The Department of Justice (DOJ) and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) have specific regulations and policies that an individual must comply with so they can be granted access to ATF information, information technology (IT) systems, and/or unescorted access to ATF facilities. To ensure that you are in compliance with ATF's prohibited persons policy, you must respond to the questions below and sign and date this questionnaire in the certification section. If you respond "no" to any of the questions, provide an explanation, including the circumstances, date and place of occurrence, name and address of the police department, and if applicable, the court system and date of disposition of the case. If you do not wish to respond to these questions, please sign and date in the declination section below.

ATF is a unique law enforcement agency that protects communities from violent crimes, criminal organizations, the illegal use and trafficking of firearms, the illegal use and storage of explosives, acts of terrorism, arson, bombings, and the illegal diversion of alcohol and tobacco products. ATF's responsibilities for Federal firearms and explosives law enforcement make it a unique employer that must limit access to ATF information, IT systems, and/or facilities, by individuals prohibited from possessing or receiving firearms or explosives.

1. Federal law prohibits the possession or receipt of a firearm or ammunition by a person who has been convicted of a misdemeanor crime of domestic violence or who is subject to a qualifying court order restraining him/her from harassing, stalking, or threatening their child or intimate partner or child of such partner. Can you legally possess and receive firearms and ammunition? Yes No (If no, explain.)
2. Federal law prohibits the possession or receipt of firearms, ammunition, and explosives by a person who has been convicted of a crime punishable by a term of imprisonment exceeding one year; is a fugitive from justice; is an unlawful user of/or addicted to a controlled substance; has been adjudicated as a mental defective or committed to a mental institution; is an alien illegally or unlawfully in the United States; is an alien who has been admitted to the United States under a nonimmigrant visa (with certain exceptions); has been discharged from the military under dishonorable conditions; or has renounced his/her U.S. citizenship. Can you legally possess and receive firearms, ammunition, and explosives? Yes No (If no, explain.)
3. Federal law prohibits the receipt of firearms and ammunition and the receipt or possession of explosives by a person who is under indictment for a crime punishable by a term of imprisonment exceeding one year. Can you legally receive firearms and ammunition? Yes No (If no, explain.)
Can you legally receive and possess explosives? Yes No (If no, explain.)
