Program Description: Drug Education Council (DEC) is a voluntary, nonprofit organization dedicated to promoting a drug-free society, preventing chemical dependency, and providing quality education, information, and intervention programs. DEC is located in Mobile, Alabama, and it is certified in prevention services through the Alabama Department of Mental Health (ADMH). DEC uses three of the six Center for Substance Abuse Prevention (CSAP) strategies, to include information dissemination, community-based processes, and problem identification and referral. DEC's target focus is high-risk youth in rural, urban, and suburban communities. The council provides an array of prevention services and community service activities to youth through evidence-based programming for universal populations. DEC provides information dissemination with a focus on the "Talk. They Hear You." Campaign. DEC promotes community-based processes by focusing on coalition-building and stakeholder activities to include youth-adult partnerships addressing community issues; needs assessments and resource assessments; community and volunteer training; multiagency coordination and collaboration/coalition; community team-building activities; and coalitions, collaborations and/or wellness teams, town hall meetings, and coalition meetings. DEC incorporates the problem identification and referral strategy by utilizing the "Staying Connected with Your Teen" program.

Program Description: Alcohol and Drug Abuse Treatment Center, Inc. (ADATC) is a certified prevention provider located in Birmingham, Alabama. ADATC utilizes four of the six CSAP strategies—education, environmental, community-based processes, and alternatives—to implement prevention services to high-risk youth. These services include coordinated efforts with the Boys and Girls Club, law enforcement, education, and Children's Policy Council. Strategies are implemented in a variety of mediums at various venues in the community, including “Too Good for Drugs and Violence” (an evidence-based curriculum), recreational and social events, town hall meetings, a youth prevention network of peer leaders/helpers, community service projects, and others. The environmental strategy focuses on compliance checks and the utilization of the “Parents Who Host, Lose the Most” campaign for all five counties served.

Program Description: Aletheia House (AH) is a community-based organization committed to empowering individuals and the communities in which they live with the skills and services they need to become responsible for their own well-being. AH is certified as a substance abuse prevention provider by ADMH and provides prevention services to youth in the Birmingham area (considered urban), as well as Macon County (considered rural). AH utilizes education, alternative, and community-based process strategies to implement its prevention programs. AH uses the evidence-based Positive Action curriculum to deliver prevention programs during summer programs. Alternative strategies are implemented by providing a summer camp for youth, recognition events, culturally based activities, and intergenerational events that promote positive family and community interaction. AH anticipates serving approximately 100 youth through these efforts. Signature youth prevention programming includes Kids Who Care. The community-based process strategy is allowing for the creation of a “Teens Who Care” group and the organization of town hall meetings. It is anticipated that 40 teens will be recruited for Teens Who Care.

The Mountain Lakes Behavioral Healthcare Substance Abuse Prevention Program

Program Description: Wellstone is certified by ADMH to provide prevention services. Located in Huntsville, Alabama, Wellstone primarily serves the residents of Madison County in northern Alabama. Since merging with Mental Healthcare of Cullman, prevention programming also extends to Cullman County. It implements three of the six CSAP strategies in Cullman County to include information dissemination, environmental, and community-based processes.

Wellstone has established partnerships with the following agencies: Wallace State Community College, Cullman County Sheriff Office, Cullman County Police Department, Hanceville Police Department, Cullman County Coroner, The Bridge Adolescent Treatment Center, Cullman County Department of Human Resources, Cullman City and County Schools, coalitions, advocacy organizations, media, local churches, and businesses. In Cullman County, prevention programming is located on the campus of Wallace State Community College in Hanceville, Alabama. Prevention resources are available to all students and faculty Monday through Friday. The office provides a relaxed environment that promotes healthy peer interactions while providing information about the risks of alcohol/drug use and abuse. Through this program, the prevention coordinator has the opportunity to build and establish healthy relationships with students and coordinate efforts with campus police. The overall goal is to reduce underage drinking. The prevention coordinator works with campus law enforcement and the administration to collect data on related incidents and reviews infractions with campus police to identify areas to increase, enhance, or implement further prevention efforts. The goals related to the community-based process strategy include the creation of a community coalition and community needs assessment. The environmental strategy incorporates countywide DUI checkpoints.

Program Description: The Agency for Substance Abuse Prevention (ASAP) is dedicated to strengthening community awareness through substance abuse education and prevention services provided to individuals, schools, industry, and affected individuals and families residing in the State of Alabama. ASAP implements four of the six CSAP strategies to include environmental, community-based processes, education, and alternatives. The agency also utilizes community events as additional forums. In addition, ASAP plans to focus on community planning for prevention efforts by the establishment of a subcommittee. The evidence-based program, "Mendez Too Good for Drugs," targets fifth through eighth graders in the Anniston City and Calhoun County area as an educational strategy. Alternative strategies include summer activities at the following locations: Tenth Street Elementary; Boys and Girls Clubs: Norwood Community Center, Constantine Community Center, and Glen Addie Community Center. The summer enrichment activities include the implementation of recreational activities, community service, prevention board games, etc. organized and lead by ASAP. ASAP uses the environmental strategy through its coordination with law enforcement to identify "hot spots" in targeted geographic areas and initiate prevention initiatives and activities to prevent underage drinking and raise community awareness.

