing the issues.

Pretests revealed that the interview would likely take 90 minutes rather than the 60 minutes originally planned.	Consent language has been updated to reflect 90 minutes.
A respondent suggested having an introductory sentence at the beginning of each section to improve the flow of the interview.	We added an introductory statement at the beginning of each section describing what will be discussed.

Item: When an organization applies to be considered as an SFSP sponsor, how do you determine whether the organization is an eligible sponsor? A respondent suggested we ask separate questions about first-time sponsors vs. existing sponsors, since there are differences in the application process. 2.3 Sponsor Interview Guide

Sponsor Interview Guide: Pretest Findings	Changes Made
Global Issues
Overall, respondents who operated feeding programs during other parts of the year (e.g., CACFP, NSLP) had difficulty distinguishing SFSP trainings and requirements from those of other programs solely from memory. Respondent commented that some of the questions (e.g., 12b, 27, 36a) read like USDA requirements that would be the same for everyone rather than asking respondents specifics about how they accomplish meeting those regulations.	Interviewer needs to be prepared to continuously remind respondent to clarify when they are unsure if a certain program element is SFSP-specific. Interviewers will be trained to rephrase these questions if they are interpreted as asking about what the rules are to elicit responses more related to specifically how sponsors meet the requirements of the program.
Warm Up
Item: Approximately how long has your (organization/agency) been a SFSP sponsor? As with the sites, some sponsors that are SFAs might have been sponsoring SFSP during some summers and SSO during other summers. We added a probe to make it clear we are asking about SFSP.	Revised to: Approximately how many years has your (organization/agency) been sponsoring summer meals? Your best estimate is fine, but it's also fine to say you don't know. a. [SFA sponsors only] How many of those years were SFSP as opposed to the Seamless Summer Option (SSO)?
Item: What types of sites do you sponsor (e.g., open, restricted open, closed enrolled, camps, migrant)? Respondent said that without the probe, she would have responded as affiliated or nonaffiliated. Suggested explicitly defining what we mean by type of sites.	Revised to: Sponsors may operate different types of sites, such as open sites, restricted open sites, closed enrolled, camp sites, and migrant sites. Which of these best describes the sites you sponsor?
Sponsor Application and Training
Item: Thinking about the last annual training you received, what topics did the State cover in that training? Two of the three respondents had a little bit of trouble remembering all of the topics because there were several.	Question changed because we ask about topics in the survey. Instead of asking the respondent to recall topics, question has been changed so it does not rely on respondent's memory but instead gathers information about what topics should be covered: Thinking about the SFSP sponsors who are brand new to the program, what topics do you think are most important to focus on with them during training?
A respondent helping to pretest the State-level interview guide shared that a barrier to SFSP administration is that the information from the State-led annual trainings is not always disseminated from the director who attends the training to the other staff they work with.	Added item to the sponsor interview guide to ask about this: Who else on your team participates in the annual trainings? [If NO other staff attend] When you return to your organization,

