Option 2:

11.2.1. There are several kinds of tests for colorectal cancer including a stool test, a flexible sigmoidoscopy, a colonoscopy, and a virtual colonoscopy. Stool tests include using a special kit at home to determine whether the stool contains blood. A flexible sigmoidoscopy and colonoscopy view the inside of the rectum and colon for signs of cancer or other health problems. The colonoscopy includes getting medication through a needle in your arm to make you sleepy and you were told to have someone else drive you home after the test. The virtual colonoscopy uses x-rays so that a doctor can see images of the colon on a computer screen. Have you ever had a test for colorectal cancer?
