Information about this research study:

- Purpose and activity: We are conducting this research to understand what the public thinks about community planning activities and plans. In the following sections you will be asked for your opinions on community planning activities and related topics. There are no right or wrong answers and you are welcome to withdraw from the study at any time.
- Duration: We anticipate that your participation in this research study will take about 20 minutes.
- Risks and Benefits: No significant risks are expected to result from participation in this study. Upon completing the survey, you will be compensated in the amount indicated in your survey invitation.
- Privacy and Confidentiality: Responses will be kept confidential and we will not ask for any personally identifying information (e.g. name or address). Data will only be reported in aggregate.
- Use of data: The de-identified, aggregated survey information will be analyzed by NIST researchers and incorporated into one or more technical reports that may be published may be used or shared for future research.
- Questions or complaints: If you have any questions, concerns or complaints about this study, or experience an unanticipated problem please contact Emily Walpole via telephone: 301-975-2617, or via email: Emily.walpole@nist.gov. If you have questions about your rights as a participant in this study, or have complaints, concerns or issues you want to discuss with someone outside the research team, call the Research Protections Office (RPO) at (301) 975-5445.

By selecting "Yes" below, you consent to your responses being used as part of this effort.

This survey will be asking you questions about community planning. Planning structures a process to accomplish various goals through community action plans.

Creation of these plans is led by local government officials with input from experts and community stakeholders. These plans often include policies and actions such as:

- Improvements to infrastructure and buildings (for example, improving bridges, roads, and building safety)
- Improvements to public services (for example, expanding public health services or public transportation services)
- Supporting local economies, and/or
- Enhancing the natural environment