	what information from the training do you pass on to the rest of your team?
Site Identification and Training
Item: How do you identify potential sites? Respondent commented that this question was only relevant to sponsors in a growth phase and suggested rewording. Respondent explained that they are not currently identifying new sites.	Revised to: When looking for potential sites, how do you select which ones to reach out to?
Item: In what ways, if any, does the State agency help to find SFSP sites? Respondent believes that it is illegal for States to help sponsors find SFSP sites. This question was re-worded to clarify the intent.	Added question: Has the State ever passed along information about sites that contacted the State to express interest in participating in SFSP? [If yes] Tell me a bit more about what happened.
Item: How do you determine that each site is eligible to participate in SFSP? (Probe: What documents are collected? What observations are recorded?) Which of these data on the sites do you submit to the State? Respondent was thrown off by the way the word “data” was used in this context. Suggested revising the wording to “What information do you send to the State to show that a site is eligible?”	Revised to: Once you have identified a potential site, what steps do you take to determine that the site is eligible to participate in SFSP? Probe: What documents are collected? What observations are recorded? a. What information do you send to the State to show that a site is eligible?
Item: Do organizations ever approach you to be considered as SFSP sites? Respondent interpreted this question as sponsors approaching them rather than sites. Respondent suggested re-wording to make it clear we are asking if potential sites ever approach the sponsor.	Revised to: Do organizations ever approach you to sponsor them as an SFSP site?
Item: Have you received any resources from advocacy groups regarding identifying or recruiting sites? Respondent answered yes/no to this question.	Added a subquestion: [If yes] What types of resources did they provide?
Item: Tell me about the training you provide to your sites. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • When do you usually offer training? • Is it in person, via webinar, or some other mode? • What topics are covered in the training? • Who from the sites participates in the trainings? I don't need names, I am just asking about the positions of those who participate. • Is attendance required for particular staff? • How do you track attendance? How do you document those inspections and any resulting reports? How do you track corrective actions taken after reported violations? What do you send to the State? Respondent suggested making it clear that the subquestions all refer to health and sanitation inspections, and not the sponsor's on-site monitoring "inspections." We further revised this question to focus on health inspections and eliminate the double-barreled wording, and to ask about differences by site type.	Revised subquestions to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Who conducts the health inspections and meal quality tests at your sites? If yes, describe. [Interviewer note: we're particularly interested in how the process might differ for mobile sites]
Items: How do you review your sites' meal counts for accuracy? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> What are you looking for in that review? How often do you review the meal counts? What are the most common reasons that errors are found in the meal counts? What strategies have you found effective in working with sites to reduce the number of errors in their data? Respondent said the answers to these questions would vary depending on the mode in which sites submit meal counts – email, hard copy, online data system, and may only apply to sites that used paper forms.	Added the question: How do sites submit their meal counts? Probe: email files, submit hard copies, submit via online data system Do you review your sites' meal counts before submitting them to the State? Based on this feedback, we also added a screening question to first understand from the respondent the mode of submission – email, hard copy, online data system – to help the interviewer frame the subsequent questions.	effective in working with sites to reduce meal count errors?
Item: How do you add up meal claims data from across sites and calculate average daily attendance? Two of the three respondents explained that this question was confusing because as far as they know this does not happen. They explained their understanding that averages are calculated for each site, not across sites.	Revised to: In addition to reporting meal counts to the State, do you also report average daily attendance across all of your sites? [IF YES]: How do you calculate average daily attendance?
Item: What happens if you or your staff identify something is amiss at one of the sites, either through their data or through site visits? Probes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sites serving meals outside of the approved times • Meals being served at unauthorized locations • Sites not operating under site type for which they were approved (e.g., open, restricted open, closed enrolled, camp, migrant) • Sites allow children to take their meals offsite • Sites serving and claiming reimbursement for incomplete meals • Sites claiming reimbursement for meals served to adults • Unauthorized use of reimbursement funds (e.g., educational activities or organized sports) Respondent and interviewer found these probes confusing the way they are organized. Suggested breaking them out into a separate question where the probes are sub-questions and ask the respondent about each one. Respondent was confused about what we meant by “unauthorized use of reimbursement funds,” whether it pertained to sponsors reimbursing sites or States reimbursing sponsors.	This question has been re-worded and combined with the following item. See below for new item wording.
Item: [For each integrity problem mentioned from the list above, ask]: What strategies have you found effective in working with sites to minimize the incidence (insert specific integrity problem)?	Revised to: Next, I will ask about some specific issues that sponsors have run into with their sites. If you have experienced any of them, I would like to hear if you have found any effective strategies in working with sites to

