Template for Semi-structured Interview Initial Recruitment

Sent on Behalf of Anthony Wallin MD, Medical Director, Urgent Care

Greetings:

We need your input! Intermountain Healthcare and the University of Utah are working with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) to assist with deploying an antibiotic stewardship initiative in urgent care (UC) settings. As part of the activities, Intermountain Healthcare researchers need to conduct interviews during in-person visits at your clinic, through virtual meetings, or phone interviews to gather a better understanding of knowledge, attitudes, current practices, and barriers that clinicians face regarding antibiotic stewardship.

What does this mean for you?

The team will be interviewing Urgent Care clinicians—each interview should only take about 40 minutes. All participating clinicians will be provided an overview of the study and be asked to sign for consent. Participation is voluntary and you can always decline to participate.

Why is participation valuable?

In July 2019, Intermountain implemented several new antibiotic stewardship interventions within our urgent care service line as part of a contract with the CDC. As part of that work, we want to hear about your experiences with these interventions and what you have observed. The results of this interview will be used to understand the effects of interventions and how they can be generalized and improved.

Whom to contact with a response and questions or concerns?

Please contact Ishita Singh (ishita.singh@imail.org) if you have any questions about the study or if you would like to participate.

Greetings:

We still need your input on our antibiotic stewardship initiative in urgent care! The research team wants to better understand your knowledge, attitudes, current practices, and barriers regarding antibiotic stewardship.

What does this mean for you?

The research team will be interviewing Urgent Care clinicians for about 40 minutes after informed consent is obtained. Participation is voluntary and you can always decline to participate.

Why is participation valuable?

In July 2019, Intermountain implemented several new antibiotic stewardship interventions within our urgent care service line as part of a contract with the CDC. As part of that work, we want to hear about your experiences with these interventions and what you have observed. Whom to contact with a response and questions or concerns?

Please contact Ishita Singh (ishita.singh@imail.org) as soon as possible if you have any questions about the study or if you would like to participate.

Template for Survey Initial Recruitment

Subject Line: Intermountain Provider Survey – please share your responses about Antibiotic Stewardship

Dear [Provider Name],

You are being contacted to participate in a research project investigating provider attitudes and behaviors related to antibiotic stewardship. We need your help!

In July 2019, Intermountain implemented several new antibiotic stewardship interventions within our urgent care service line as part of our contract with the CDC. As part of that work, we want to hear about your experiences with these interventions and what you've observed. Have you changed your practice? Are you providing more education to patients about antibiotic use? What tools and techniques have been useful for helping you improve your prescribing? The results of this survey will be used to understand the effects of our interventions and how they can be generalized and improved.
