

Non-Substantive Change Request for Information Collections

3060-1275

The Federal Communication Commission (“Commission”) is submitting a non-substantive change request to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). A current information collection includes a requirement that if a space station operator discovers an inability to accomplish and assigned earth station transition task, it must notify the Commission within seven (7) days of discovering the inability. (OMB Control No. 3060-1275). As part of a procedural public notice, the Commission plans to add a requirement that space station operators also notify the earth station operator, at the same time as the Commission, if they are unable to timely transition an incumbent earth station. This change will benefit the public by freeing spectrum for wireless services. There are no other changes to the information collection, including burden estimates.
