Agroforestry and you make history! You will soon receive the first ever survey of the five agroforestry practices used for conservation and production benefits. Practices include: windbreaks, silvopasture, riparian forest buffers, alley cropping, as well as forest farming & multi-story Cropping.

The results of this survey will allow you to share your knowledge about agroforestry, which will help guide decision-making on farm operations in the future.

Thank you for your participation! By responding, you give voice to thousands of farmers like yourself across the nation. For more information, call (800) 727-9540 or visit www.nass.usda.gov/go/agroforestry.