Program Description: Northwest Alabama Mental Health Center (NWAMHC) is certified by ADMH to provide prevention services. NWAMHC uses five of the six CSAP strategies, including education, alternatives, community-based processes, environmental, and problem identification and referral to address underage drinking prevention. NWAMHC uses various community events and venues to provide information, including student-designed materials, such as health fairs, Sober Prom activities, and kids promotional week. Too Good For Drugs is the evidence-based curriculum used in county schools, along with after-school and summer programs. Youth participating in educational programs are provided opportunities to participate in alternative activities in classroom sessions, after school, and during the summer. Problem identification and referral utilizes the "Project Toward No Drugs" curriculum. Community-based processes focus on community needs assessments and other collaborative efforts with community stakeholders. NWAMHC Prevention intends to collaborate with Colbert County Children's Policy Council and other community partner agencies for community events, capacity building, and networking. Environmental strategies consist of working with the ALEA in Walker County to increase compliance checks. Past efforts in this area resulted in significant reduction in purchase of alcohol by minors as reported by the ABC Board.

Program Description: Mental Health Center (MHC) of North Central Alabama/Quest Recovery Center is located in Decatur, Alabama, and is certified by ADMH to provide prevention services. MHC implements four of the six CSAP strategies to address underage drinking. Too Good for Drugs and Violence is the educational curriculum utilized within the school system and community boys and girls clubs. Community-based processes aim to meet with community leaders, community stakeholders, and agency representatives to plan and implement prevention strategies throughout the community. Alternative strategies include community service activities, crafts, games, and physical activities at the Limestone County Boys and Girls Club during the school year and summer breaks. Environmental strategies include addressing the compliance rate through compliance checks and the media campaign Parents Who Host, Lose the Most.

Additional Underage Drinking Prevention Programs Operated or Funded by the State

Council on Substance Abuse-National Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependency (COSA-NCADD) is a private nonprofit organization founded in 1973 to promote the understanding that dependence on alcohol and other drugs is a preventable and treatable disease. COSA is the state affiliate of the NCADD, and is a member of the Community Anti-Drug Coalition of America (CADCA). COSA is certified by ADMH, serving Montgomery (considered urban) and primary Black Belt areas (considered rural). COSA implements four of the six CSAP strategies to include community-based processes, alternatives, education, and environmental prevention. Activities include the implementation of the LifeSkills curriculum with elementary and high school students, creation of a student organization to provide peer prevention awareness that addresses young adult problems regarding drinking and underage/binge drinking, and drug-free recreational activities and school policy initiation. To support the school policy initiation, two underage drinking campaigns serve as the focus: "Let's Talk Prevention" and "5 Bees of Success." (<https://cosancadd.org/>)

SpectraCare Health Systems comprises a team of dynamic individuals who take pride in promoting physical and emotional health and wellness. Certified by ADMH, SpectraCare provides prevention services and implements four of the six CSAP strategies: environmental, information dissemination, education, and problem identification and referral. Prevention activities are designed to provide education and increase awareness among individuals and communities to promote choices that lead to healthy living. Comprehensive, evidence-based prevention activities are available to provide the tools necessary for healthy living. Services are provided in Barbour, Dale, Geneva,

Henry, and Houston counties. Underage drinking prevention activities include the utilization of Ripple Effects and Active Parenting evidence-based curricula to support the problem identification and educational strategies, and the implementation of the Parents Who Host, Lose the Most campaign. The campaign also serves as support to the environmental strategies that include school policy initiation and DUI checkpoints.
 (<http://www.spectracare.org/our-services/community-services/prevention-services>)

Parents Resource Institute Drug Education (PRIDE) of Tuscaloosa is certified by ADMH, serving Bibb, Pickens, Tuscaloosa, Sumter, Marengo, Hale, Greene, and Choctaw Counties. PRIDE implements five of the six CSAP strategies, to include environmental, community-based processes, information dissemination, alternatives, and education. PRIDE remains the only community-based nonprofit organization in the Tuscaloosa area that is dedicated to drug and alcohol prevention, education, and awareness. PRIDE implements strategies to address underage drinking and binge drinking through provision of services to students ages 18-25 in the community college system. Educational and alternative strategies are provided within Pickens County to address ages 12-18. PRIDE continues to attain goals within the community by forming partnerships with Shelton State Community College, the University of Alabama, the Tuscaloosa County District Attorney's Office, the West Alabama Narcotics Task Force, the Tuscaloosa Police Department, the County Sheriff's Office, the Northport Police Department, the Children's Policy Council, the Tuscaloosa Mental Health Alliance, the West Alabama Chamber of Commerce, and multiple community organizations. Additional strategy implementation includes a media campaign, establishment of a subcommittee through the Children's Policy Council, and school policy initiation. In addition, collaboration with local police departments to increase patrols around bars and areas known for high alcohol consumption in those ages 18-25 resulted in a 5 percent decrease in DUIs (<http://www.prideoftuscaloosa.org/>).

South Central Alabama Mental Health Center (SCAMHC) is certified by ADMH and provides prevention services in Butler, Coffee, Covington, and Crenshaw Counties. SCAMHC utilizes four prevention strategies to address underage drinking. These strategies include education, alternatives, community-based processes, and environmental. The educational strategy provides Mental Health First Aid (MHFA) to community members and Too Good for Drugs to fifth-eighth grade students. Students participating in the educational strategy also participate in the alternative program, which is delivered in an after-school setting that is inclusive of substance-free activities. SCAMHC employs the environmental strategy through the collaboration with local law enforcement to provide DUI checkpoints and the promotion of the "Underage Under Arrest" campaign. In addition, SCAMHC aims to establish a subcommittee focusing on alcohol and other substances through the Children's Policy Council.
