Frequently Asked Questions

What is the Consumer Price Index (CPI)?

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) is a measure of change in the cost of goods and services typically purchased by urban consumers. As the only comprehensive measure of inflation at the retail level, the CPI is widely used by private industry, labor unions, and the federal government to help in making informed business and economic decisions. Below are a few examples of uses of the CPI:

- The cost-of-living adjustments for over 50 million Social Security beneficiaries.
- The cost of lunches for millions of school children.
- Federal income tax brackets, so you don't pay higher taxes because of inflation.
- Payments in collective bargaining agreements.

Why are you verifying my information?

The Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) regularly conducts verifications on the accuracy of the data collected by its staff as part of a legally mandated quality assurance process. This contact is part of that quality assurance process, and your response will help the BLS provide accurate statistics.

What will you do with my information / Is this confidential?

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, its employees, agents and partner statistical agencies will use the information you provide for statistical purposes only and will hold the information in confidence to the full extent permitted by law. In accordance with the Confidential Information Protection and Statistical Efficiency Act (44 U.S.C. 3572) and other applicable Federal Laws, your responses will not be disclosed in identifiable form without your informed consent. Per the Federal Cybersecurity Enhancement Act of 2015, Federal information systems are protected from malicious activities through cybersecurity screening of transmitted data.

I did not participate previously, should I still complete this?

Yes, even if you did not participate previously, your responses will still be helpful. Responding to this questionnaire will help the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) improve the accuracy of the Consumer Price Index. BLS has sampled the listed unit address as part of the Consumer Price Index Housing Survey, and it is important that we understand the reported information.

Is this authorized/approved by OMB?

The time needed to complete this survey is estimated to be less than 4 minutes. If you have comments concerning the accuracy of this time estimate or suggestions for making the survey simpler, you can write to: Office of Prices and Living Conditions, 2 Massachusetts Ave., NE, Rm. 3655, Washington, DC 20212.
