Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) Survey on Usage and Functionality of Smoke Detectors and Carbon Monoxide Detectors in Households

Thank you for your interest in participating in the research study. This study is conducted by EurekaFacts on behalf of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC). We are conducting a nationwide survey on household fire and carbon monoxide (CO) safety. The purpose of this study is to gather information about the functionality of smoke detectors and CO detectors in U.S. households by asking a series of survey questions and testing your household smoke and CO alarms. Findings from this research will help CPSC improve home safety.

The combined survey and testing of smoke alarms and CO alarms will take up to 60 minutes. Our trained and qualified two-member survey team will ask you questions related to your smoke detectors and CO detectors, and then inspect these devices in your home. You will receive a $50 gift card from a major card company as a token of appreciation for completion of the study.

If the survey team finds any detectors to be non-functioning, new detectors and/or batteries can be offered, free of charge, based on availability. If you are renting your home, the property manager will need to be contacted to arrange installation of the new detector at a later date. With your permission, we would like to collect non-functioning smoke or CO detectors and send them to CPSC's lab to find out why they do not work. In addition, we may request your permission to take a photograph of your smoke and CO detector(s) to study different alarm types and functionalities.

Information collected from this study will help CPSC to improve household fire and CO safety. Your input will assist with developing standards and guidelines that will help protect property and human life. This research does not involve any foreseeable risks.

Your participation in this research study is completely voluntary. You may stop at any time if you do not want to continue with the study by notifying a member of the survey team. Your responses will be maintained confidential and will be used for research purposes only. At no time will any identifiable information be linked to any of your answers. All information collected through our research process is reported to CPSC anonymously.

We ask for your consent to participate in answering questions as part of the survey portion of this study.