Probes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • sites serving meals outside of the approved times • meals being served at locations other than the approved location • sites not operating under site type for which they were approved (i.e., open, restricted open, closed enrolled, camp, migrant) • sites allowing children to take their meals offsite • sites serving and claiming reimbursement for incomplete meals • sites claiming reimbursement for meals served to adults • unauthorized use of reimbursement funds (e.g., educational activities or organized sports) (Interviewer note: This may not apply when the sponsor and site are affiliated, since the sponsor may not give the site reimbursement funds, they only give them their meals).
Integrity Challenges
Item: In your opinion, what are the primary challenges to monitoring your sites? Respondent asked if the question was getting at onsite monitoring and suggested specifying “while conducting a visit” if this is that the question is looking for. For flow, we moved this question earlier to follow other monitoring questions. Respondent also suggested that there are different challenges for sponsors who operate across State lines, and we added a question about that.	Revised item, which was moved earlier in the guide: What are the challenges for you as the sponsor organization to conduct the on-site monitoring visits of your sites? [Sponsors that operate across more than one State] What presents the greatest challenge for your [organization/agency] as you operate the SFSP across States? Probe: submitting data to multiple agencies, navigating policy differences across States

2.4 Site Supervisor Interview Guide

Site Supervisor Interview: Pretest Findings	Changes Made
Global Issues Two of the three site pretest respondents were not certain which organization was considered the “sponsor.”	Interviewer will identify the sponsor in advance of each site supervisor interview and enter the sponsor name into the background information summary. If any respondents are uncertain about who their sponsor is, the interviewer can refer to that sponsor by name.
Warm up Item: Approximately how long has [SITE] been serving summer meals? Your best estimate is fine, but it’s also fine to say you don’t know. One participant had been doing SSO for several years, and SFSP for one summer only. They were not certain whether to just report only the SFSP years, or both SFSP and SSO years.	Added a note to the question: [Interviewer note: If the site’s sponsor is a School Food Authority (SFA), then it is possible they operated the Seamless Summer Option (SSO) for part of the time they have been serving summer meals. If the site mentions this, ask them how many years were specifically SFSP]
Start Up and Training Item: Please tell me about the training that you received from [SPONSOR NAME]. All three respondents asked whether we were specifically asking about training for SFSP, or about training for any child nutrition program they operate. For example, the participant from a school food authority operated NSLP during the school year. Interviewer clarified that we were interested in SFSP specific training.	Revised to: Please tell me about the training that you received from [SPONSOR NAME] for the summer meals program.
Item: Have you ever received any written guidance or resources from your sponsor? [If Yes] <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Please describe those resources. Which of these have you found most useful? One respondent was not certain how to answer because written materials had been received from a community partner, but not from sponsor, which caused them to question which entity was their sponsor. See Global Issues. Another respondent struggled to come up with	Background information summary will include the name of the sponsor organization, in case any site supervisors are not certain who their sponsor is. We added placeholders for questions involving sponsors so the interviewer can refer to the sponsor by name, and added a lead-in to this question to better explain our intention. Revised to: Sometimes an organization like yours will receive written guidance or resources to help then run their summer meals program. For example, some sites receive a written guide that explains the

Suggested we clarify “useful for what”? Boosting participation? Meeting compliance? Reducing resource strain?	program rules, or a form to help keep track of meals served. Have you ever received any written guidance or resources from [SPONSOR NAME]? [If Yes] <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. Please describe those resources. b. Which of these have you found most useful? Probe: For boosting participation, meeting program requirements, and reducing any staffing strain that might occur?
Monitoring Site Operations
Item: Please tell me a little about the health inspections process. Two respondents asked the interview to clarify whether the question was specifically related to health inspections for SFSP. One other respondent was part of a mobile site, and was confused by the question. They thought the question should only be asked if the site had an SFSP-specific health inspection, which may not happen for mobile sites.	Revised to: Please tell me a little about the health inspections process for the summer meals program. (Note to interviewer: This may not apply to mobile sites)
Item: [If site uses a vendor] How do you adjust your orders with the vendor to make sure you don't get too many or too few meals? One respondent said, based on their knowledge of the program, this is typically the sponsor's responsibility, not the site's.	Added screening question before: Does your site order the meals for your site, or does does [SPONSOR NAME] place the orders? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. Do you have any issues with the vendor delivering on time? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> i. [If Yes]: How frequently does this happen? b. [if site orders] How do you adjust your orders with the vendor to make sure you don't get too many or too few meals? c. [if sponsor orders] How do you communicate with [SPONSOR NAME] when you need more meals or fewer meals?
