NOTE: For each center, an AIAN FACES 2019 study liaison will request a list of all teachers providing instruction to Head Start-funded children from a designated Head Start staff member (typically the on-site coordinator, known as the OSC). The attached teacher sampling form is an example of the information required for teacher sampling. The liaison will request this information via a secure file sharing website. The liaison will enter the information into the online sampling program. For each teacher or home visitor, the liaison will obtain the first and last name, their email address, and the mode of children’s instruction applicable to most children enrolled (in-person, virtual, or a hybrid). The study liaison will enter this information into a web-based sampling program that will include fields that match those on the attached form. The sampling program will randomly select about two teachers per selected center for participation in the study.

INSTRUCTIONS: Please provide the information below for each teacher or home visitor providing instruction in this center for one or more Head Start funded children. Indicate the mode(s) of instruction for each teacher. For mode of instruction, please choose as follows:

- In-person refers to instruction taking place face-to-face with children and providers.
- Virtual or remote instruction can be received:
 - 1) in real time via a web-based video platform (such as Zoom),
 - 2) by completing assignments on the child/family's own time on platforms such as Class Dojo or Ready Rosie, or
 - 3) on paper with instructional materials sent home.
- Hybrid refers to a situation in which a child receives a combination of in-person and virtual or remote instruction.
